U.S. Rejects Call for Talks

From UPI, AP

North Vietnam asked the French government Friday to try to persuade the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese charge d'affairs in Paris, Nguyen Tuan Lieu, made the request to France through Herve Alphand, secretary-general of the foreign ministry.

In Washington, U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird accused North Vietnamese troops of "marauding throughout southeast Asia" and said there would be no peace talks until Hanoi pulled its forces out of South Vietnam and the demilitarized zone.

"The enemy has scornfully rejected the American people's patience, restraint and desire for peace. Our patience has been met with propaganda and provocation. Our restraint has been answered by invasion. The enemy has escalated the threat and we are responding. He has dared us to abandon our allies and we will not," Laird said.

Earlier, the United States and South Vietnam turned down a new suggestion by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to resume the talks, saying the communists were trying to secure a military victory and not a negotiated peace.

Almost simultaneously the North Vietnamese military command, in an appeal to its forces disclosed here, called for an all-out effort to "li-

Red Viet Push Gaining Speed

SAIGON — The North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam gained momentum Friday, its troops capturing a major town on the road to Saigon, shelling a city within 15 miles of the capital and opening a fourth front in the Mekong Delta to the south.

The advance continued at a pace as rapid as 15 miles within the past 24 hours at one point north of Saigon despite heavy bombardment by U.S. B-52 Stratofortresses and jet fighter-bombers on each of the fronts.

The U.S. command also said it had removed its self-imposed restrictions on the number of raids by B-52 bombers until the offensive was stopped. More raids were ordered into North Vietnam for the third consecutive day — an action which has not been permitted since 1968.

In Washington Defence Secretary Melvin Laird said the aerial offensive against North Vietnam, now in its second day, would continue until Hanoi pulls its troops back across the demilitarized zone and bargains seriously for peace.

The four areas of major fighting were in the northern province of Quang Tri near the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands and to the north and to the south of Saigon.

The U.S. carrier Constellation arrived from Japan off the coast of North Vietnam Friday, adding its 50 fighter-bombers to those on three other carriers from which attacks on North Vietnam were being launched. Five destroyers shelled the North Vietnamese coast.

A fifth U.S. aircraft carrier, the Midway, has been ordered to Vietnamese waters. A Navy spokesman said the ship will arrive "within a month," possibly too late to help meet the present crisis.

A U.S. Air Force F-105 fighter-bomber squadron based in Kansas had been sent to the area and others may be on the way.

The North Vietnamese news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi monitored in Tokyo, said North Vietnamese shore batteries had heavily damaged two U.S. warships. U.S. military spokesmen said the destroyer Lloyd Thomas was slightly damaged by an artillery shell and three sailors slightly wounded but they made no mention of a second ship being hit.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong

Skyjacker Leaps With $500,000

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The pilot of a hijacked United Air Lines 727 jetliner said early today that the gunman who commandeered the plane and demanded and got $500,000 and four parachutes bailed out over Provo, Utah, the FBI here said.

An earlier FBI report that the man bailed out over Wilson Creek, Nev., proved false.

A United spokesman in San Francisco, where the hijacker originally forced the plane to land, said: "The hijacker has jumped from the plane in the vicinity of the Provo airport."

The United Spokesman said the crew members aboard the plane had checked and found the hijacker gone. The passengers were allowed to leave the plane in San Francisco.

Harry Nowaskey, night dispatcher for the state highway patrol, said: "As far as we know the pilot feels he (the hijacker) bailed out nine miles southeast of Provo."

The hijacker pressed a pistol to the head of Capt. Gerry Hearn as the 727 jet, United Airlines flight 855, was high over western Colorado en route from Denver to Los Angeles with 95 persons aboard.

Ordered to San Francisco, the plane landed at 4:15 p.m., where it was taxied to a remote runway bordering San Francisco bay.

The hijacker had released all the plane's passengers before ordering the craft to take off from San Francisco. the plane was airborne at 10:41 p.m. EST, heading east and carrying enough fuel for 4,000 miles.

For a time authorities on the ground and passengers on the plane thought there was more than one hijacker. The gunman used a prisoner who was travelling on the plane with a guard as an unwilling accomplice and had him pick up the ransom while the plane was on the ground.

Reuters reported that a parachute was thrown from

Interest Rates, Prices, Wages

Bennett Requests Ottawa Clamps

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Premier Bennett called on the federal government Friday to immediately institute controls on interest rates, prices and wages in Canada.

The request was made in a telegram to Finance Minister John Turner and underlined by the premier at a news conference called Friday afternoon.

The wire to Turner said: "This is to officially advise you the British Columbia government has already put in effect a 6.5-per-cent wage increase ceiling applying immediately to all groups who receive their finances from British Columbia taxpayers.

"Strongly and urgently recommend your government establish immediate curbs on interest, prices and wages in which case British Columbia government would promise its full co-operation."

Bennett told reporters the situation is serious because Canada depends more on export markets than any country in the world. He added if there is a continuation of the present situation, in which there are controls in the U.S. but not in Canada, then this country won't be able to compete in world markets.

Companies would then have to close down and workmen wouldn't only get lower wages, but in some case, no wages at all, the premier said. He said B.C. was trying within its own jurisdiction to protect workers, business people and the consumers.

"Unless we have this kind of controls (in Canada) we will pay for it in hardships later," Bennett said. "Generally governments wait too long before putting the correct policies into effect. Ottawa has already waited too long."

Asked if he was seeking voluntary guidelines on a na-

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former U.S. president Lyndon Johnson, 63, was listed in stable condition Friday after being taken to hospital with chest pains. He was reported resting comfortably.

Cuba's 'Fascist' Charge Denied

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette Friday rejected Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's charges that Montreal police used "brutal and fascist methods" while investigating a bombing at Cuban trade offices Tuesday night.

He also said he is still awaiting federal word on the diplomatic status of six Cubans arrested and charged by Montreal police before deciding whether to drop the charges.

The Quebec justice minister told a news conference he has concluded nothing in the conduct of the Montreal policemen conducting the investigation was reprehensible.

He said he based his conclusions on a report he received Thursday night from the Montreal Urban Community police safety council.

"I concluded that there was no brutality or action which could be characterized as fascist on the part of the Montreal Urban Community8 police," Choquette said.

The bombing took place in an elevator shaft outside the Cuban trade offices in northend Montreal and one Cuban man was killed.

Six Cubans later were arrested and charged with obstructing police following an angry confrontation with police. The men apparently were guarding the Cuban offices.

Public Pay Curbs 'Unfair, Nonsense'

To curb wage increases in the public sector of a province while the private sector enjoys no restrictions is no way to eliminate inflation, a B.C. Government Employees Union official said Friday.

"Public employees should be the last — not the first — to bear the brunt of wage controls, because their wages are running far behind those in the private sector," BCGEU general secretary John Fryer said in a statement released in Vancouver.

Fryer was commenting on a cabinet order approved Thursday which sets a 6.5 per cent public service salary increase guideline for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

"It is simplistic nonsense for a provincial government to pretend that inflation can be curbed by applying wage controls to public employees while there are no restrictions on wages in the private sector or on profits, prices and interest rates," Fryer said.

Fryer, a graduate of the London School of Economics and former research director for the Canadian Labor

Speeding Heart Aids Recalled

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The General Electric Co. said Friday it has notified 487 patients who have implanted electrical heart-assisting pacemakers that the devices may have developed a defect that causes them to speed up dangerously.

The firm said the pacemakers were made in a three-month period in mid-1971 and that no other pacemakers made before or after that time are involved. General Electric said all the patients who have pacemakers from that period have been notified of the defect.

General Electric will foot the bills for the implantation of new pacemakers which it will also provide free, a company spokesman said.

The company's big concern was "that we not alarm the big majority of pacemaker patients who aren't affected." He said the plant has produced thousands of the pacemakers and "only 4 per cent of the 487 have shown the operation mode in question."

He said the defective pacemakers could speed past desired levels and "such an event could increase risks to patient health of the typically aged pacemaker patient."

The patients with the possibly defective devices are already scheduling operations, he said, and the company has warned them to take their pulse at least twice a day until they can get new pacemakers.

The company spokesman said he could not say whether any patient has died from the defect or been ill because "that entails a medical question we cannot answer."

the aircraft after it had left San Francisco in an attempt to confuse pursuing coast guard planes. It said the chute was fitted with a beeping device and one of the chase planes following the hijacked craft had broken off pursuit to pinpoint its landing place.

The hijacking marked the seventh time in just under five months that parachutes and ransom figured in airline piracy. The only hijacker not apprehended was a man known only as D. B. Cooper who bailed out of a Northwest Airlines 727 with $200,000 on Thanksgiving Eve, somewhere between Seattle, Wash., and Reno, Nev.

Shortly after 10 p.m. EST, airline spokesman Mardy Leaver said the $500,000 had been delivered — left on a ramp about 100 feet from the plane and picked up.

It was not immediately known how many of the six crew members remained aboard.

Among those let off the plane in San Francisco was Sandy Wilkinson, 25, of Honolulu, an off-duty stewardess. She said most of the passengers did not know the plane was being hijacked.

"One man wearing mirrored sunglasses passed notes up to the captain," she said. "He had a dark complexion with a mustache curled up at the ends."

Miss Wilkinson said she understood the hijacker was armed with a hand grenade and a pistol. She said the money had been delivered to him in two suitcases.

Another passenger, Michael Luckoff, sales manager for radio station KDO in San Francisco, said the hijacker appeared to be wearing a wig. He said everyone on the plane remaind calm while the plane waited at the airport.

A coast guard helicopter carrying FBI sharpshooters was reported to have taken off immediately after the jetliner, but the Coast Guard refused further comment.

Lt.-Col. John Walkerof Hamilton Air Force Base had said two F-106 Delta Daggers were standing by waiting to "scramble to follow the hijacked plane."

Hard Approach To Drug Abuse

The hard approach to drug abuse will be shown in a film titled "11:59, Last Minute to Choose," at the Wayout Gate youth centre, 1318 Broad, at 7:30 p.m Tuesday.

The special education director for the Greater Victoria School Board, Ed Callbeck, will present the film and comment on it with a discussion period following. Young people are especially welcome, said Mrs. A. V. Piper, public relations officer for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the sponsors of the centre.

Bennett Requests Curbs

tional scale, Bennett replied that B.C. wants compulsory controls and he said this can be achieved without legislation by simply "declaring an emergency." He said the War Measures Act wouldn't need to be invoked but declined to answer further specific questions stating "that's Ottawa's problem, not mine."

Asked if he would also apply rent controls and seek curbs on profits, Bennett replied the province had given the municipalities authority to control rents and added he didn't want any control of profits because this would place "a premium on inefficiency." He suggested if federal compulsory curbs on wages and prices were insituted, profits could be controlled by increased taxation.

Earlier Friday, a cabinet order was made public confirming that the 6.5-per-cent public service salary guideline now is official. It states "no increase in the expenditures of the government in respect to salary, wages, fees or the contribution thereto for the whole of the public service of the province shall exceed 6.5 per cent for the 1972-73 fiscal year."

The limits apply to cabinet ministers, MLAs, mayors, aldermen and regional district board members as well as to the civil service, teachers and hospital workers.

berate" South Vietnam and destroy the enemy.

Democratic Senator Edward Kennedy charging Nixon's policy was to "let the slaughter proceed," led U.S. Senate Democrats Friday in a new demand for an end to the U.S. boycott of the Paris peace talks.

Kennedy touched off an hour-long debate which included presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey's confession that he was sorry he did not break with former president Johnson's Vietnam policies earlier than he did.

For his part, Kennedy urged Nixon to stop "posturing for domestic political gain" and seize the fertile and realistic opportunity for peace that he said the current communist offensive had presented.

"My outrage over the present murderous offensive in Vietnam is matched only by my outrage over the cruel senseless view at large in the nation today that the proper present policy for the United States is to let the slaughter proceed," Kennedy said.

Calling for negotiation of a compromise political settlement, Humphrey said, "We owe nothing to President Thieu" of South Vietnam.

Senator Barry Goldwater (R—Ariz.), called for an end to "nitpicking criticism" of the president and support for any action he feels must be taken to counter the all-out, well-organized, Moscow-directed offensive being waged against the South Vietnamese."

In response, Democratic senate leader Mike Mansfield said the United States should return to the conference table and "arrive at an accommodation."

"We have never had any business in Southeast Asia," he said.

The United States suspended the Paris talks March 23, claiming the communists were not serious about negotiations.

Britain appealed to the Soviet Union Friday to join it in taking an initiative toward peace in Vietnam, including the recall of the Geneva conference. The Soviet Union promptly rejected the proposal and called on the Americans to resume the Paris peace conference.

The British foreign office maintained official silence on its plans but reaffirmed its denunciation of North Vietnam for launching its latest offensive throughout South Vietnam.

Britain, which with Russia chaired the 1954 Geneva conference that settled the Indochina War, urged the Kremlin to either join her in recalling the conference or intaking any other peace initiative to end the escalating war in Vietnam.

Congress, said wage patterns are set in the private sector and not the public sector.

"The Bennett government appears hell-bent on provoking a confrontation with its employees," Fryer said.

"My reading of the mood of provincial government employees is that they won't allow themselves to be victimized as scapegoats of inflation by settling for these substandard wages.

"I am confident that many occupational and department groups within the BCGEU will reject the 6.5-per-cent increases in a wage ratification vote to be conducted by the union this month," he said.

Fryer said a shutdown by the 60,500 employees could come by fall.

Fryer said these wage demands were based on surveys comparing provincial employees' wages with those paid by municipal and federal governments.

The provincial government, Fryer said, agreed years ago through the civil service commission to these comparisons with other public employees as a basis for deciding what provincial wage rates should be.

"But the government has for several years refused to live up to this commitment with the result that provincial employees are paid on the average 11 per cent less than people doing the same work for federal and municipal governments," Fryer said.

Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, military commander of the Saigon region, ordered the curfew extended from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. in this capital of 3 million population because of the increasing threat.

A main force of 10,000 North Vietnamese troops Friday captured Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon and pressed on toward An Loc, capital of Long Binh province and its adjacent artillery and helicopter base of Quan Loi which lie 10 miles farther south on Highway 13.

UPI correspondent Leon Daniel, reporting from An Loc, said Friday the situation was "extremely serious, if not critical." He said air force F4 Phantom jets and AC130 Spectre gunships were attacking but that South Vietnamese troops defending An Loc and Quan Loi were heavily outnumbered.

Treating Vaginitis

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 17 and have this insane itching around the vaginal area. It is so unbearable that I scratch until I start to bleed. I used a vaginal spray six months ago, but stopped.

I take baths every night in the hope that somehow the itching will stop, but to no avail.—Miss L.H.

Dear Doctor: What is vaginitis? My doctor said it was a fungus that grows in the vagina. He also said the germ is carried by the man. What are the symptoms and the kind of treatment? Can it ever be completely cured? Is it serious?—M.R.

Itching is a prime symptom of vaginitis, and in virtually all cases there will be some kind of discharge. Vaginitis, in a word, is irritation of the vagina — an infection of sorts.

For 17-year-old Miss L.H., the essential answer is that baths won't do a darned thing to help. Nor will scratching. The sooner she goes to her doctor, or preferably to a gynecologist, the sooner the misery will be stopped. Continued scratching won't do any good and might do some real harm as it could lead to a more serious infection.

For both her and M.R.: vaginitis can be caused by a variety of organisms. A fungus or yeast, or a tiny micro-organism known as a protozoon. Those are the commonest ones. But pinworm, bacterial infections, diabetes, and a variety of other things are possibilities. So are the "feminine hygiene" sprays.

Medications, suppositories, medicated douches all are used as treatment — but choosing the right treatment depends on knowing what is causing the trouble, and that is why I suggest seeing a gynecologist if possible.

It is true that some of these infections are carried by the man — often without the man noticing any itching or other symptoms. Still, many a woman has been cured of vaginitis, only to have it return promptly — a reinfection from the husband (or, we have to add these days, from the sex partner).

Since the husband doesn't notice anything, he is likely to balk at taking medication, but a good many times that is the only way the wife is going to get rid of her itch permanently.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is a heavy beer drinker, from half a dozen to a dozen a night. I am afraid he is doing something to his health. Also is there a chance of becoming an alcoholic? He said that only happens to people who drink hard stuff. He looks very healthy but he has a big stomach.—Mrs. J.A.N.

People can become alcoholic from any type of alcoholic drink, and that includes beer. The drinks (any of them) represent calories, which helps account for the beer belly. Your husband would do well to stop kidding himself.

THE MAZDA RX-2 WAITING LIST

I'm interested.
Please add my name to your Mazda RX-2 Waiting List. I understand I'm under no obligation to buy, but I don't want to miss the chance to own one of the limited number of rotary-powered Mazda RX-2's as they arrive.
In the meantime please send me your brochure and other material on the Mazda RX-2 — Road Test Magazine's 1972 IMPORT CAR OF THE YEAR.

ROAD TEST MAGAZINE 1972 MAZDA RX-2 IMPORT CAR OF THE YEAR AWARD

But we've got a problem.

Canada's quota for the whole of 1972 will probably be no more than 5,000 award-winning Mazda RX-2's. It's not enough to go round. And nothing is more frustrating than getting that great new car feeling then finding you can't get the car you want.

So we've started a waiting list. The first five thousand people to send in this coupon will get first chance to check out and test drive the new Mazda RX-2. Once you've tasted the rotary experience you won't settle for anything less.

So fill out the coupon today. While you're waiting we'll send you a brochure describing the Mazda RX-2, its amazing rotary power plant, and all the features that led Road Test Magazine to write:

"In all the world there's no car like the RX-2 for the sports car enthusiast with obligations. The coupe fits a family with three sprouting children and the sedan will carry five people of almost any size in day-long comfort."

Mazda's rotary-powered RX-2. Sedan or Sports Coupe. They're worth waiting for. And too good to miss.

Must Police Itself–Williston

Industry Warned

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Ray Williston, minister of lands and forests, says the British Columbia forest industry must become more responsible or "we are going to be in a hell of a lot of trouble."

Speaking at the annual convention of the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association Thursday, Williston said the industry must police itself in such matters as supplying the province's lumber demands and controlling pollution, or the government will force it to honor its duties.

Williston said he's not a person who believes in fines.

Nevertheless, there were regulations which have to be obeyed, the minister said. If they were not obeyed, the company should not be in business.

" I suggest very strongly that the forest industry as a whole make an earnest effort to upgrade its pollution control activities as rapidly as possible."

The industry itself, which best understands its own problems and techniques, is better suited than anyone else to plan for multiple use of forests, he said.

Strike TV 'Better'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Warner Jorgenson, Progressive Conservative member of the Manitoba legislature for Morris, says he hopes the current strike against the CBC by the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians continues indefinitely.

The former federal MP told the legislature during debate on labor department estimates Friday that since the strike, there has been a remarkable improvement in CBC programming.

In the past, CBC viewers had been treated to "an endless parade of pimps, prostitutes, topless dancers, homosexuals, Communists and hippies all under the guise of Canadian culture."

Barrett Decries B.C. 'Banana-Belt' Ideas

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Dave Varrett, leader of B.C.'s provincial New Democratic Party, Thursday struck out at the policies of the provincial government and private enterprise which, he said, exploit natural resources and put people on welfare rolls.

Barrett told a luncheon for businessmen attending the northern resources conference that the idea of growth for growth's sake is "the most evil concept" perpetuated by the Bennett government.

He said there were those in the provincial government and in industry who believe resources should be exploited for the sake of exploitation and without regard for people.

He said that B.C has a "banana-belt" philosophy when it comes to exploiting its resources and that it had to be realized that a high-quality life was more than a matter of money.

The province received an eight-per-cent return on most resources shipped out of the country, he said. No royalties at all were paid on copper exports.

He said the province ships its iron ore and coal to Japan. "They make cars and we try to sell them to people on welfare."

Barrett called for co-operation and participation from the B.C. government and the federal government to build copper smelters and steel mills in the Yukon territory and in B.C.

Without such co-operation, people would continue to end up on welfare rolls, he said.

An Ugly Threat from Cuba

CUBA'S PREMIER FIDEL CASTRO has cried out in outrage against the Montreal police who dared to enter his country's trade commission offices after a fatal bomb explosion. And he claims that injury was added to insult by the treatment accorded people on the commission staff who were manhandled with "brutal and fascist methods."

Criticism of the Montreal police may possibly be justified, but in fairness it should be remembered they were responding to a bomb-alarm, to which Montreal officers are no strangers, and in the performance of what they not unreasonably supposed to be their duty were confronted by armed and threatening Cuban guards.

In the rather extraordinary circumstances it is hardly surprising that the police officers reacted with some vigor. It is fortunate, in fact, that they didn't open fire. Had the confrontation occurred in Havana it is permissible to wonder whether the Cuban police would have showed the same restraint against gunwielding strangers.

It is the Cuban contention that the Montreal police "intruded' into premises enjoying the status of extraterritoriality — and consequently diplomatic immunity. And the Canadian government, through the acting external affairs' minister, C. M. Drury, seems to concede the point. That does not necessarily prove it.

Under international law, personnel in missions — embassies, legations and consulates — are generally immune from the jurisdiction of the government to which they are accredited, and their establishment is considered a part of their home country. Whether or not this applies to a trade commission office is debatable, particularly when "private property is subject to municipal law," whether foreign-owned or not.

The point is of secondary importance.

The Montreal policemen involved in this affair should be considered to have acted with courage and expedition in rushing to the scene of an explosion which might have involved extensive casualties, or fire, or some sort of continuing criminal behavior.

But no matter how they are judged, Premier Castro's veiled suggestion of reprisal against the Canadian embassy in Havana cannot be justified.

"We have received reports on these serious and disgraceful events," the Cuban premier said in public in reference to the Montreal incident. "It appears that they (the Canadian government) may have forgotten that there is a Canadian embassy ..." The roar of the crowd drowned out conclusion of the obvious. He made his point unmistakeably clear, however, when he added that unless the Canadian authorities took steps to control the Montreal police "the Canadian embassy will have no security other than that which derives from this government."

Mr. Drury's apology was precipitate.

Give Tom a Ride

WHY NOT CUT CARS OUT of the heart of Beacon Hill Park? It would certainly improve circulation of the life stream of this beauty spot.

Anyone would think Alderman Tom Christie was a doddering old man the way he responded to the plan to ban vehicular traffic from the inner lakes-garden area. "Who is the brain working behind all this nonsense?" he demanded to know as he complained that if it were done he, for one, would no longer be able to enjoy the park.

It would appear that all Alderman Tom ever does is drive the narrow blacktop in the inner circle and breathe in what beauty can be seen on the road fringes along with the monoxide he is adding to his self-restricted scene.

The point is, Beacon Hill Park can only be truly appreciated for what it is — a place of nature with many out-of-the-way beds of cultivated color for the enjoyment of people — by strolling its paths and swards.

It is not that expansive — the area involved in the car closure proposal — that having to walk it would mean many people would be denied its pleasures.

For that matter, the city government might investigate the possibility (with participation by other municipalities because the whole of Greater Victoria looks upon Beacon Hill as its own) of a wheelchair service for the aged, crippled and infirm. It would open the way for that many more people to come to know the real Beacon Hill.

Such a service could be operated from a concession just outside the park boundary to comply with Beacon Hill's non-commercial ground rules. Although if it was provided on a non-profit basis it might be given a simple setting on the shores of Goodacre Lake near the hardtopped walks.

It might find acceptance as a worthwhile project for one, or a combination, of the area's many service clubs. It has all manner of possibilities. Pushers might be provided for special cases through school and church organizations. And it might, through public subscription, be made free of fee.

Someone might offer to wheel a deal for the vocal alderman to show him what he is missing. Perhaps he would stop hollering long enough for the car-banning plan at least to be tested as suggested. Mr. Christie may make a point in his "What the hell are you giving me?" challenge to Mayor Pollen's likening of Beacon Hill to London's Hyde Park. Of course there is no similarity.

There is no need to make comparisons. Beacon Hill Park is something out of the ordinary in what it has to offer. To many of its admirers it would be even more "special" without cars.

A New Constitution Written

Doubtful Future for Sweden's Monarchy

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Stockholm

A RECENT photograph in a Stockholm newspaper showed a deputation of solid-looking gentlemen handing a document to King Gustav Adolf of Sweden. Everyone was smiling. It might have been the presentation of a loyal address by prominent citizens. In fact it was the ceremonial delivery of the new Swedish constitution, which strips the monarchy of all its power and which is, moreover, clearly designed to encompass its demise.

Hitherto the Swedish king has been a constitutional monarch, that is he has ruled through the Diet (Parliament) and retained certain powers, the chief of which is that of dissolving the legislature. Under the new constitution he will lose this and become, by legal definition, purely a figurehead. His function will be entirely ornamental: that of representation abroad and participation in what ceremony remains at home. He will be a purely formal head of state.

Furthermore, two provisions of the proposed new constitution indicate the dismantling of the monarchy. The traditional rule of descent exclusively in the male line is explicitly reaffirmed.

To quote one member of the commission of inquiry, this is "because, taking into consideration the extent of republican feeling, we do not want to strengthen the position of the monarchy by allowing female succession." And there is a proposal to abolish the present provision which allows the legislature to elect a new royal house should the existing one die out.

Hedged about by these restrictions, the future of the Swedish royal house of Bernadotte looks anything but certain. It began in 1818, with Jean-Baptiste Bernadotte, one of Napoleon's marshals, who was adopted as heir to the last king of the house of Holstein-Gottorp.

King Gustav Adolf is 89. He has two possible successors; the heir-apparent, Crown Prince Carl Gustav his grandson, and, second in line, his younger son Prince Bertil Bernadotte. Both are childless. Carl Gustav, who is 26, is unmarried. Prince Beril is 60 and living with a commoner whom he cannot marry because this would disqualify him from acting as regent, which he is periodically required to do.

The dismantling of the Swedish monarchy is hardly surprising. The introduction of a republic has been on the program of the ruling Social Democratic Party since it assumed power 40 years ago.

There is little belief in its possible function in the preservation of political stability, to which Sweden's neighboring kingdoms, Norway and Denmark, are acutely alive. The Swedes are reluctant to change the outward forms of their institutions, but this implies that with time they can be persuaded to let things go by default.

The present king is extraordinarily popular, but that is a personal compliment, with little reference to the institution of the monarchy. His benign, bespectacled face is often in the newspapers. His stamina and defiance of age are universally admired. Pictures of him examining the roses at his summer residence in the south of Sweden, or digging on an archaeological site in Italy — he is an accomplished archaeologist — have long been the landmarks of the Swedish year. Nobody would dream of hurting his feelings. The implementation, as distinct from the legislation, of all changes have been explicitly deferred as long as he is on the throne.

By law the new constitution must be passed both by the sitting Parliament and the next one following the general election in September, 1973. It is expected to come into force on January 1, 1975.

There is little controversy over the proposed changes. Swedes have tidy minds, and there is a fairly widespread feeling that constitutional eccentricities might well be abolished.

Thus, together with the projected emasculation of the monarchy, the system of orders and decorations has been changed. These are no longer in the gift of the king; they are in fact no longer of government concern. They have been turned over to a private foundation. Their award will henceforth be a private matter between would-be donors, whoever they may be, and the foundation.

Everything has gone remarkably quietly. That picture of the smiling king together with the smiling bearers of what may well turn out to be the death warrant of the institution for which he stands, is perhaps symptomatic. The Swedes have an ingrained knack of avoiding conflict in all fields.

Horrifying Possibilities in Ireland

By ANTHONY LEJEUNE

WHAT has happened in Northern Ireland now is the end of a 50-year experiment and the beginning of a desperate gamble. The settlement of 1921, which partitioned Ireland, establishing a free state in the south and a semi-autonomous British province in the north, was based on the hope that the two parts would finally learn to live together.

For Britain to re-assume direct control of the north is an admission that, after 50 years, no such healing process has occurred. Both Conservative and Labor Party leaders at Westminster have always agreed that direct rule was a policy of last resort, to be avoided as long as possible.

The British government has now decided that it could be avoided no longer; or, to be more precise, the British government, which provides the soldiers who are trying to keep the peace in Northern Ireland, felt that it must assume political responsibility for peace-keeping and peace-making — and the Northern Irish government, understandably, resigned rather than become a mere puppet.

Brian Faulkner, the Northern Irish prime minister, bowed out with considerable dignity. He would have agreed to make further conciliatory moves towards the Catholic minority, and to the holding of regular plebiscites on the possible reunification of Ireland, but he could not accept that his government should relinquish its responsibility for maintaining law and order, which is the basic responsibility of any government.

So Britain has taken over, ostensibly only for a year but it seems unlikely that the old system will ever fully return.

The hope is that the ordinary Catholics, who want to live in peace, can now be detached from the extremists and the IRA gunmen, and that the Protestants, who proclaim their loyalty to Britain, will be reassured by the British presence and by the British government's pledge that the status of Northern Ireland will not be changed unless, or until, a majority of her people want such a change.

But the effect could be very different. The Catholics, with the IRA still active in their midst, may feel that, having achieved the downfall of the Protestant government, they have only to persist and they will achieve reunification as well.

And the Protestants too may feel that the British government, having yielded once to the IRA's terror campaign and to Catholic demands, may yield again; that direct rule, far from being a guarantee of continued association with Britain, is a removal of the guarantees which they won 50 year ago; and that they must take the defence of Northern Ireland into their own hands.

Horrifying results could ensue. British troops might find themselves being shot at by both sides in a real and bloody civil war. IRA bombs might start exploding in the street of London. A strong movement might arise in Northern Ireland for a Rhodesian-style UDI.

The outside world can only look on with sympathy, and surely with some apprehension. For what Mr. Faulkner said when he resigned is true: "I fear that many people will draw a sinister and depressing message from these events — that violence can pay, that violence does pay, that those who shout, lie, denigrate and even destroy, earn for themselves an attention that responsible conduct and honorable behavior do not."

The British government may or may not prove to have done the right thing. But there can be no denying that it would not have done so much to meet the demands of the Catholic minority if those demands had not been backed up with bombs and guns.

Points System

MUCH as I admire Mrs. Elford's admirable qualities as mayor of Oak Bay, I am afraid her latest attention to traffic laws is misdirected, and I ask council not to agree to her submission for fines on top of demerit points.

My friend Leslie Peterson, attorney-general, in his wisdom, passed through the legislature one of the finest acts of modern times in the points system to relieve the pressures on the courts. If Mayor Elford's proposals were passed, the whole machinery of the judiciary would be thrown into chaos and the progressive effect of the act as it now stands would be reversed. The points themselves provide the necessary punishment in the possible loss of licence to drive. I doubt the report that my friend John Green, Oak Bay police chief, agrees with this latest proposal, and in any case, he is a servant of the municipality and must abide by what council says.

The reported increase in the issue of "points tickets" could, of course, be due to increased road usage by new drivers who may need correction.

Nitinat

Your March 16 issue contained an erroneous statement in its coverage of the Capital Regional District's decision not to suppport the Sierra Club proposal to include the Nitinat Triangle in the Pacific Rim Park. The statement "the board was asked some time ago by the Alberni-Clayoquot Regional Board to endorse the concept of inclusion" is not correct. Our board had asked the Capital and Cowichan Valley regional districts to consider jointly the question of boundaries for the Life Saving Trail portion of the park since it lies within our three districts and two meetings were held in Duncan last fall.

To date our board has declined to support the Sierra Club position and had hoped to review the multiple-use plan of B.C. Forest Products for the Nitinat area before taking a position on the matter. However, it now appears that this plan will not be released by the B.C. Forest Service and consequently our board will be shortly reviewing the matter of boundaries with a view to forwarding its position to the senior governments.

IAN S. ASHER,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Regional District of Alberni-Clayoquot,
Port Alberni.

And More

Your Alec Merriman column of Easter Sunday heaped praise on the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. policy booklet, "New Concept in Forest Use" and on the company proposals for the Nitinat Triangle.

In so doing he completely missed a few basic facts.

We presently have 35,000 square miles of B.C. under tree farm licence tenure of which 90 per cent is public land.

We presently have a grand total of 227,000 square miles of B.C. under various forms of timber management of which 95 per cent is public land.

Add to this 7,000 square miles of class B and C provincial parks either presently being logged or subject to industrial incursion.

Then in that perspective consider the 20 square mile Nitinat Triangle.

As to the new concept statement of policy, it is a reiteration of basic forestry principles practised in other parts of the world for the past 40 years and its public recreation consideration is long overdue when one considers that 90 per cent of their land tenure is public property.

Litter

Pollution is still a major topic. Litter is a huge part of pollution. So far, I have seen no indictment of the horrible mess one sees everywhere, made by unwanted and unnecessary door-delivered advertising by big firms. Not a day passes without huge piles of full-sized papers being laid at our doors or left to litter our driveways. This obnoxious form of compulsory acceptance of advertising costs these firms millions of dollars. These firms have the same articles advertised in our local newspapers. I make bold to say that very very few of the citizens who have these piles of papers thrust at them ever look inside them. Where's the profit in that?

On the short road behind our house, some bored deliverer threw a huge pile of such papers below the hedge of a beautifully kept garden. They have been soaked and scattered around. The sight is ugly and, as far as I know, contrary to the bylaws of this city. But nobody says or does anything about it. Is the householder supposed to go out and pick up these sodden messes? Surely not.

Some lazy young carriers lay our quota at the road entrance rather than climb up to the door. They take a large stone out of the rockery and put this on top of the papers. Are we to walk down there in all weathers to collect this unwanted stuff? As we do not use that entrance every day, the pile becomes yet another sodden mess, unreadable, unwanted, and undesirable. What about the litter laws of this city where this unending stream of advertising is concerned? Or are there any?

Survival

Can we survive? This question has been increasingly asked by concerned people. Recently it has been answered.

The Club of Rome asked Dennis Meadows, a computer expert in System Analysis, to find out. He used all available knowledge and expert opinion and fed this into the MIT Mega Computer—thousands of different hypotheses were used — all ended in collapse.

Using the present growth rates for population and industrial expansion, the computer predicted total collapse as early as 2020. Only complete stabilization of population and industrial activity will give us the chance to survive.

Can we change and abandon this concept of growth? We believe that we can if enough concerned people can see the problem so that a powerful lobby (non-party) can be built up to assist and help the politicians pass the crucial but unpopular legislation that is required. To this end we have formed a Survival Group in Creston with these simple aims:

1. To identify and understand the actions and attitudes which threaten our survival, both immediate and long term.

2. To promote understanding of the effects of these actions and attitudes in our community.

3. To counteract these by whatever means possible.

We, therefore, appeal to all concerned persons to join us in this endeavor. Write to us, form your own group or join the local anti-pollution group and broaden its scope to include population stabilization. We need concerned people who will write letters — start now by writing to us.

Wasted

The Kootenay Canal hydro-electric project, now under development, is likely to dry up some of the spectacular waterfalls on the Kootenay River between Nelson and Castlegar. In answer to some protests about the project, Hon. R. Williston made the following statement in a recent speech in the provincial legislature.:

"I agree that it will no longer be possible to view the beautifully wasteful sight of unused water cascading down the river ... We cannot afford such luxury."

If it is the provincial government's policy to eliminate everything which is beautiful but "useless," and obstructs the sacred goal of making money, why are they missing so many other opportunities? Indeed, they have a wonderful opportunity literally on their own doorstep. For what use to anyone are the gardens and lawns in front of the Parliament Buildings themselves? Maybe they are beautiful, but they are wasteful of good land too. Even the timber there is of negligible commercial value.

I suggest that this land should be used for high-rise apartments and office buildings. I'm sure such a project would be profitable to the construction industry, the real estate business and even the government itself.

An even more profitable venture might be to build a pulp mill there. I suspect this might run into zoning difficulties, but I'm sure these could be overcome. Where there's a will, there's a way.

We must not betray our sacred motto: "If it can be used, it must be used." So what are we waiting for?

Nixon Faces Tough Battle Over Economy

By RALPH HARRIS

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon, who has enjoyed wide approval for his foreign policy initiatives, now is running into trouble on the home front and possibly a much more difficult struggle for re-election this year than he anticipated a few months ago.

A new surge of inflation, continuing high unemployment and a battle royal with organized labor point to the economy as his No. 1 political headache and one that could decide the outcome of the election despite his dazzling success elsewhere.

The pressing problems on the domestic scene could well persuade Nixon to change his plans to remain aloof from the growing political battle until he is nominated as a candidate for another White House term by the Republican party convention in San Diego in August.

The economy is the overriding issue on which Democrats feel they can ride to victory in November because of the vulnerability of a president who managed to keep them off balance until the cost of living jumped by an annual rate of six per cent in March, despite wage and price controls imposed seven months ago.

As the increase in living costs was being announced, George Meany, president of the giant AFL-CIO, and three other union chiefs stalked out of the federal pay board. They left with a bitter attack on the administration's economic policies.

In ordering the pay board to carry on without the AFL-CIO leaders, the president accepted the challenge of organized labor, risking strikes and legal action against future pay board decision but apparently believing he can still count on most of the 14 million rank-and-file members of the AFL-CIO and the 70 million other workers who do not belong to it.

Inflation and unemployment appear to be the over-riding worries of the country, and these are the issues that usually rally the mainstays of the Democratic coalition, the labor unions, and traditionally put voters in the mood to vote against the Republicans.

The Gallup Poll reported earlier this month that 59 per cent of the voters approved of Nixon's performance in office, but this was the highest percentage in 14 months and far higher than the rating he normally wins.

The percentage has rarely moved above 43 or 45 per cent — roughly his share of the poll in the 1968 election and one which is constantly falunt by Democrats as proof that he is a minority president and can easily be defeated.

More Work for Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total number of Americans with jobs posted the largest gain in March in nearly five years and the rise in wholesale prices slowed sharply, the U.S. government reported

The report said total employment rose 620,000 to 81.2 million and that wholesale prices of food and industrial raw materials increased a modest one-tenth of one per cent.

The reports by the labor department's bureau of labor statistics also said that the U.S. unemployment rate edged up to 5.9 per cent from 5.7 last month but this was due to seasonal factors and the actual number of jobless edged down about 200,000 to 5.2 million.

The report on wholesale prices included the news that farm products and processed foods declined four-tenths of one per cent in March after several months of sharp increases. Wholesale prices are generally indicators of later developments in retail consumer costs.

Vancouver

Campbell Weighs Lockout

VANCOUVER (CP) Mayor Tom Campbell threatened Friday to lock out civic employees if they adopt a policy of one-day strikes against the city.

The city's 2,800 civic employees have said they will stage a one-day strike Tuesday to force resumption of the stalled 1972 contract negotiations.

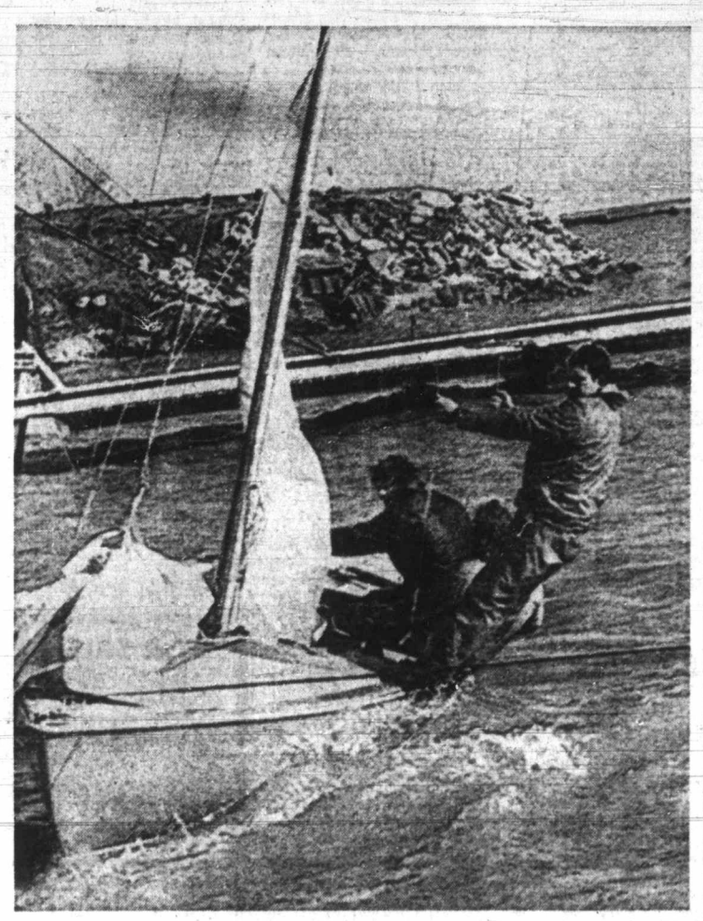

Campbell said that in turn the city might lock them out on Wednesday, if indications are such strikes are to be used on a hit-and-run basis.

"We're trying to run a city. If we've got to come to a show of power, which is ridiculous, the door is locked," the mayor said.

He fell short, however, of saying the door will definitely be locked Wednesday. He said it is a possibility to be decided by council at the proper time.

Meantime there were threats of more civic strikes in Burnaby and Richmond.

In both municipalities, workers served 72-hour strike notice.

Crew members of yacht Grayling rock it back and forth after boat ran aground near dock of Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club on Lake Ontario. Yachtsmen, captained by Roger Palmer, were practising Wednesday for Olympic trials in Halifax in June. They eventually succeeded in freeing the boat.

ITT Probe Broadening

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate judiciary committee voted 8 to 7 Friday to expand its investigation of the activities of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. and to end the investigation April 20.

Chairman James O. Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat, said the hearings will resume Monday and will include allegations by Life magazine on improprieties by the justice department in additiin to the qualifications of Richard G. Kleindienst to be U.S. attorney-general.

Eastland said the committee would have a week after the hearing ends to submit to Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana a revised report on the nomination of Kleindienst.

The committee had approved unanimously the nomination of Kleindienst to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney-general in late February, but Mansfield has held up full Senate action because of the current inquiry.

Shortly after the committee approved the nomination, columnist Jack Anderson published an alleged inter-office memo and an interview with ITT lobbyist Dita Bear, linking an out-of-court settlement of three anti-trust cases against the giant conglomerate with a financial guarantee to San Diego for next summer's Republican national convention.

Kleindienst asked the committee to reopen the hearing so he could answer Anderson's accusations about justice department improprieties.

Albertans Disenchanted with B.C.

EDMONTON (CP) — Bruce Mathew, president of a Vancouver real estate operation, says he may move back to Alberta soon because of bad conditions in British Columbia.

A number of other former Albertans are also considering a return to their native province, the former president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce said in an interview.

The main problem is B.C.'s estate tax laws, said Mathew, president of Weber Brothers realty operation in B.C. Businessmen don't want their money, particularly that made in other parts of Canada, to go to the government when they die.

But there are other reasons, Mathew added.

"I can do more business in a day in Edmonton than I can in a week in Vancouver," he said. "The business community on the coast is far less interested in doing business than in getting out to the golf course or off on the boat to go fishing."

Furthermore, he said, Alberta businessmen are much more open. Alberta was a completely different business climate.

Living costs are also far cheaper in Edmonton that in Vancouver, he said.

Mathew said he compared food prices in various chain stores in the Greater Vancouver area with similar stores in Edmonton. He found that meat prices were 25 to 30 per cent higher in Vancouver and most other prices 20 to 25 per cent higher.

Protesters Back on Job

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Three members of the Harrisburg Seven held a peaceful demonstration in front of a bomb casing plant Thursday, less than 24 hours after their conspiracy trial ended with a deadlocked jury.

"We will continue our anti-war work," Eqbal Ahmad, a Pakistani intellectual, said. "We have not been frightened by the government."

Ulster Causes Heath's Shuffle

LONDON (Reuter) — Prime Minister Edward Heath moved five government ministers from their jobs Friday in a reshuffle caused by last month's assignment of a special minister for Northern Ireland.

The only minister of cabinet rank to be shifted was Robert Carr, secretary for employment and productivity. He took over as leader of the House of Commons, the job formerly held by the man who now is in charge of the Northern Ireland problem, William Whitelaw.

Into Carr's job stepped 50-year-old Maurice Macmillan, son of former prime minister Harold Macmillan.

A minister to be dropped was Frederick Corfield, who, as minister for aerospace, handled British government dealings connnected with the supersonic Concorde jetliner.

Another notable move was the transfer of Christopher Chataway from his job as minister of posts and communications.

Chataway takes over in the new post of minister for industrial development. Succeeding him is the former industry minister, Sir John Eden, whose position is taken over by Tom Boardman.

Another dropped minister was Paul Bryan, minister of state in the department of employment, replaced by Robin Chichester-Clark of Northern Ireland's Ulster Unionist party.

Muscleman Bound for Jail

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — In 1967, muscular Donald Howorth was "Mr. America."

Later, he earned $2,000-a-week as a Hollywood film studio body builder.

Friday Howorth, 36, of Studio City, Calif., faced a prison term in Oakland for possession of narcotics.

Howorth was arrested in 1970 when he walked into the home of Hells Angel chief Ralph "Sonny" Barger while 20 police officers were making a raid there. The drugs were in a brief case Howorth had with him.

He was sentenced Thursday to five years to life.

Prosecutor George Nicholson noted that he was carrying enough drugs to supply 30,000 addicts.

Mine Speculation Cracks Record

VANCOUVER — Speculation in mining issues broke a 24-hour-old record in the Vancouver Stock Exchange Friday as total volume topped 10 million shares. Final total was 10,974,894.

Previous high was set Thursday with 9,273,323 shares.

Sparking the market fever was another favorable assay report of Afton Mines, drilling 10 miles west of Kamloops. Afton reports 4.24 per cent copper in a 270-foot interval starting at 330 feet and in the same section 70 feet of 7.4 per cent copper.

Surrounding mines are getting the attention from speculators. Six of them Friday traded about 2.5 million shares.

Afton itself, which was as low as $1.45 earlier this year, closed at $8.50 Friday after trading 13,100 shares.

Golds Static

TORONTO (CP) — Gold issues remained generally unchanged while prices in other sectors of the Toronto stock market climbed higher for the third consecutive session in active trading.

Communication issues scored strong gains. Metropolitan Stores was up 1⅞ to $20, Robinson Little 1½ to $63½, Placer 1¼ to $38¼, Asarema 2 to $21¾, Inglis ⅞ to $15⅞ and Chrysler 1⅜ to $35¾.

Among communication issues, Southam Press gained 1 to $24, Thomson Newspapers ¾ to $34 and Maclean-Hunter A ½ to $12½.

Struggle

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market extended its winning streak but not without a struggle. Profit taking, which had suffered late Thursday, carried over into the morning session. But prices strengthened gradually as selling pressure subsided.

Analysts said the market reacted largely to technical factors rather than news developments.

Banks Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Banks were up more than five points with industrials and the composite following an upward trend in light trading. In bank gains on the Montreal Stock Exchange, Bank of Montreal was up ⅞ to $21¾, Royal Bank ¾ to $33 and Toronto Dominion Bank ¾ to $32½.

Golds

LONDON (AP) — Friday's closing gold prices in U.S. dollars an ounce: London $48.35; Paris $49.66; Frankfurt $48.42; Zurich $48.45; Hong Kong; Beirut (holiday).

Manitoba Investment: Second Decline Year

WINNIPEG (CP) — For the second consecutive year, total public and private investment in Manitoba declined during 1971, according to preliminary figures made public Thursday by Finance Minister Saul Cherniack.

The estimated 5 per cent decrease in investment was the largest since 1961, when investment decreased by more than 14 per cent.

Cherniack told the legislature he was optimistic there would be a substantial increase during the current year.

Ontario Plans To Question Ames, Two Partners

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Securities Commission said Friday it will hold a hearing "to consider the fitness of continued registration" of A. E. Ames and Co. and two of its partners, William Beatty Macdonald and Ronald Alexander Gunn.

The hearing, set for May 16, will centre on disclosures made in the prospectus of Kaiser Resources Ltd., Vancouver, dated May 15, 1969, and certified by A. E. Ames and Co. on June 27, 1969.

Macdonald, in 1969, was an officer of KRL Investments Ltd., a holding company set up to enable officers and directors of Kaiser Resources and its U.S. parent company, Kaiser Steel Corp., to purchase shares in Kaiser Resources.

Thirty-six executives of Kaiser Steel purchased stock in the Canadian company through KLR. The company later sold a large portion of its holdings at a profit.

C. Lee Emerson, former president of Kaiser Steel Corp., had said the management of Kaiser Steel and Kaiser Resources "desired to obtain a broad Canadian public investment in Kaiser Resources and accordingly, the public offering in Canada was not registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission."

The Ontario Securities Commission, subsequently began an investigation of the trading through KLR Investments but dropped the investigation once insider trading reports were filed.

Forest Grant Bigger

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., Canada's largest forest products company, announced Friday that it plans to purchase the packaging products operations of the Flintkote Co., of White Plains, N.Y.

MacMillan Bloedel Chairman J. V. Clyne said the purchase will be for cash, "in excess of $30 million."

He said the transaction is subject to the approval of directors of both companies and is expected to be completed within three months.

The Flintkote packaging operations consists of 10 plants, with a total of 1,600 employees.

MacMillan Bloedel's major operations are in British Columbia, but it has manufacturing operations in other parts of Canada, in the U.S. and in Britain.

Trudeau Urged To Push Pipe

OTTAWA (CP) — Three conservation groups have urged Prime Minister Trudeau to discuss the possibility of a Canadian pipeline to deliver Alaska oil to market when he meets President Nixon here next week.

In a letter made public Friday, the groups noted "grave concern" among Canadians that a proposed route which included tankers plying the west coast of Canada posed the threat of severe ecological damage.

"We do hope that you and President Nixon will take advantage of the forthcoming opportunity to consider this alternative to transportation by routes which hold the threat of serious environmental damage to both Canada and the United States," said the letter signed by Jack O'Dette, president of the Canadian Wildlife Federation.

His request was supported by the Canadian Nature Federation and the Canadian Association on the Human Environment.

O'Dette's letter said it appeared that transporting the oil by either rail or pipeline posed fewer spill dangers than using tankers.

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

PROPOSALS

The Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District invites proposals for:

(i) design and working drawings

or

(ii) design, working drawings and construction for two Diagnostic and Treatment Centres to be located at Gold River and Tahsis, B.C. These two projects may be the prototypes for such units to be constructed in the future.

Subject to acceptance of any proposal for the Diagnostic and Treatment Centre at Gold River, B.C., the Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District undertakes to proceed with that facility.

Similarly, subject to acceptance of any proposal for the Diagnostic and Treatment Centre at Tahsis, B.C., and, subject to details of site being first finalized, the Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District undertakes to proceed with that facility.

The Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District is hopeful that outstanding site matters at Tahsis, B.C., will be resolved in sufficient time to allow contracts for the Tahsis and Gold River facilities to be let more or less concurrently and requests bidders to state the amount, if any, of overall price reduction that would apply in that event.

Lands and necessary services to the site boundary will be provided by the Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District.

VARIETY OF TERMS

Proponents must be prepared to enter into an agreement to provide appropriate services in connection with a design and set of working drawings and to accept responsibility for cost limits.

If construction is also proposed, the submission must indicate a firm price at which construction would be undertaken and give firm dates for completion of construction. In the event a proposal for design, working drawings, and construction were accepted, it is anticipated two agreements would be entered into, one contract in respect of design and working drawings, and another cotract for the construction phase. Any or all proposals, may not necessarily be accepted.

Deposits are not required at the time of submission but upon acceptance of a proposal, the customary practices as to deposits and bonds will prevail.

Proposals will be examined by, and final selection if any will be with the Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District.

DIAGNOSTIC AND TREATMENT CENTRES

Proposals will be judged by how best the needs for suitability for treatment and diagnosis are balanced against the requirements for economy of operation and capital cost control. Other matters to consider will be construction quality and starting and completion schedules. Sealed proposals in duplicate clearly marked "Proposal for Diagnostic and Treatment Centre" will be received until 4:00 p.m. local time, Monday, May 1, 1972, at the office of:

J. E. Hiebert,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Comox-Strathcona Regional Hospital District,
No. 4, 463 Fifth Street,
Courtenay, B.C.

Victoria Smells the Rat

The parcel was reportedly addressed to Mayor Peter Pollen but he disclaimed any knowledge of the incident.

City hall sources said the dead rodent was accompanied by a note explaining the sender merely wished to emphasize the problem he had with regards to rats at his residence.

He had tried in vain to get help from city hall in his efforts to exterminate the rodents.

Nobody would say who actually opened the package, but it was later removed by a janitor.

City Manager Bill Hooson wouldn't comment on the incident, but he said if anyone had problems with rats, he should immediately notify the provincial health department.

Trollers Prepare For Open House

An open house aboard decorated trollers will be held Sunday along the Causeway, by Greater Victoria commercial fishermen.

Spokesman Stockwell Day said about 20 boats would participate from 2 to 5 p.m.

Skippers will be on hand to answer questions and explain what gear is for, and there'll be soft drinks and cookies for the children.

Day said there were two reasons for the open house in the Inner Harbor. First, "we're hoping the people will realize the investment that goes into a boat, and the necessity to urge our federal government to declare jurisdiction over the Continental Shelf."

Also, said Day, the fishermen hope that if the open house is a success, it may become an annual affair, with the full fleet participating, at Fishermen's Wharf.

Equalization Row 'Cheap Politics'

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — A recent attack on the federal government's policy of paying equalization payments to poorer provinces was labelled "cheap politics" by Ald. Arthur Phillips of Vancouver Friday night.

Phillips, addressing a community planning conference, said some "less-statesmenlike politicians" are preparing to fight the next provincial election in British Columbia on the basis of federal giveaways to Quebec and the Maritimes.

Earlier this year, the British Columbia government said it would challenge in court the federal government's right to make such payments.

"While the attack on equalization payments is just cheap politics, there are legitimate reasons to question the merits of the federal government's program for designated areas," Phillips added. "In many respects, the latest program has become a giant pork barrel."

The alderman said the program led to such ridiculous situations as the Okanagan Valley of British Columbia being described as a depressed area. He said it was a beautiful, prosperous valley, but could become depressed if the government built "some rotten-smelling pulp mill in the middle of it."

Phillips said the Maritimes could become a great growth region in the 1980s merely by enhancing its attraction as "a good place to visit and live."

He said the Maritimes has many of the esthetic qualities that convince people to move to Vancouver. He said as other areas become increasingly polluted and congested, the Maritimes will become even more attractive.

Boys' Bodies Recovered, One Sought

SUMMERLAND (CP) — The bodies of three teenaged boys from this community on Okanagan Lake were found in the lake about 15 miles north of here Friday and a search continued for a fourth missing youth.

The three were identified as James Bennett, 16, his brother Michael, 14, and Gerald Huva, 17.

The four had set out on a fishing trip from here Thursday and an air and water search was launched after they had failed to return by 6 p.m.

Their 14-foot boat, powered by a 35-horsepower outboard motor, was found early Friday near Peachland, about 15 miles north of here.

Gift Tax Posers 'Critical'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some "critical problems" for charitable organizations have not been solved by a cabinet order designed to clarify the gift tax act, John Smith, chairman of the taxation branch of the Canadian Bar Association, said Friday.

Smith said that under the regulations announced Thursday any gift to a charity which is not exclusively for use in British Columbia is not an exempt gift.

"It does not solve some of the critical problems regarding charitable giving."

Smith said the regulations were "passed in a hurry to put an end to some of the excessive criticism."

He said he doubts whether the regulations will be in line with regulations in other provinces.

"If the federal government does the collecting of these taxes, it is necessary that all regulations to the act be the same."

Howard Naphtalix, executive director of the United Community Services which runs the United Appeal for some 60-odd member agencies, said the regulations "do not clarify the extent to which charitable organizations are excluded from exemptions if any money goes out of B.C."

Naphtalix said the Red Cross, for example, would have to opt out of any national or international responsibilities if it were to abide by the act as it is stated.

Surprised Party Barely Escapes

PARIS (UPI) — Residents of the fashionable Ile St. Louis were starteled to see a naked man run into the street, followed by a barrage of plates, cookware, paintings and a guitar thrown at him from the window of a nearby apartment. Police said the man, whom they did not identify, was the third party surprised at an inconvenient moment with someone else's girl friend.

ABOUTV

Week Commencing Saturday, April 8, 1972

Few funnymen have funny faces but Britain's Marty Feldman is an outstanding exception. ABC is taking a chance that the zany comic will be a hit in North America and will start The Marty Feldman Comedy Machine series at 9 p.m. Wednesday, on Channel 4. Producer of the Monty Python-type madness is Dean Martin producer Greg Garrison.

Kool

Up until the other day, the name James Komack didn't mean any more to me than it probably did to million of other tube addicts — he was just kooky Uncle Norman on The Courtship of Eddie's Father and producer of the series. Then I mentioned to a film editor friend of mine that I was going to be talking to Komack about his new pilot that's being completed. The film editor said that Komack apparently feels the same way about children in real life as he does in his role of Uncle Norman — which is the kind of thing we'd all like to believe and which is so rarely

No Regrets

I Regret Nothing was probably the biggest hit song of the late French singer Edith Piaf and became the theme of her life, so naturally it seemed the best title for a CBC special on the troubled lady. The color documentary is due at 10 p.m. Friday on Channels 2 and 6.

History Repeats Itself

Charming scene is the climax of an unusual war movie called Reluctant Heroes, due on Channel 4 at 8:30 p.m. today. Mayberry's Ken Berry stars as an army historian who falls into command of a trapped U.S. army group and uses the methods of brilliant generals of long-ago wars to save his men and get their job done. It's worth seeing.

Rerun Gimmick Causes Stir In TV Circles

NEW YORK (Special) — A new gimmick in TV network program sales is causing quite a lot of talk in show-business circles and a certain amount of resistance as well.

The three U.S. networks, who have been in real financial trouble since the 1971 cigarette-commercial ban was piled on top of a show-biz recession, have started offering series which are still running on regular TV to stations for rerun airing when they finally die.

Some of the series which are said to have been put up for bids are The FBI, Ironside, Mod Squad, the newest Lucille Ball situation comedy and Bonanza.

The networks need the money now but the early-sell idea has run into resistance because owners of individual stations can't even guess when they will be able to show the programs — when they'll finally leave the networks — and what the public's taste will be at the time.

Sources in the broadcasting industry say, however, the resistance may simply be an attempt to force the networks to lower the high prices they are asking.

NBC, for example, will not sell Bonanza for reruns unless the buyer agrees to take 280 shows and program each one three times over a four-year period.

The Bonanza rerun package has been on the market for a couple of months and only 30 stations have bought it, despite the fact Bonanza has drawn consistently high ratings for all but the first year of its long life.

Awards Music

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Henry Mancini will conduct the music for the 44th annual Academy Award presentations Monday, at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Soviet View of U.S. Television

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper has charged that American television is an "incubator of violence" and a catalyst for United States atrocities in Indochina.

Citing a recent American report on TV violence and its effects on children, the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda said a typical evening of television is likely to include:

". . . Cutthroats with six-shooters at the ready, unearthly monsters whose eyes radiate phosphorescene death rays, huge children-eating ants, a suave private eye with a silencer on his pistol, a lovely amazon with a Smith and Wesson revolver in her purse, and corpses, pools of blood, bats, poisonous scorpions, sadistic vampires, werewolves, drug addicts and ghosts."

American children, said the paper, organ of the Young Communist League, "see how all problems are solved in the simplest way: with a shot or a blow . . . and they take note. Those fuzzy-faced youngsters who are now committing atrocities in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos have had their share of television lessons. . ."

Code Protects Children

Networks Toe Line

NEW YOR K (Special) — The Television Code Authority of the U.S. National Association of Broadcasters, which works out advertising limits for the three U.S. networks, has taken another step designed to reduce undue influence of commercials on children.

The networks have accepted TCA guidelines governing commercials with premiums or other special offers and the guidelines will go into effect next October, shortly after the new season starts.

Their basic goal is to reduce or eliminate deception and exploitation of children and they contain a long list of standards.

The main one is that the amount of time in any commercial devoted to a premium or offer cannot exceed 20 seconds or half of the commercial, whichever is shorter.

Others are that the premium or offer must be clearly depicted in a still photograph and cannot be shown in stock footage, real-life counterparts, fantasy or animation.

The guidelines come shortly after the networks agreed to a proposal by the U.S. Federal Communications Commission reducing the amount of commercials in any hour of programming aimed specifically at children.

There was no word whether one of the guidelines barred the use of the phrase, "Tell mummy to buy," etc.

Thumb Tripping Release Pet Fear

Freak Shoots Wayne in Back

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — When Bruce Dern fired into John Wayne's broad back in the Warner movie, The Cowboys, the shot may not have been heard 'round the world, but it was certainly heard in the office of Dern's agent.

There its reverberations carried the message: his client was through playing nasty nuts.

"After I shot Wayne in the back," Dern says, "I told my agent, 'That's it. I won't play any more freaky killers.'

"I'd made too many sicky films, The Incredible Two-Headed Transplants, for example, in which I ate a baby. Two and a half years ago I made Thumb Tripping, which has never been released. But I'm afraid it will be sometime.

Good Part

"Yes, it was terrible, but, prior to that, I'd appeared in such exciting cinema as Psych Out, Cycle Savages and The Rebel Rousers. I've made five pictures with Jack Nicholson which nobody will ever see. With a track record like that, you don't turn down Thumb Tripping.

"Before I made The Cowboys, I decided I was through playing sadists and freaks; that I'd wait for a good part in a good picture. I waited nine months. No picture. Still, when I read The Cowboys script, I wasn't sure I wanted to do it, because how would you like to pick on litttle kids and shoot John Wayne in the back?

"All my life I'd thought of John Wayne as — well — as John Wayne.

"The Cowboys had problems but not the ones the critics mentioned. Its trouble isn't that the kids slaughter 12 men at the end. After I'd shot Wayne, what were they supposed to do? Send me a bouquet? The trouble is it never takes off into the beautiful slow-motion cattle drive it might have been.

"The fight sequence with Wayne lasted nine days. It wasn't easy, because he felt a little tight about it, too. I told my former wife to take our five-year-old daughter to see The Cowboys. I don't mind her seeing the role I played but I don't want to play another part like it.

"Hollywood is the smallest town in the world. People see me playing sick freaks and think, 'That's the way he is.' I've actually had parents drag their little children away from me because of my screen image."

Happily for Dern, his image should be much improved by a new picture, Universal's The Silent Running. A futuristic fantasy, it details a human space traveler's struggle against loneliness, his touching relationship with the robots who are his only companions and his final tragedy.

Bruce Dern

Absorbed Feel

"The credit should go to Trumbull (Douglas Trumbull, 29-year-old director of the film which was based on his original story). If the public doesn't treat him right . . . He's made general entertainment film for the entire family, something you can take your children to see, and I hope people appreciate it."

To prepare for his role as a man in the lineliness of space, Dern spent a week in Death Valley absorbing the feel of "nothingness and timelessness."

"The loneliness of space is the ultimate loneliness," Dern agrees, "but we've all known loneliness. Anyone whose car has broken down between Los Angeles and Las Vegas can identify with the aloneness of the space traveler.

"I was turned down at first for Silent Running," Dern continues.

"Gruskoff (Michael, the producer) was thinking in terms of Liberace. The picture was conceived very well. It has handles for an actor to hang on to."

Dern became an actor over the objections of his father, who was an attorney and Adlai Stevenson's law partner. Dern's grandfather was secretary of war under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and poet-playwright Archibald MacLeish is his great-uncle. So he wasn't brought up to shoot Wayne in the back.

Dern attended Choate and the University of Pennsylvania where he was a long-distance runner for the track team. He also became interested in drama at the university, a circumstance which eventually led him to quit school.

When the track coach ordered him to shave off long sideburns he'd grown for a play, he refused and not only dropped off the track team but out of school.

Dern's father, a member of the university board of trustees, was predictably displeased with his son, whom he'd expected to become a laywer.

The father died a year later, before his son had gained success as an actor.

"I love to play attorneys," Dern says, "but I wouldn't want to be one. The advantage of being an actor is you can do everything."

You can, unless you're typed as a freaky killer.

"I just turned down a part in Getaway with Steve McQueen," Dern continues, with satisfaction. "It's the first part I ever turned down. But it was a continuation of the part I played in The Cowboys and didn't give me enough leverage as an actor."

Phil Adds Zest to Play

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing Phil Silvers and A Funny Thing Happened On The Way to The Forum together is one of the funniest things that has happened around here in some time.

The 10-year-old musical is revived at the Lunt-Fontanne theatre. It was a success a decade ago with Zero Mostel in the leading role but I have a feeling that is a more comical entertainment with Silvers, although Mostel also is a mighty funny fellow.

In my view, the original production was done at the level of mad farce and well done in the manner. The revival is done at the level of mad burlesque and, frankly, I think the show gains by it.

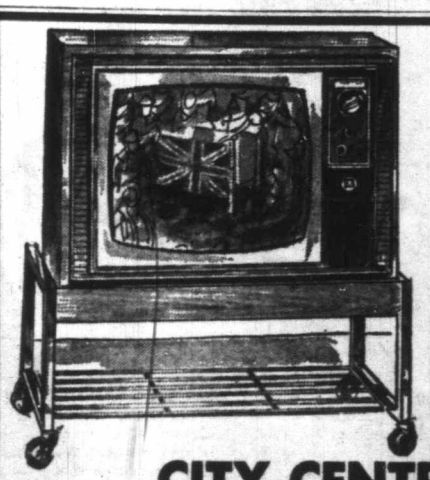

Anyway, there it is, a funny, hectic, frantic hunk of theatre that has to be seen if you want to laugh.

1930's Star Still Shines

One of the last Hollywood stars of the 1930s who is still working full time, Melvyn Douglas portrays a judge who keeps his teen-age daughter isolated from civilization in the 1965 made-for-TV movie Rapture. Patricia Gozzi acts as the daughter in this rerun, scheduled for 9 p.m. Monday on Channel 4.

Disc Jockey Riding Waves Of Nostalgia with Music

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist TV Writer

Nostalgia is booming everywhere — so much so, in fact, that an AM-FM radio station that opened recently in the U.S. capital at Washington is devoted to nothing else — and one of the masters in the field in Victoria is Don Bevilacqua.

He doesn't live here but is general manager of KARI-AM in Blaine and KERI-FM at Birch Bay and, most important, is host of KERI's Golden Years music program from 6:30 to 9 p.m. each Sunday.

The program has been going since shortly after KERI began operations in July of 1965 and any fan of popular music in the 1930s, 1940s, 1950s and even part of the 1960s will tell you it's good.

Big Bands

Bevilacqua, 43, plays everything from early Benny Goodman through Miller through Herman through Bill Haley through early Elvis to the era just before the Beatles. The big bands of the 30s and 40s are requested most, with Dixieland and Haley-era music close behind.

The short, greying radioman says his station has 1,500 LPs from the Golden Years, which he defines around 1910 to the early 1960s, with many of them his own.

His first recording was by Glenn Miller — he doesn't recall which it was — but his personal favorite is Goodman. Although he had been interested in pop music until 1935, it wasn't until he heard BG at a Seattle concert in 1943 that he found the one he liked best.

No Explanation

Like most nostalgia nuts, he doesn't have any hard and fast explanation for the boom. He agrees it may be because youngsters in the 1930s made up the first generation that could keep its own nostalgia through recordings and talking movies that have kept the sound and look of the era alive.

Bevilacqua was born in Roslyn, Wash., a coal-mining town and has worked in radio full or part time since he was a child and began reading scripture on Seattle station KTW through his attendance at First Presbyterian Church in that city.

Eventually, he became KTW station manager, leaving in 1958 to run KARI, which went on the air in 1960. He has also worked as an announcer at such well-known Seattle stations as KJR, KXA and KIXI.

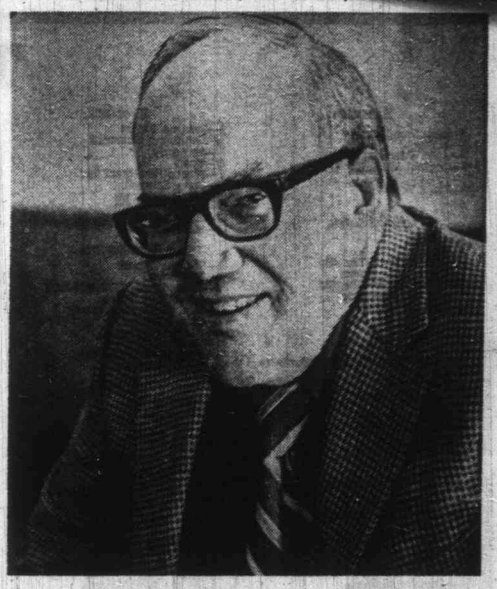

Birch Bay Broadcasting Co., which also owns two Seattle stations and one in Phoenix, is able to afford KERI-FM through the profits of KARI-AM, which is at 550 and emphasizes religious programs.

The FM end of the operation stresses contemporary music in the daytime and mixes it in the evenings with Golden Years recordings. Bevilacqua either picks the music or lays down the guidelines for others among the staff of 19.

But KERI doesn't want to overdo nostalgia. Saturday Night Dance Party with Jim Ashe has some of it and the only show with nothing else is Golden Years, once rated second in its time slot in the Vancouver area.

Canadians, says Bevilacqua, have one difference from Americans in their nostalgic-music taste: English material by Vera Lynn, Gracie Fields and the like.

Bevilacqua and Keri can fill about 90 per cent of the Golden Years requests they get. The manager feels the boom has to end some day but "for seven years Golden Years has pretty much been our No. 1 show."

Bevilacqua

TV Lures Samoan Samurai

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI) — In American Samoa, where television has been used as the primary method of education for nearly a decade, the people have been strongly influenced by the shows offered as entertainment.

Recently the evening program included the Japanese film classic Seven Samurai the story of seven warriors who lead a group of humble farmers in a successful battle against a robber band.

The previous good fortune of the Robber band apparently appealed to three youths from the village of Leone. They shaved their heads, mounted horses and galloped into the nearby village of Ili'ili.

The people of Ili'ili watched in astonishment as the invaders, waving three-foot-long bush knives and helped themselves to some loot — including a television set.

However, the young men of Ili'ili also are television fans and obviously watched the Seven Samurai. They pursued the young bandits, pulled them down from their horses and beat them up.

It Provides Something 'Everyone Needs'

There's Nothing to Watch on TV?

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist TV Writer

I've always believed television viewers are interested mainly in what's on today — plus a little bit in yesterday and tomorrow but none in the days before yesterday or after tomorrow.

Maybe that's why people are so often heard to say that there's nothing to watch on TV any more. They refer to a whole season when they actually mean a day, or two days at the most.

Regardless of the reason, has it been such a bad season? A certain well-known Page 2 Colonist columnist said recently it has and, much as I like and respect Gorde Hunter, I beg to disagree.

Without any more than a few minutes of thinking, I came up with the following:

● What if many series that had been expected to be good flopped instead? There was Search for the Nile, which was so good a viewer actually believed he was seeing the real thing. It alone made 1971-72 one of the best seasons in years.

● What if Jalna was a big disappointment? I've heard an increasing number of people say they like it and, anyway, that type of program was well represented by Elizabeth R, Six Wives of Henry VIII, repeats of the Forsyte Saga and several others.

● Is there anyone who doesn't like All in the Family? Ratings in the Victoria area for the Jan. 10-23 period show the Bunkers are watched by 58 per cent of the audience on Thursdays and another 35 per cent turn on the same episode Saturdays.

● Speaking of the Bunkers, the Sammy Davis-Carroll O'Connor "kiss," which AbouTV was lucky enough to get a picture of, was the comedy highlight of the season — and maybe many more seasons.

● The quality of made-for-TV movies showed a noticeable improvement. Brian's Song, the story of football pros Brian Piccolo and Gale Sayers, was just beautiful and rates as one of the best movies ever made. And it wasn't the only good TV-movie effort.

● Public affairs specials may have gone down in quality but wasn't the Diefenbaker-Pearson Years series one of the best things Canadian TV has ever shown?

● As for entertainment specials, there were several good ones on Canadian and U.S. networks, especially PBS. My personal favorite was James Whitmore as Will Rogers but that was only one on a lengthy list.

● The decision of CBS to show films at 11:30 p.m. weekdays raised the calibre of late-movie choice. And all networks showed many popular movies in primetime; for example, Cleopatra may not have been good but its audience was huge.

● Did 1971-72 produce any new hits? Try Redd Foxx as Sanford (and Son) or Peter Falk as Columbo, although I preferred Rock Hudson's McMillan for its hilarious writing. And meanwhile, Flip Wilson, Mary Tyler Moore, Night Gallery and several other series continued to combine quality with popularity.

● For girlwatchers, this has been the season of Sonny's wife Cher. It's a pretty good series but, with all its faults, it has Cher — or should I say, it has her undressmaker.

● The season can't be considered a total loss from the commercials point of view. There were no cigarette blurbs, although slow-motion boys and girls contined to run across meadows, and there was the "try it, you'll like it" waiter and the man who bemoaned, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing."

● Sports thrills abounded. One that made 1971-72 a season for all seasons was Pete Mahovlich's 1-0 goal against Toronto in Montreal with two seconds left. I know two teenagers who would rank that moment with Bobby Thomson's homer if they knew who Bobby Thomson was.

Please do not consider this a diatribe against those who seek to improve quality on TV. I wish them luck but I also ask them to remember they are trying to remold the thing which gives the great mass of North Americans something everyone needs: escapism.

After all, nobody likes television except the people who watch it, which is nearly everybody.

Jean Seberg Weds

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa (AP) — The parents of actress Jean Seberg have disclosed their daughter's marriage to film director Dennis Berry, an American who has lived in Paris since childhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seberg said their daughter, who achieved stardom as Joan of Arc, and Berry were wed in Las Vegas and returned immediately to Paris, where Miss Seberg is making The Assassination Attempt.

It was the third marriage for the American actress.

Charlie Returns To Changed Place

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The little tramp is returning to the Hollywood he helped make famous. He'll find the old place changed.

Charlie Chaplin, 83, will be the guest of honor when the 44th awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are given at the Los Angeles Music Centre Monday. He will be handed an honorary Oscar for "the incalculable effect he has had in making motion pictures the art form of this century."

The comedian and co-founder — with Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith — of United Artists will find a different film industry from the one he left 20 years ago.

In 1952, when Chaplin went to Europe, then found his U.S. visa revoked, the American film industry was still operating full tilt. All the major studios had large rosters of contract stars.

One long-time tradition will be broken. Bob Hope will not appear, due to a conflict in television sponsors. The show will feature such emcees as Sammy Davis, Alan King, Jack Lemmon and Helen Hayes.

Hard Work

The central attraction of the Oscar cast remains the awards themselves. Each year brings greater suspense, because there are rarely cinch winners anymore. That makes the predictor's work even harder. But predict we must, so . . .

Best Picture — Although A Clockwork Orange captured honors from the New York film critics, its raw violence and sex do not turn on the academy's mature voters.

The race appears to be between The Last Picture Show and The French Connection, with the former favored because of its more artistic pretensions. If those two films split the vote, the award could go to Fiddler on the Roof.

Choice: The Last Picture Show.

Strong Role

Best actor — Last year's winner George C. Scott is up for The Hospital, in which he played another strong role but not as compelling as Patton. Walter Matthau won many hearts with Kotch, as did Topol in Fiddler on the Roof.

The real contention seems to be between Peter Finch as the homosexual doctor in Sunday Bloody Sunday and Gene Hackman, the relentless cop of The French Connection.

Choice: Gene Hackman.

Best actress — Not a strong race this year. Jane Fonda, the resourceful call girl of Klute, faces four British actresses: Julie Christie, McCabe and Mrs. Miller; Vanessa Redgrave, Mary, Queen of Scots; Glenda Jackson, Sunday Bloody Sunday; Janet Suzman, Nicholas and Alexandra.

Choice: Jane Fonda.

Best director — Again it's a race between The French Connection, directed by William Friedkin, and The Last Picture Show, directed by Peter Bogdanovich. Also in the running are Stanley Kubrick for A Clockwork Orange, Norman Jewison for Fiddler on the Roof and John Schlesinger for Sunday Bloody Sunday.

Choice: Peter Bogdanovich.

Actor Is Kept Posted With Royalty Cheques

SASKATOON (CP) — Probably the least significant role in Raymond Clarke's acting career continues to be financially rewarding.

"I keep getting royalty cheques each time The Forsyte Saga goes into a new country," says Clarke, who played a doctor in two episodes of the British Broadcasting Corporation television series.

Now a drama professor the University of Saskatchewan, Clarke said he learned a few things from being able to watch the filming and believed the success of the series resulted from using quality actors, even in some of the less significant roles.

The experience also excites him about television's role in drama.

"Television can give us much hope in the future," he said in an interview.

Star Trek Won't Go

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nothing fades faster than a cancelled television series, they say. So how come Star Trek won't go away?

This show about galaxy-hopping spacemen of the future went off the network nearly four years ago, yet enthusiasm still waxes hot among its fans.

Star Trek, which featured Montreal-born actor William Shatner, has engendered a cult unlike any other series, and for thousands of people the Star Ship Enterprise is still out there exploring new worlds.

Nearly 4,000 people attended a Star Trek convention in New York last January and conventions are planned next year for New York and Santa Barbara, Calif. Enthusiasts in Manchester, England, started a Star Trek festival.

In Boston, episodes are used in graduate seminars at Emerson College to get students talking. Other colleges and high schools also use the show and a few hospitals show certain episodes to mental patients.

Several community playhouses have put on original Star Trek plays, including the one in Denham Springs, La., which staged the Romulan Encouter last Nov. 15-19.

More than 100 privately-published fan magazines are devoted to this series and its characters.

NBC has asked its creater, Gene Roddenberry, to do a Star Trek Returns movie, which in turn would be a pilot for a new series. Star Trek is syndicated to about 125 stations in the United States.

Smith Family Returns

Henry Fonda's detective series Smith Family didn't make it into the second season on ABC last January but the network still had some unused episodes that were a financial drag. So the series will return to Channel 4 at 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, starting this coming week, until all old episodes are rerun and all unused ones are seen.

'I Don't Feel Like a Star' Says High Flying Glenda

By GEORGE WALDO
Copley News Service

LONDON — It's an hour's drive out to Blackheath and as the insistent rain makes the going more hazardous, you begin to wonder why one of the world's highest paid and highest praised actresses doesn't live in Knightsbridge or Kensington.

Of course, last year's Academy Award winner Glenda Jackson was sound asleep in this old brick house when in Los Angeles at the Music Center the envelope was opened naming her best actress for her portrayal of the liberated Godrun in Women in Love.

'But I'll be going there this time," she assures you, taking your wet coat and leading you into a modest living room cluttered with the toys of her two-year-old son Daniel, who, she says softly, has just gotten down for his afternoon nap.

Nominated this year for her career girl role in Sunday, Bloody Sunday, she might have been nominated for her regal Elizabeth in Mary, Queen of Scots.

'Last year I played Elizabeth from age 15 to 69 on BBC's six-part television series," she explains. "So I got to know her pretty well. She was not too easy to live with though, and I'm not sure my husband Roy doesn't think the same thing about me sometimes."

Born in Cheshire ("just like the cat") 34 years ago, her father a bricklayer and her mother a food store cashier, she left school as a teen-ager. Working in a drugstore ("selling laxatives and eye drops"), She did some amateur theater ("where I got vaguely bitten") and then wrote off to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, who promptly awarded her a scholarship.

She spent a few years in repertory, married Roy Hodges 14 years ago, and found that "things were a bit barren for a while. Sometimes I had to work as a waitress or a receptionist." But finally came the Royal Shakespeare Company and director Peter Brook, in whose Marat Sade she first began attracting attention both in London and in New York.

Her plain face, without makeup and framed by straight brown hair, somehow doesn't look like a movie star's face.

"I don't feel like a movie star," she says. "Besides, most of the actors I know, at least the English ones, are normal, hard-working people.

"But for some reason, I always seem to be cast as a rather headstrong, neurotic sort of woman. For that reason I think my most important job is to adjust myself to each new role. Each time out, I try to find something in the character to believe in.

'And I always try to understand how the character viewed the world. Now I don't say I agree with her — it's just that I try to understand."

Prostitute Says Laws Impede 'Good Way of Life'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Seattle prostitute and the sheriff of San Francisco County, appearing on a public affairs program agreed that prostitution should be legalized.

The current laws interfere with "a good way of life," said the prostitute, just released after serving 53 days in jail and appearing under the alias Gina McDowell.

"I enjoy the business and I love my customers," she said.

"I love to work with them. I help them in many ways."

Sheriff Richard Hongisto, appearing with her on the public broadcasting service program The Advocates, described the laws against prostitution as "totally ineffective," a drain on police manpower and budgets and an unwarranted intrusion into the private lives of people who are not hurting anyone else.

"The government should not intrude into the privacy of individual lives in non-victim areas," Hongisto said. "You have in these situations a willing buyer and a willingter."

Hongisto, who took office in January after 10 years as a policeman, said the efforts to arrest prostitutes "takes forces away from more serious crimes, and generally involves a lot of expense that should be avoided."

The usual arrest methods include decoys and surveillance mechanisms that are "the most degrading tactics of all to law enforcement," the sheriff said.

The prostitute said she was arrested by a force of nine vice squad officers in her home.

"I had an escort of nine police to take me to jail, which seems a little ridiculous, because, you know, they could be servicing people who really need help," she said.

CBS Staging Tennis Classic

The first annual CBS Tennis Classic is a 14-match elimination tourney and championship that CBS will broadcast on Sunday afternoons May 12 through Aug. 27. The top 16 World Championship Tennis professional tour players will compete. The matches will be played and video-taped at Sea Pines Plantation, Hilton Head Island, S.C., beginning March 21.

Hostess Picked For Girl Talk

ABC Films is going to resume production of the Girl Talk series for syndication, and Vonda Van Dyke, a former Miss America, has been chosen as hostess. The program had an eight-year run before it was shelved in 1970.

Commercial a Hit

Indigestion Helped Milt

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best thing that ever happened to comedian Milt Moss was indigestion.

Although he has worked night clubs, conventions and industrial shows across the country, appeared on television and before all sorts of groups, his name has not been a household word.

But everyone knows him now — by sight if not by name. He's the pudgy, dishevelled fellow in the television ad who sits on the edge of the bed in his rumpled pajamas and says, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing."

That commercial was filmed early in January, after Moss and about a hundred other actors auditioned for the role.

"It's the best thing that ever happened to me," Moss said. "Audiences used to laugh after my first joke — now they laugh before my first joke."

If they don't recognize him immediately, all he has to do is repeat the line from the commercial and it means instant chuckles. The commercial really has added impact to my stature as an entertainer. It's opened a lot of doors. Take for instance 'Laugh-In'," he said. "They wouldn't even listen to me before. They sent back the tapes and brochures I sent them without even looking. Now it's different. Now everything's different."

The man behind the ad character has always wanted to be a comedian, ever since his elementary school days in New York when he would sell paper hotdogs or pull a turkey leg out of his pocket and chew on it walking down the school halls — to the amusement of his classmates and the dismay of his teachers.

He comes by his trade naturally — his father was comedian Edward Clarke, billed as The Dean of Comedy Waiters, who up until his death at 76 was still performing three or four shows a week.

Now Moss, who is 45, performs 250 to 300 one-night stands a year, sometimes as a stand-up comedian but increasingly as a character impersonator.

"It started seven or eight years ago," he said, "as an off-shoot of my work as a dialectian — nothing to offend, just to give color and character to funny stories. I was doing a show for a big cosmetics firm and my agent asked me, 'Why don't you pose as representing their plant in France, as a hoax, and mix with the people — then after dinner, surprise them."

He did and the audience was enthusiastic. He was helped by the fact that he speaks fluent French — as well as Spanish, some Italian and even a smattering of Cantonese picked up during his extensive adventures in the exotic world of Chinese food.

He has posed as everything from an Israeli spy to the son of a French shipping tycoon to the second attache of the Italian embassy. He is introduced around during cocktails, speaking seriously. After dinner he is introduced and speaks seriously for about five minutes.

Then he delivers a mild shocker, as the time when, posing as Puerto Rican representative for the company that makes Bayer Aspirin, he repeated the slogan Bayer Works Wonders, then added, still deadpan, "too bad it doesn't cure headaches."

With that he whips off his glasses, moustache or other bits of disguise and goes into his regular comedy act.

Sandy Flips Over Wonder Dog

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD — Sandy Duncan, who hasn't had much to laugh about lately, is still laughing over Flip Wilson's aside while she was doing a guest shot on his show.

Speaking of Ralphie, the Invisible Wonder Dog, Flip claimed, "He's very loyal to me, and he should be. He was nothing until I got him."

Larry Casey, an alumnus of Rat Patrol, has taken over the role of Rodney Harrington in the new Peyton Place. Song of the South, Disney's delightful picture about Uncle Remus, Br'er Rabbit and all the critters, is making more money on re-release than any other re-released film in the studio's history. It sat on the shelf for a generation lest it offend the blacks but, so far as the Disney organization can tell, blacks as well as whites in current audiences love it.

They should, too, because

More About Disney Than Cleanliness

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ron Miller leaned his massive frame back in his black leather chair, smiled and said: "People think if it's clean it's Disney. But we require story and conflict just like everyone else."

Miller, 245-pound former end for Los Angeles Rams, has a lot to smile about as executive producer for Walt Disney Productions.

At a time when production is at a standstill for many series while they await their fate in the fall network schedules, Miller's crews are hard at work on The Wonderful World of Disney. Not for next season, but the season after that.

The show is signed with NBC through the 1973-74 season and has an option for the following year. The long lead time is needed for the nature-study films, which take up to 1½ years to complete.

After 18 years, the Disney formula remains the same: warmth, pathos, visual comedy, high adventure.

It is difficult to tell from a look at the series that Disney, who died in 1967, is not still at the helm. At the studio he is still spoken of as though he were in the next room and might walk in at any minute.

Boy Turns To Puppet

Fable Turned Around

ROME (AP) — Once upon a time there was a little boy who turned into a wooden puppet when he was bad. Yes, his name was Pinocchio. But hasn't somebody got the story backward?

The reverse twist to the 19th-century children's fable of the puppet who turned into a boy is Italian film director Luigi Comencini's modern version. His serial movie, a West German-French-Italian production, will start today on Italian television

The book by Carlo Coglodi and the film start out the same way. The lonely carpenter Gepetto makes himself a wooden puppet. After he falls asleep, the fairy shows up. But at this point the film goes off on a new tack.

In Collodi's book, the fairy promises Pinocchio if he is good he will become a real little boy. But the puppet finds it a long, hard road. He is continually in trouble.

Comencini has his blue-haired fairy, played by Gina Lollobrigida, turn Pinocchio into a real boy immediatly so Gepetto will have a companion. But Pinocchio will turn back into a puppet if he misbehaves. Of course he does, three times in the course of the film.

Comencini sees Pinocchio as the story of adults blackmailing children into being good with threats. He admits his sympathy is all with Pinocchio.

Kooky Uncle Really Likes Kids

Inside the Tube
With Bill Mahan

Up until the other day, the name James Komack didn't mean any more to me than it probably did to million of other tube addicts — he was just kooky Uncle Norman on The Courtship of Eddie's Father and producer of the series. Then I mentioned to a film editor friend of mine that I was going to be talking to Komack about his new pilot that's being completed. The film editor said that Komack apparently feels the same way about children in real life as he does in his role of Uncle Norman — which is the kind of thing we'd all like to believe and which is so rarely the case. But I'm always ready to believe one more time and here's how the story went:

Komack was having lunch in his office at MGM when two small faces peered in on him and asked how they could get to stage 30. That happened to be the stage where Komack was directing a show (he does that, too), so he asked the children who they wanted to see and how they got on the lot. They admitted they'd sneaked in and wanted to see Bill Bixby and Branden Cruz. Komack said he'd allow them to come to the stage and watch some of the shooting if they would tell him how they'd sneaked in. The kids agreed, and the studio police were summoned.

There has been considerable theft from offices on the MGM lot and naturally management was eager to plug any holes that might allow outsiders to get in. It was obvious these 9 and 12-year-olds weren't the thieves but the way they gained entrance might be the way the real rip-off artists were making it in. The two were more than willing to divulge their secret for a chance to see some picture making.

Komack had finished his lunch and was well into the afternoon's shooting when it dawned on him that his two small friends had never arrived for their promised reward. He instructed his assistant director to call the police department and see what had happened. The assistant returned and reported to Komack that everything had gone according to plan until the police received orders from someone in studio security to call the kid's mother and throw them off the lot.

Komack halted shooting and began making phone calls. It was too late to retrieve the children that day but he managed to get their mother on the phone and invited all of them to lunch in the studio commissary the next day. They came, had a marvelous time and all was forgiven. All, that is, except James Komack, who lost many points with studio security.

When I asked Komack about the story, he said that kids are taught to respect and believe grown-ups. He thought he was doing the studio a favor by finding out how they had gotten in and, he had given his word to a couple of children. Then, someone else took it upon himself to overrule Komack. It would have been the kind of incident that sours young people on the establishment.

So James Komack is no longer just a one-dimensional figure for whom smart script-writers write good warm dialogue. It is a small story about a small kindness, for which a real live human being had the guts to stand up and make himself disliked in several quarters.

With a little luck we'll see Uncle Norman again next season. Komack's new pilot is about a service organization, a half-hour comedy starring Ann Meara (Stiller and Meara). It sounds delightful. I hope it's as successful as Eddie's Father.

Brothers Share Success

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Graves, at 6-feet 3-inch, is Jim Arness' little brother but has never lived in the shadow cast by big old Marshal Dillon, 6-feet 6-inches.

"Only about half the public realizes were brothers," said the white haired star of Mission: Impossible.

One is hard pressed these days to find a pair of brothers sharing equal success in show business, both going their own ways. In television they are the only such major stars.

The movies had teams: the Marx Brothers and the Ritz Brothers.

Films also produced George Sanders and Tom Conway, brothers who distinguished themselves individually. So have Dana Adrews and Steve Forrest.

There were Bing and Bob Crosby and, of course, the Barrymores. But on the tube Peter and Jim are unique. Moreover, the king-sized siblings have never acted together.

No Regrets

I Regret Nothing was probably the biggest hit song of the late French singer Edith Piaf and became the theme of her life, so naturally it seemed the best title for a CBC special on the troubled lady. The color documentary is due at 10 p.m. Friday on Channels 2 and 6.

PROVINCIAL COURT

Making long distance phone calls on false credit-card numbers "is becoming a racket the same as shoplifting is and it's on the increase," Judge William Ostler said Friday in Victoria Provincial Court.

His observation was made as he sentenced David Allen Eatin, 19, of Sterling Heights, Mich., to a total of one month in jail.

Eastin pleaded guilty March 28 to two Victoria charges — theft of telecommunications in using a false credit-card number to phone Michigan at 7 p.m. March 27 from a phone booth at Fernwood and Bay, and possession of a small amount of hashish found after his arrest.

Eastin had been in Victoria only three days when arrested and had four false numbers along with B.C. Tel codes used to verify them. He said he got them from "an unknown person" when he arrived.

He admitted Friday the call was deliberate and not a result of ignorance. Ostler described the phone practice as "a sort of grapevine handing around of numbers that is becoming a well-known racket to people like you."

Charles Jeffrey Ferguson, 19, of 3174 Harriet, was sentenced to a total of four months definite and four months indeterminate and Ostler said he hoped the time would be served in a forestry camp.

Ferguson pleaded guilty March 20 to a charge of theft involving more than $50 laid by Victoria police after two stereo speakers and other items worth a total of $81.95 were stolen March 19 from a parked car.

While Ferguson was on bail pending sentence for that offence, he stole a car March 31 from a parking lot at 3366 Douglas and pleaded guilty Wednesday to a car-theft charge in that case.

In the court section of Judge F. S. Green, a $250 fine was set for Gordon Cathcart, 21, of 1259 Johnson, who was found guilty following a trial on a charge of obstructing a Victoria police constable March 23.

The charge was laid after Cathcart refused to leave the back part of an ambulance which was trying to take a friend of Cathcart's to hospital from the 1300 block Government, where the friend had received a stomach injury in a "playfight" with Cathcart.

The trial was the first for Green, 35, recently appointed to assist Judges Ostler and E. F. N. Robinson as the Victoria court prepares for early expansion to meet a growing backlog of cases. Trials now are being set for late in June.

Suspended sentences and six-month probationary terms were ordered by Ostler for cousins Conrad James Auchterlonie, 17, of Prince Rupert, and Dale Grimmer, 17, of Pender Island. They pleaded guilty to a joint charge of theft involving less than $50— the shoplifting Thursday of a $22 jacket from The Bay and said they were in Victoria on Easter vacation.

□

Melody Ruth Powell, 18, of 921 Green, received a suspended sentence and a six-month probationary term after pleading guilty March 24 to a charge of theft involving less than $50 — the shoplifting of two $7 items March 23 from The Bay.

□

Patrima Chauhan, 20, of 3989 Panther, was fined $250 following her plea of guilty March 23 to a charge of theft involving less that $50 — the shoplifting March 22 of a $2.98 sweater from The Bay.

Backbone of Corps

Cadets from Prairie points and other B.C. centres are guests of Admiral Budge Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps at Pat Bay headquarters for few days of special events Thursday's agenda for some 320 cadets was to include parade drill, rifle practice and sailing. When photographer arrived weather had cancelled most events. Edmonton's band hadn't arrived, some cadets had gone swimming at Centennial Pool, some were visiting Rainbow cadet quarters, a few did get sailing and others went on a minesweeper. Everyone was on the move, except, of course, the mess-deck party. Glumly minding the kitchen were Leading Cadet Jim Giles, 16, 10145 Third, Sidney and cadets Bob Bennett, 15, 3631 Quadra, Saanich and Mark Thornley, 13, Brentwood.

IWA Raps Holdups

A proposal for a 10-day moratorium on contract talks in the B.C. forest industry's coast region isn't as interesting as it sounds because there is lots of time left to negotiate, an IWA official said Friday.

"Forest Industrial Relations is just using the moratorium idea as another gimmick to get the ear of the press and as a pitch for modification of our proposals," he said in an interview from the union's regional office in Vancouver.

Contract talks broke off Thursday after the industry called for a 10-day moratorium with the suggestion that the IWA reconsider its "impossible demands."

In a statement issued later, Billings said the demands add up to a 66-per-cent increase which would cost the industry at least $150 million a year.

The IWA official, who declined to be identified, said: "As soon as Billings makes a counter-proposal, we will begin negotiating." He said the IWA's demands are negotiable.

The IWA coast negotiating committee is meeting Monday and a union statement on the negotiations and proposed moratoruim will be released after the meeting, he added.

Involved in talks which began two months ago are 28,000 coast region woodworkers and 115 forest companies.

The current coast contract expires June 15. The IWA has proposed a $1-an-hour across the board increase plus a number of wage adjustments, vacation improvements and a cental and pension plan. Current base rate is $3.72 an hour.

The union official said there is lots of time for the contract talks to continue and "we don't get down to serious bargaining until the third week in May."

Alert Airlift Based at Thule

THULE, Greenland (CP) — Canadian Forces aircraft from Edmonton and Trenton, Ont., have come to this isolated Danish-U.S. base for a major airlift operation to supply the even more isolated Canadian base in Alert, N.W.T. Planes from 436 Squadron of Trenton and 435 Squadron of Edmonton will carry 500,000 gallons of fuel oil to the Alert base, a Canadian Forces announcement said.

Gosley Gang Wearing New Smiles

There'll be new faces to see when Jerry Gosley opens the 20th edition of his famous Smile Show July 1 at the McPherson Playhouse.

Many of the performers who became familiar parts of this show — which this year will run nine weeks — have moved on to greener fields or are not available.

Auditions for versatile male and female entertainers will be held soon. Aspiring performers are invited to telephone Jerry Gosley at 382-7792 or 598-1819.

Alternating with the Smile Show at the McPherson this year will be recitals by world-renowned musicians who are taking part in the Shawnigan Lake Summer School of the Arts.

Bastion Offering

Euripedes Classic

The face that launched a thousand ships also launched a war, causing countless women to see their city laid waste, their men killed, their children slaughtered or taken away. That face also led the Greek Euripides to write his play, The Trojan Women.

This play, written 2,350 years ago and still appropriate for its anti-war theme, will be produced at Bastion's Studio Theatre, 538 Yates, May 3 to 7 and 10 to 13.

Director is Elizabeth Gorrie.

The Studio Theatre has also arranged a concert comprising sweet music, jazz, rock and blues, offered by Tim Williams of Vancouver, on April 14 and 15.

Opens Tuesday

MASSENA, N.Y. (UPI) — The Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway is scheduled to open for naviagtion Tuesday at 10 a.m., the Seaway Development Corp. announced Friday.

False Alarm Call Ends in Cleanup

To Judge William Ostler, the one good thing about a case of a false fire alarm phoned in last Oct. 16 by an Esquimalt man was the punishment the man suggested — washing the trucks of the View Royal volunteer fire department.

The man, Robert Edward Southern, 34, of 1184 Esquimalt, pleaded guilty Friday in Victoria Provincial Court to an Esquimalt charge of making a false fire alarm by phone and prosecutor John Macintyre gave these details:

Southern had been associated with a woman at 130 Kingham Place, View Royal, but the association had been terminated. He had made nuisance calls to her through the evening of Oct. 15.

At about 2:05 a.m. Oct. 16, he phoned the View Royal fire department number, gave a phoney name, reported a fire at 130 Kingham and told the firemen to hurry.

Twenty firemen and two trucks sped to the address and, in the process, one fireman suffered back bruises when he fell down some stairs.

Macintyre said Southern eventually admitted making the phone call and suggested that, if he was charged, he would "wash fire trucks as long as they (firemen) wished."

Ostler, calling it "a stupid and wicked offence," fined Southern $200 and put him on probation for four months. During that time, he will report at 10 a.m. each Saturday to the View Royal fire chief and "wash such equipment as he is directed."

Saanich Police

Raises in Force

Three promotions following the recent appointment of Eric Avison as deputy police chief of Saanich were announced Friday by Chief R. A. Peterson, with the main one being the choice of George Walton as staff sergeant.

Walton, 55, a veteran of more than two decades on the Saanich force, has moved from the detective office to the uniform branch to become the fifth staff sergeant in Saanich.

His place in the detective section was taken by James White, formerly a uniform corporal, and White was succeeded as corporal by Constable David Bryan.

The changes began when Bert Pearson retired as chief at the end of 1971. Peterson moved up from deputy and Avison took that post soon after.

To Replace Inquiry

Inquest Order Expected

Attorney-General Peterson may have decided to accede to a father's request for an inquest rather than an inquiry into his son's recent death, The Daily Colonist learned Friday.

Government sources said Peterson is expected to announce early next week he has ordered an inquest into the March 21 death of Karl Wolfgang Ladinig, 19, of 3 Mark Lane in unorganized territory north of Durrance Lake.

The father, Karl Ladinig, asked this week for an inquest instead of the inquiry previously ordered by Peterson so there could be "a full and open investigation" in to the need for emergency ambulance services in unorganized areas.

His letter to Peterson spoke of a "jurisdictional dispute" and the fact it took 45 minutes for an emergency vehicle to arrive after he phoned Saanich police.

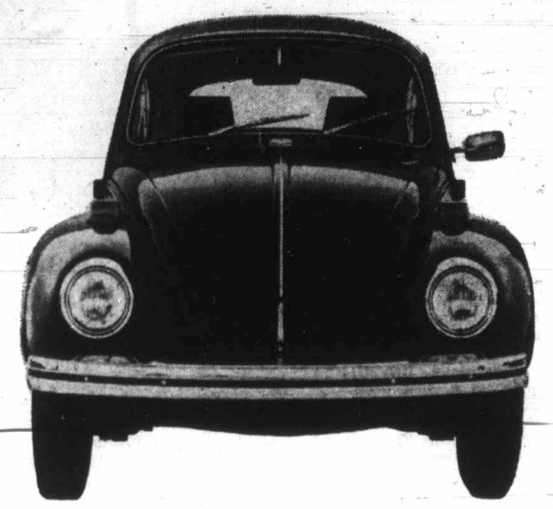

Thursday, Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis issued a timing report which showed Ladinig, Sr., called at 7:40 a.m. RCMP were notified by 7:45 a.m. and a Sidney RCMP officer and volunteer fireman left for Mark Lane by 8:05.

They reached the remote address by 8:30 and were at Queen Victoria Hospital by 9 a.m. The youth, who had been unconscious for about two hours when his father called Saanich, was pronounced dead at 9:15.

No cause of death has ever been listed.

Yukon Flyer Survives Crash

FORT NELSON (CP) — A Yukon man was picked up by helicopter after spending almost 24 hours with his downed aircraft by the Liard River, midway between here and Watson Lake, Y.T. He was uninjured.

We're more than just a pretty face.

There's more to a Volkswagen than meets the eye. Twice as much more if you're eyeing our warranty.

A warranty twice as long as anyone else's. (Except Rolls-Royce.)

It's good for 24,000 miles or 2 years, whichever comes first. (Except for normal wear and tear on service items.)

WARRANTY
for New Volkswagen Vehicles

So before whichever comes, we'll replace or repair any factory part that's defective in material or workmanship.

(Providing you maintain it according to the Volkswagen maintenance schedule.)

An advanced electronic service system.

Only Volkswagen has VW-Diagnosis: sensitive electronic equipment that can tell our mechanic (in 45 minutes) exactly what, if anything, needs fixing.

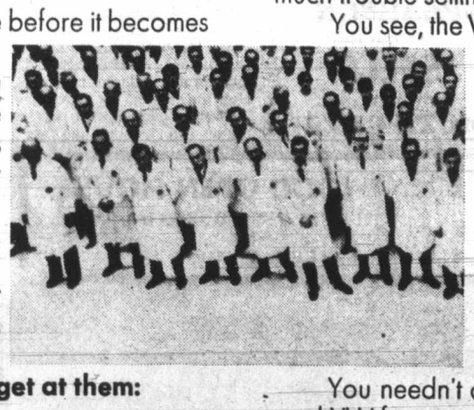

The idea is to spot small trouble before it becomes big trouble. And save you money.

(VW-Diagnosis starts saving you money right from the start, because your first four check-ups are free. As are any repairs that are covered by the warranty.)

And once the warranty runs out, we don't run out.

So you can imagine how long it takes them to replace a PCV valve. And they won't have any trouble finding a PCV valve either.

(Even though every last one of them has been changed or improved in the past 20 years.)

And our '65.

Which means that a few years from now you won't have to scrounge around in a junk heap for a part.

Or part with your car in a junk heap.

Because Volkswagens are made to last.

And last.

The last we heard, there were over 14,000,000 of them humming quietly along throughout the world.

1,104 professional nit-pickers.

Naturally, not all those millions of VW's are '72s.

Some of them are pushing 20.

Our inspectors. All 1,104 of them.

In fact, 1 out of every 10 of our employees is an inspector.

Who reports to 1 out of every 50 of our employees:

An excellent resale value.

Once we've sold you on a Beetle, you won't have much trouble selling it to someone else.

You see, the Volkswagen has maintained one of the best resale values there is.

New ones are just as much in demand as old ones. (Because it's very hard to tell them apart.)

So take an investment tip from Volkswagen.

USED CARS

A used car guarantee. In writing.

It's in writing.

There's a Volkswagen dealer near you. Even if you aren't near home.

At last count, there were 268 blue and white VW signs in cities and towns right across Canada. (And there are more all the time.)

And our service is part of our philosophy.

To bring you the most car for the least money.

Even if it doesn't look like much.

But, as you can see, looks aren't everything.

*The dealer guarantees 100% to repair or replace the engine-transmission-brake system-rear axle-front axle assemblies for 30 days or 1,000 miles whichever comes first.

Peek stresses point

Aussie Admiral Assesses Ships

The Royal Australian Navy is planning to build some destroyers and Vice-Admiral Sir Richard Peek was in Victoria Friday on a two-day visit, seeking technical advice from Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, Commander, Maritime Pacific.

Peek's tour includes visits to England, Holland, the United States and Italy and he will gather information on equipment and armament for the proposed vessels.

The admiral, who is chief of naval staff, will visit Canadian military establishments at Edmonton, Ottawa, Quebec City, and Halifax.

In an interview, Peek said, "I can't foresee any changes in our defence policy in the light of President Nixon's trip to China. We feel that defence is our own business and when the problem gets too big to handle, then we may have to call for help."

Leir gave Peek a tour of the Esquimalt dockyard and the two also discussed plans for joint exercises. Peek said Australia still maintains 120 military personnel on training duty in Vietnam, and that ships of the Australian navy are with the U.S. 7th Fleet.

There are no plans for exchanges of personnel between the two navies but some officers of the Canadian and Australian navies have taken joint training courses in anti-submarine warfare.

Leir and Peek have met on many previous occasions to discuss defence problems, usually in Honolulu.

City-Owned

All Parkades Boost Prices

Parking rates for city-owned downtown parking buildings were increased this week for the first time in nine years.

City officials blamed wage increases and hydro rate hikes for the increase in the rates for hourly and monthly parking.

The new short-term user rate has been set at 10 cents for each half-hour at all four parking facilities. The old rate was 10 cents for the first hour, 15 cents for the second hour and 10 cents for each additional half-hour.

Monthly rates at the new Johnson Street parkade remain at $15. The rate for the View Street facility went from $18 to $22 a month. Bastion Square parking rose from $18 to $20 a month and Centennial Square parking now costs $15 a month instead of the previous $11.

The parking facilities are owned by the city of Victoria and operated by the Victoria Parking Commission which represents downtown merchants and property owners who share in the deficits through a special three-mill levy.

Optimists Donate New Bus

New school bus for hearing handicapped children goes into service next week to take deaf and hard of hearing children to and from special classes at Uplands School and G. R. Pearkes Clinic. Purchase of bus, second in six years, was made possible by public's support of fund-raising projects of Victoria Optimists Club, whose president, Dick Anderson, in photo, shows Donald Butler, 9, with sister Judith, 15, their new transporiation.

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

By E. A. Carey

Please send me another Carey Pipe for my brother. I have about every kind of pipe you can think of. When in the Service, I purchased pipes in France, Germany and Switzerland, but this is the best pipe I have today. There just couldn't be a better tasting, sweeter smoke than you get from the Carey Pipe.
L. S.
Edwardsville, Illinois

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk.

Here's what's different about this pipe. It's the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadulterated pleasure to smokers. It's so different in smoking quality that its patented in the United States, Canada and other countries.

It's different than any pipe ever invented. It smokes COOLER—MELLOWER—SWEETER—and DRIER. Even dyed in the wool cigarette smokers find it easier to smoke and enjoy than any pipe, or any cigar they've ever tried. Some say it's as easy as switching from one brand of cigarettes to another.

Give it 30 days—

You'll never go back to cigarettes again. No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

Here is the way of it; The hazards of cigarette smoking are not new. Long before the Surgeon General issued his nerve shattering report on SMOKING AND HEALTH, evidence that cigarette smoking was associated with Cancer, coronary artery disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema, was mounting rapidly. It was then that I decided to switch to a pipe. That was over 30 years ago.

Like most other cigarette smokers I just couldn't tolerate the goo, the bitterness, the tongue bite, and that stale, foul, after-taste that results from smoking an ordinary pipe. As a result I dedicated hundreds of hours searching for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite or sludge. In disgust I gave up and went back to cigarettes—and of course back to COUGHING, WHEEZING, CHOKING.

Thousands of experiments

It was then I decided to try to work something out on my own, something that would not leave my mouth tasting like the proverbial blacksmith's glove. Thousands of experiments and five long disappointing years later, almost by accident, I hit upon a solution. A solution so simple but so effective that it made smoking a pipe an entirely new and exciting smoking experience. By harnessing four great natural laws this invention gives you everything you want in a satisfying smoke. It doesn't require any breaking in, from the first puff, right down to the last bit of tobacco. I guarantee it to smoke cool and mild hour after hour, day after day, without rest, without bite, bitterness or sludge.

In appearance and in quality, the Carey Pipe is like any of the two or three leading World brands. The bowl is made of the finest selected premium briar, imported especially for this use. The bit is conventional in appearance —made of molded nylon—the newest and finest material for pipe bits. The color and finish are what you would expect in any of the best pipes on the market. It is, in every respect, a pipe you will be proud to smoke. It is entirely free of the outlandish contraptions that have been seen on so many so-called "improved" pipes in the past.

Discover the thrill of this new kind of smoking

Accept my offer to LEND YOU a Carey Pipe for 30 days' trial use. At the end of the trial period, if you say the Carey Pipe has given you the greatest smoking pleasure of your life, you may keep it. But if you are willing to go back to your old smoking habit, break the Carey into bits, return the pieces and the trial will have cost you nothing.

Before I send you your pipe I would like to know the style you prefer so send me your name TODAY and I'll send you absolutely free my complete trial offer including descriptive literature and pipe styles so you can decide for yourself whether or not thousands of Carey smokers are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

Remember you have nothing to lose. One hundred thousand doctors have kicked the cigarette habit. YOU CAN TOO, THE EASY WAY.

E. A. Carey, Dept. 616D, 1920 Sunnyside Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60640
Okay Mr. Carey. Send me your complete trial offer so I can decide for myself whether or not your pipe smoking friends are right when they say the Carey pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

BASEBALL—National Pastime or Yesterday?

By JIM MURRAY
Colonist - Los Angeles Times Service

Ernie Harwell, the broadcaster and a friend of the writer, once penned a paean to baseball, a prose ode to our national pastime which went like this:

"Baseball is the President of the United States tossing out the first ball of the season; and a pudgy schoolboy playing catch with his dad on a Mississippi farm.

"It's a big league pitcher who sings in nightclubs. And the Hollywood actor who pitches to a ball club in spring training.

"It's America, this baseball . . ."

Well, it goes on like that. A faded valentine, an appeal to the little boy in all of us.

With apologies to Ernie, I would like to update his spray of orchids to the grand old game — to bring it more in tune with the times, if you will:

"Baseball is the supreme court, the 90-day injunction. Baseball is the $120,000-a-year player walking out of camp because he's insulted to be offered that little money for six months which will largely be spent standing still in left field and occasionally having to run as far as 270 feet at a clip.

It's a Bigamist Who Jilts Cities

"Baseball is six million taxpayers ponying up $50 million for a stadium that players won't show up in because they want an extra $1,000 pension at age 65 or an extra $100 at age 45.

"Baseball is a guy who will be given a watch and a pat on the back after 50 years scraping coal from the bottom of a mine shaft smuggling 10 bucks out of the meagre family budget to take his grandson to a game and watch guys who are buying up avocado ranches and oil wells play. And he will be plunged in gloom if they have a tough day at their jobs or bruise their arms sliding. He will sit in the left-field bleachers because it's better for his silicosis. Also it will leave enough money to buy grandson a bobblehead doll of his idol.

"Baseball is 60,000 people braving the cold San Francisco winds or searing southern heat or wild Texas sandstorms to eat soggy hotdogs, and drink warm Pepsi or grain beer, and be sympathetic when some boy who sat on the bench in a warm windbreaker or under the air-conditioning in the dugout and complained afterward that the clubhouse barbecue roast beef was too well done.

"Baseball is a bigamist who reneges on his vows and jilts city after city and steals away in the night after they have given him the best years of their lives.

"Baseball is an owner who uses his ownership to wangle valuable pieces of real estate from municipalities, or pyramids his package via swollen TV, radio, concession or parking revenues, and even buys the club on such a tower of hypothecated short money that a guy buying a season ticket has more invested in the club than he does.

"Baseball is America's guest who dirties the towels, uses the phone for long distance, criticizes the food, plays the stereo too loud, pinches the maid, then threatens to leave and take the silverware with him if he doesn't get breakfast in bed.

"Baseball is a guy whose contribution to the world is he hit a ball three out of 10 times in his life, squeezing a guy out of a radio booth who began to learn broadcasting in the crystal set days on little 5000-watt stations where he played the records, swept the floors, sold the ads, repaired the transmitter, and often worked for four days in a row without overtime during floods or other regional catastrophes. His job now is to hold a watch and point for the ex-ballplayer who says "you was" and assorted other butcheries of the English language.

HERE LIES BASEBALL

Slain by Its 'Friends'

"Baseball is a game which puts statues of beer barons — and beer drinkers — in centre field and gives "nights" and several thousand dollars worth of gifts to "heroes" who don't need them — but the fan who makes all this possible can't even get world series tickets at scale.

It Will Be Gone Like County Fair

"Baseball is an innocent maiden in a pirate's den. It is betrayed by those who should love it. Players have no sense of obligation to it. They sold it out to the gamblers for 30 pieces of silver once. Players it has made world-famous go on forums to say they never watch the game anymore, as it's too slow for them. It's $150,000-a-year stars refusing to go on post-game shows to promote it institutionally. It's cynical owners, what's-in-it-for-me ball-players. It's a rape victim who refuses to turn state's evidence against its assailants. The only guys they should put on bubble gum cards are the faithful fans who love the game because they love tradition, legends. The home team, even the star-spangled banner, and can actually cry tears when some millionaire cattle baron takes a called strike with the bases loaded.

"Baseball is yesterday. It will be gone like the Kansas picnic, the County Fair, the 4th of July fireworks and the rest of Americana. If the body is found, its epitaph should read "Here Lies Baseball — 1849-1972. Slain by its 'friends.' Mourned by small boys everywhere aged five to 95 who liked to go to it to become age 12 again for an afternoon."

Jim Tang

Every Canadian hockey fan is quite aware of the troubles of the expansion clubs, but it's not quite true that expansion has reduced the calibre of play in the National Hockey League to about the level it used to be in the Western and American Leagues. Because they wrote the rules and were dealing from strength in other ways at the time, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks survived expansion without any noticeable loss in team calibre and the NHL does present at least 36 bona fide NHL games each season.

However, what is completely true is that under the present system of making talent available to them, expansion clubs are not likely to ever catch up. They may have reason to believe that some of them will eventually catch up to Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, clubs which had been outdistanced by the Big Four when expansion happened. And it might be reasonable to hope that the Hawks will become catchable once Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita are gone but the Bruins, Rangers and Canadiens, who were hurt far worse by the retirement of Jean Beliveau and John Ferguson than by having to contribute talent to eight expansion clubs, are still light years ahead. And gaining.

On top of that, the gap will likely widen if the World Hockey Association does get off the ground. WHA clubs are more likely to interest players from the expansion clubs than those with established clubs, and vice versa because the WHA obviously cannot afford to buy off very many of the top stars.

But it's bad enough without the WHA. It is now five seasons since Philadelphia Flyers, Los Angeles Kings, St. Louis Blues, Minnesota North Stars, Pittsburgh Penguins and Oakland Seals were accepted into the NHL, and figures say that they are further from parity than they were in their first season.

The figures really shout it out, and must leave shivers of dread with the owners of Vancouver Canucks and Buffalo Sabres, clubs only two season along in their NHL history, and Atlanta and Long Island, clubs who join next season with the bulk of their rosters to be made up of players from the first eight expansion clubs.

Helped by excellent goalkeeping, and perhaps even more by not being taken seriously, expansion clubs had about as good a first season as could have reasonably been expected by playing .340 hockey against the established six.

There has been nothing but futility since for the first newcomers. Their combined percentage against the established clubs was .320 in their second season and .287 in the third. It jumped sharply to .354 last season, but that was because of a 32-26-14 showing against slumping Toronto and Detroit and any thoughts that progress was being made were dispelled in the schedule just completed. The six five-season-old clubs palyed only .289 hockey and were outscored by a whopping 330 goals in the 216 games played against the established clubs. And that despite a 15-16-5 edge over the Red Wings.

That adds up to a loss of about 10 games in five seasons, and with the trend similar for the Canucks and Sabres, it leaves no doubt but that there will never be any parity until such time as the NHL liberalizes its draft system.

Much has been made of the draft of junior talent in which NHL clubs make selections in the reverse order of finish, but that will never even things up.

That heavily underlines the utter futility of believing the inverse draft will eventually bring NHL expansion clubs up to the level of old-line clubs. There are some already-established stars in the above lists and some fine prospects who are developing more slowly — perhaps two dozen at the most and of those, about half are with the stablished clubs. Unlike football and basketball in the United States, the inverse draft cannot balance things in hockey simply because Canada continues to be the only real source of talent and simply cannot yet produce enough calibre players for more than about eight NHL clubs.

The answer, of course, is the lowering of the number of players who can be protected in the intra-league draft, and it would have taken no more than the judicious shifting of about 20 proven players to have made the NHL a 14-club tossup. The calibre of play whouldn't be as good as it was in the days of the six-club league but everything is relative and the NHL would again be truely a major league because it would be providing the best available competition. But the sun will probably set in the east before the NHL allows this to happen. It is doing quite nicely, thank you, with four NHL teams, two borderline cases and eight minor-league teams playing to almost 100 per cent of capacity and it has at least a half dozen groups willing to pay mililons of dollars for a piece of the action. Change can only be brought about by the fans, who in their eagerness to pay top dollar for an inferior product have only themselves to blame for what they are getting.

Undisputed Champion

Players Group Charges Unfair Labor Practices

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's owners rejected Friday nght a new proposal by the players to end a week-long strike. The players then announced plans to file unfair labor practice charges with the National Labor Relations Board.

The announcement of the filing of the charges against the 24 major league club owners was made by Dick Moss, counsel for the Major League Players' Association, who said at least three players have lost their jobs because of their activity in the players' group.

Moss' statement did not name the players and he declined to say who they were. However, The Associated Press learned that one of the three was pitcher Joe Horlen of Chicago White Sox.

MILLER MADE PROPOSAL

The new proposal to end the strike was made by Marvin Miller executive director of the players' association, to John Gaherin, the owners' negotiator, in sessions that ended Friday afternoon.

Gaherin then reported back to Miller that the owners had turned the proposal down.

In their offer, the players agreed to begin playing while negotiations continued for two or three weeks. But the proposal also contained a provision that if those negotiations did not lead to a solution, the matter be submitted to binding arbitration.

AGAINST ARBITRATION

The owners have been against submitting the dispute over pension benefits to binding arbitration and it is that aspect of the latest proposal by the players that apparently caused the owners to balk.

In his statement announcing the filing of the unfair labor practices charge, Moss said he has "never observed a management which so openly and blatantly violated the law and abandoned ethical conduct."

POINTS SPECIFIED

Moss singled out the owners' "refusal to bargain in good faith on the subject of the benefit plan" and their violation of the law "by taking an inflexible stand, and by insisting that the players and their representatives meet with agents of the owners who are admittedly without power or authority to bargain on their behalf."

The owners have made a farce of negotiations, he said, "by adopting a course of conduct which is not only unethical and illegal but is calculated to insure a failure to reach an appropriate settlement."

"Before and during the current strike, the owners have threatened players and attempted to coerce them to abandon their organization . . . and, in at least three instances, have terminated the employment of players because of their activities in the association."

He also referred to what he called "concerted, massive and slanderous attacks" on Miller "in an effort to discredit him in the eye of the membership."

"All these activities are clearly in violation of the law," he said.

ALLYN ANGRY

Meanwhile, John Allyn, owner of Chicago White Sox, rebelled against orders from American League president Joe Cronin saying that major league clubs should ban players from using major league facilities to work out.

"If they want to enforce that ruling, they're going to have to find a way because they are going to have a long, hard fight," Allyn said.

The first general strike in the 103-year history of major league baseball has seen the entire schedule wiped out since the season was to begin Wednesday.

Frank Cashen, Baltimore Orioles' executive vice-president, said if the strike continues for another week, the season probably will have to be shortened.

Bantam Braves Lose in Final

KAMLOOPS — Saanich Braves, provincial bantam hockey champions, were defeated, 5-0, Friday night by Sarnia in the championship final of the International Bantam team Hockey tournament here.

Saanich, winners of the "C" event with a 5-2 win over Williams Lake, the "B" champions, Friday, were scheduled to meet East Kildonan, Man., the "A" event champions in the final.

East Kildonan, however, withdrew from the tournament Friday afternoon and returned to Winnipeg where the provincial bantam championships start today.

The Manitoba club topped Sarnia, 6-5, in overtime Friday morning.

In the afternoon game, Bill Adkin scored two goals for Braves, who held period leads of 1-0 and 3-2. Doug Vincent, Wayne Wavryk and Wayne Larson were the other Saanich marksmen.

The other Saanich loss in the double-knockout event came on Monday when Boston Malden posted a 10-1 decision.

Celtics Win

BOSTON (AP) — Reserves Steve Kuberski, Henry Finkel and Don Nelson came off the bench in spectacular fashion and Boston Celtics shut off second-half challenges in defeating Atlanta Hawks, 124-114, Friday night for a 3-2 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff.

Regina Wins Only Game Which Produces Decision

Two tie games and a see-saw battle in Regina highlighted quarter-final action in the Western Canada Hockey League Friday night.

Calgary Centennials, Western Division league champions, needed a late goal by defenceman Jim Watson to pull into a 3-3 tie with Medicine Hat Tigers, fourth-place finishers in the Western Division.

Rookie Frank Taylor scored late in the second period to give Brandon Wheat Kings a 3-3 tie in Winnipeg with the Saskatoon Blades and Regina Pats scored two goals within 18 seconds late in the game to edge Flin Flon Bombers, 8-6, in Eastern Division action.

Centennials and Tigers are deadlocked in the best-of-seven series with two wins and a tie each.

Next game is set for Sunday night in Medicine Hat with the seventh in Calgary on Wednesday.

Tigers lost forwards Dick Jellem and Neil Melnyk for the last five minutes while the hometown Centennials lost captain Brian Walker and Ron Homenuke, their two top scorers in the regular season.

The fight started seconds after Jeff Ablett had given the Tigers the lead with a power-play goal.

Ed Johnstone and Homenuke traded first-period goals. Bob Nystrom gave Calgary the lead early in the second period before Lanny McDonald tied the score midway through the period.

A crowd of 6158 watched the game at the Corral.

In Winnipeg, Don McLaughlin scored the other two goals for Wheat Kings and Murray Myers, with a pair, and Don McLeod scored for Bades, who lead the series, 3-2 with one game tied.

Blades need only a tie in the seventh game in Saskatoon Sunday to reach the semi-finals.

Unlike regular season games, WCHL clubs do not play sudden-death overtime in playoffs.

In Regina, Al Barrett scored three goals, including the winner at 15:57 of the third period. Dennis Sobchuk, who added the insurance goal 18 seconds later, Mike Wanchuk, Clark Gillies, John Dobie and Scott Smith scored the other Regina goals.

Former Victoria Cougars Wayne Bianchin and Garry Howatt paced Bombers with three and two goals, respectively. Al Hillier scored the other Flin Flon goal.

Bombers, who lead the series 2-1, trailed four times and twice were down by two goals. The teams entered the third period tied 4-4 and traded third-period goals before Barrett and Sobchuk connected.

The fourth game of the series is in Flin Flon on Sunday night.

Dolphins To Hold Team Meeting

Victoria Dolphins of the B.C. Junior Big Four Football League will hold a team meeting for all prospective players Wednesday at the Ingraham Hotel.

Plans for spring training and regular season play will be announced by head coach Frank Hindle.

Tryouts for the 1972 squad will commence May 14 and continue on a nightly basis for two weeks under the direction of the Dolphins coaches and special guest coach Dave Cutler, placekicker and linebacker with Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

Dolphins, who finished third last season in their rookie year, will start regular practices in early July and league games are scheduled to begin in August. Most Dolphin home games will be played at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday evenings.

Efforts are being made to bring a prairie team and a mainland member of the Big Four to Victoria for exhibition games. The league will once again consist of Vancouver Meralomas, Vancouver Blue Bombers, Burnaby Spartans, North Shore Cougars and the Dolphins.

Wednesday's meeting commences at 7:30 p.m.

Vernon Wins Junior Title

VERNON — Vernon Essos defeated Penticton Broncos, 3-1, Friday night to win the best-of-seven final series for the B.C. Junior Hockey League championship, 4-3.

Shamrocks Sign Big Defenceman

Victoria Shamrocks have signed a husky defenceman from Eastern Canada this week in their continuing bid to build a strong contender in the Western Lacrosse Association.

The new player, 22-year-old Gary Austin, is six-foot-three and 210 pounds. He played part of last season with St. Regis Braves junior team in Quebec. Prior to 1971, Austin played for two seasons in the North American Lacrosse Association, where he was named to the 1969 all-star team.

"Gary will give us much needed size on defense," Shamrock general manager Norm Kowalyk said Friday. "We were overpowered by all clubs last season."

Another Eastern player signed earlier this year, Brian Thompson, is en route from Huntsville, Ont. with his family and should arrive in Victoria early next week. Thompson is the younger brother of Ivan Thompson, who has fully recovered from knee surgery and is ready to start his second WLA campaign with the Shamrocks.

Shamrocks also received a bonus when a former Toronto junior, Rob Beamish, wrote to request a tryout. Beamish, in his graduating year at Queens University, will arrive here, April 30. He is just five-foot-seven but weighs 165 pounds.

Shamrocks open the season at home, Wednesday, May 3 against the Coquitlam Adanacs. They finish league play in New Westminster, Aug. 24.

Two Eastern Lacrosse Association teams will visit Victoria in July. Brantford Warriors will meet Shamrocks on July 12 and a new club, Windsor Warlocks, will play here July 24.

Approximately 20 players are attending Shamrock workouts with coach Ed Kowalyk and the team will have its first scrimmage on Wednesday night at Pearkes Arena.

To Miss Olympics

Continuing leg pains which can only be cured by surgery will keep Chi Cheng out of the Olympic Games this summer, the 27-year-old sprinter from Taiwan said Friday. Winner of 133 of 134 races, Miss Cheng has broken or tied nine world sprint records.

Nicklaus Drops Birdie Putt To Retain Lead in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus retained the lead despite a seven, Sam Snead drifted back in the pack and angry Arnold Palmer again encountered disaster in the windy turbulence of the second round of the Masters golf tournament.

Nicklaus, seeking his fourth Masters title and an unprecedented one-year sweep of all the world's major titles, had to sink a dramatic, downhill birdie putt on the 18th hole to regain a one-stroke lead over Paul Harney at the midpoint of this 36th championship.

Nicklaus, who dropped back into a share of the lead when he took a watery seven on the 15th hole, finished with a 71 and 139, five under par for the tournament.

Harney, a 42-year-old club pro from Sutton, Mass., who got into this event only with a surprise victory at San Diego earlier this year, conquered the baffling winds with a 69 as he charged into position just one stroke back at 140.

The 59-year-old Snead was just one stroke off the pace going into the windy, cool and cloudy day, but could manage only a 74 and was at 144, matching par on the fickle, tricky Augusta National Golf Club course.

And Palmer, a 42-year-old golf giant now troubled by near-sightedness and with a history of bursitis, had all sorts of problems en route to a 75-145.

"It's not one of my happier days," said Palmer, the only man to win this title four times.

He got a controversial and unfavorable ruling on the ninth green. The rules committee didn't decide it until he was ready to tee off on the 12th — and when Palmer saw the decision for one-over-par go up on the scoreboard, he promptly took a three-over-par six. It was the second time in less than a week he has all but destroyed his hopes in that fashion.

Bert Yancey, a tour regular who admits he has an obsession with this tournament, moved into third place with a 69 for 141.

Also carding a 69, the best score of the day, was Roberto de Vicenzo, who lost the coveted green jacket here two years ago, due to a scoring error. He is at 144 with Snead, Lanny Wadkins, Jerry Heard and Steve Melnyk.

Billy Casper improved five strokes from an opening 76 and was seven strokes behind Nicklaus going into today's third round. Gary Player took a 75 for 148.

Among 35 golfers failing to qualify for the final 36 holes was U.S. Amateur champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, the only Canadian in the tournament. He soared to an 82 for 158.

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Top-seeded Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., won the men's singles title in the South African open tennis championships Friday, defeating Manuel Orantes of Spain, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4. Richey won $6,500. Orantes was seeded No. 3.

Stanley Cup TV Picture Clears

Victoria's Channel 6, previous left out of television planning for the Stanley Cup quarter-finals, got into the picture Friday and will join Vancouver's Channel 8 in showing quarter-finals games involving Canadian clubs.

That means a TV schedule of Boston at Toronto, 5 p.m. today on Channels 6 and 8; a western-division game, 10 a.m. Sunday on Channels 7 and 12; New York at Montreal, 5 p.m. Sunday on Channels 6 and 8; Toronto at Boston, 5 p.m. Tuesday on Channels 6 and 8.

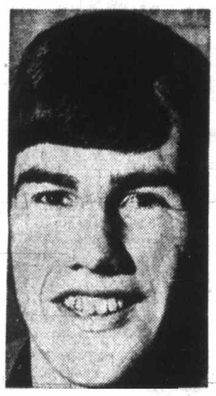

In addition, Channels 6 and 8 will have a quarter-finals game at 5 p.m. Thursday from Montreal or Toronto and there may be two quarter finals games Sunday, April 16, on CBS in the morning and CTV in the afternoon. Sunday's New York-Montreal game will also be on CBU radio (690).

Channel 6 is affiliated with both the CBC and CTV networks. When the quarter-finals were transferred to CTV from CBC during this week's TV hockey crisis, the CBC at first declined to free its affiliates from regular program obligations. Friday, the CBC changed its mind and Channel 6 snapped up the chances to make Stanley Cup viewing Victoria-wide.

Medicine Hat Snipers Dominated Scoring

Lysiak

Donaldson

Medicine Hat Tigers had the top scorer and the highest-scoring line in the Western Canada Hockey League this season.

Official scoring statistics have confirmed centre Tom Lysiak as the scoring champion. Lysiak, in his second season with the Tigers, compiled 143 points in 68 games, including a leading 93 assists.

McDonald had 114 points, including 50 goals, and tied New Westminster Bruin captain Lorne Henning for seventh place. Kuntz finished 14th in scoring, with 100 points, including 49 goals.

Despite Lysiak's achievements, he was well off the league record of 168 points, set in the 1967-68 season by Bobby Clarke of the Flin Flon Bombers.

TIED FOR THIRD

Stan Weir of Medicine Hat placed second in scoring with 133 points while Blaine Stoughton of Flin Flon and Robbie Neale of Brandon Wheat Kings tied for third place with 126 points each.

TOP ROOKIE

Dennis Sobchuk of Regina Pats, fourth in scoring with 123 points, was the highest-scoring rookie in the 12-team circut.

Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund Nears its Objective

The Kiwanis Fund Raising Campaign for the purchase of a heart lung machine for the Royal Jubilee Hospital Heart Surgery Unit is nearing its $14,500 goal.

We are now at the $12,400 mark, made up of contributions from thoughtful, concerned people in this community. It will take little more than $2,000 to reach the purchase price of the machine.

All advertising has been at the expense of the Kiwanis Club; accounting has been donated by Touche Ross & Co. This final appeal, in hopes of a public response that will bring us to the $14,500 total, is made through courtesy of Miss Frith Fashions.

Donations are tax deductible. Mail or bring yours to Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund, 221 Linden; Royal Jubilee Hospital Heart Surgery Unit; or to me, Wynn Sinclair, Chairman of the Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund, Miss Frith Fashions, 1619 Douglas Street.

I would like to express my warm personal thanks to those who have given so generously. It is now time to make that final effort for the full amount needed to purchase the heart lung machine. It is because of this equipment which YOU have provided, that Victoria and Royal Jubilee Hospital has been considered ready to offer open heart surgery.

The benefits will be far-reaching in this Vancouver Island area. The anxiety of heart patients will be greatly alleviated through knowledge that the equipment now available will provide them with the best possible care.

It is comforting to know this care is near at hand and available for loved ones; and remember, the heart you save may be your own.

Pee Wee Braves Out of Tourney

NORTH VANCOUVER — Saanich Braves were eliminated from the North Shore pee wee hockey tournament Friday when North Kamloops rallied for a 3-1 victory in a quarter-final game.

Saanich, which led 1-0 after one period on a goal by Jack Wallace, gave up a goal in the second in the second period and two more in the third.

Saanich was the last Vancouver Island representative in the 32-team, seven-day tournament which concludes Sunday.

Former Pitcher Dies at 73

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Alvin Floyd Crowder, 73, former major league baseball pitcher has died here after being stricken ill at his home.

Crowder, who won 167 games in his 14-year major league career which spanned the mid-1920s and '30s, pitched for Washington Senators, Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.

SALE! Sundeck Coating Kit

NEOPRENE-HYPALON* (DUPONT TRADEMARK)

- Kit covers up to 250 sq. ft.
- Grey, Green, Gold
- 2½ gal. Neoprene tough rubber base
- 2½ gal. Hypalon
- 1 gal. Special Thinner
- 2 rolls Fiberglas joint tape
- 25 lbs. silica granules for non-slip surface

We believe that a Neoprene/Hypalon combination gives superior waterproofing and longer life than the use of Hypalon alone as in so-called "one can" systems. The Neoprene provides a tough, resilient base coat, and Hypalon gives the hard-wearing finish.

Come in and let us show you how to do it yourself. Easy step-by-step instruction sheets available.

Littler's Surgery Said Successful

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Results of surgery on veteran pro golfer Gene Littler have showed there was no spread of cancer from a malignant tumor removed earlier this week, a spokesman at Mercy Hospital said.

Littler underwent surgery Tuesday and had all the gland-bearing tissue beneath his left arm removed. The tumor had been found in the lymph glands under the arm.

Drugs Charge: Man Jailed

NANAIMO — A 22-year-old Harewood man was sentenced to three months in jail when he appeared in Nanaimo Provincial Court this week on a charge of heroin possession.

Police said they apprehended Robert David Edwards as he was filling caps with a white powder, later identified as heroin, near a downtown shopping centre Jan. 29. He was also put on probation for a year.

Donald Giesbrecht, 18, of Nanaimo was fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to possession of hashish March 29. Police said he was found with six pipes that contained traces of the drug at his Kennedy Street home.

Roger James Shook, 21, of Nanaimo was fined $500 and ordered off the road for a year when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. Court was told that he had been convicted of the same offence in Courtenay a few days earlier.

Police said Shook was seen on Highway 19 near Lantzville when he stopped his car, slid to the passenger's side and pretended to be asleep. He had a breath test reading of .11.

Richard Wayne Thomas, 22, of no fixed address, was given a three-year probation term when he pleaded guilty to taking $60 from a woman's handbag Jan. 12. Among the terms of the probation are that Thomas take an upgrading course, refrain from driving and return the money.

Driver Escapes Rooftop Skid

The driver and lone occupant escaped injury and his $2,000 late-model car was a virtual writeoff after a spectacular accident in the 2400 block Sooke Road, Colwood RCMP said Friday.

Police said the car driven by Tyrone Kellerman, 19, of 3356 Tibbett, Colwood, flipped onto its roof, skidded more than 200 feet and ran into a phone pole. The incident occurred at 1:30 a.m.

Mrs. Dawson has lived in Victoria for 60 years and before moving into Mount St. Mary after her husband's death, she lived on St. Andrews Street, near Emily Carr's birthplace.

Standing Ovation for Mozart, UVic

By ERITH SMITH
Colonist Reporter

A near-capacity audience Friday night gave a well-deserved standing ovation at the close of an offering of sacred music as stirring as any that has been heard in Victoria.

This was Mozart's Solemn Vespers, and Requiem Mass in D Minor, performed by the University of Victoria Chorus and Orchestra conducted by George Corwin. Soloists were Catherine Young, soprano; Elinor Bertram, contralto; Arthur Wiebe, tenor, and Ronald Bermingham, bass.

From the first note Corwin was obviously in full, enjoyable charge of his singers and players, and they responded with all the feeling and verve of musicians who dearly loved what they were doing.

This ensemble has been truly called a "town and gown" affair, for the chorus of 218 is divided evenly between university students and members from the Greater Victoria Community; while the orchestra, totalling 43, includes 14 from the community.

Of the two selections, the requiem mass offers perhaps a shade more in interest; not alone for the music itself, but for its origin. Of its eight movements, Mozart composed the first two in full, and sketched out all but a portion of the third.

The balance was created by his pupil and friend, Franz Xaver Sussmayer, who was so steeped in Mozart's style that it requires an expert to decide where one stopped and the other began.

If there was an unhappy touch anywhere in the program — which will be repeated tonight — it was in its location: The gymnasium at UVic.

This structure made it difficult to hear the lovely notes of some soloists, and certainly did not make the most of the whole. However, where else could a fine choir and orchestra of this size be accommodated in Greater Victoria?

Naden's Band Sweet and Hot

By BERT BINNY

There is still lots to be said for the sounds of the Stan Kenton-Spike Jones and Dorsey eras or so it would seem.

A disappointingly small audience at the McPherson Playhouse thoroughly enjoyed items revived from those times by the Naden Band on Friday night. But they also enjoyed such things as the fiddle playing of Barnyard Bill (Sgt. Jacowenkic), the marvellous trumpet solo by Sgt. Dave Hughes with the Dance of the Comedians from The Bartered Bride and Sgt. Jim Ryan's alto saxophone performance of Persuasion.

The Naden band, conducted by Capt. B. G. Bogisch, is no exception to what seems to be the fashion of the day. First they are a fine concert band, playing such items as Huronian Carol and the famous Londonderry Air and then, in practically no time at all, they become a big dance band.

They do a terrific job and will be at the McPherson at 8 p.m. today.

Man Holds Gun At Four

A psychiatric examination was ordered Friday for an unidentified man after he held four Colwood RCMP men at bay with a .22 calibre automatic rifle for some time before giving himself up.

A police spokesman said the man claimed he was going to shoot it out with police but "didn't have the guts." The man unloaded the rifle before turning it over to the officers. The incident developed out of a domestic dispute in an Island Highway home but police declined to identify the man.

Duncan Woman Hurt in Crash

Louise Bright, 3015 Westview Road, Duncan, was treated at Queen Victoria Hospital and released after receiving injuries when the car she was driving was in collision with an auto driven by Yves St. Pierre, 4116 Quadra, at the intersection of Yates and Fernwood Friday afternoon, Victoria police reported.

Days of Books and Sad Faces

There are fewer books in the stacks of the University of Victoria's library as the days wind down to Wednesday and the start of exams.

Close to 5,000 students will be writing one or more exams and study space on campus is at a premium.

First-year students gather in anxious huddles speculating on what the questions may be while those with more experience fume over the fact that someone else has taken out the books they feel they need to complete term papers.

There are fewer students than usual hanging about in the Student Union Building and a mood of anxiety quite unconnected with university politics has settled in.

The initial tensions will last until April 28 when exams come to an official end, but this will be followed by weeks of waiting until results are announced.

The difficulty of finding summer jobs to meet next years fees is also a factor in promoting hard study because many are hoping good grades will bring them provincial government and other scholarships.

Friday was the last day of classes and every study spot in the library was filled. As soon as a student vacated a place it was filled immediately.

New Rules Open Door

Victoria Plans All-Year School

By BROCK KETCHAM
Colonist Reporter

Greater Victoria school district may be the first in the area to take advantage of new regulations governing the length of the school year.

"At the moment, there is a plan afoot for a new high school in the Tillicum-Burnside area which would be run on a year-round basis," trustee Dr. Carron Jameson said in an interview Friday.

Jameson was commenting on regulations announced earlier in the day which enable Education Minister Donald Brothers to devise a school-year calendar to suit individual needs of school districts and schools.

The new rules, approved Thursday by the cabinet, state the school year shall last from July 1 to the following June 30. Within those limits, the minister can provide for different types of calendars.

The regulations also allow for the semester system and other variations in the use of schools.

Jack Armstrong, Saanich school district chairman, said he does not foresee implementation of the year-round calendar in any school in his district in the near future.

Fred Willway, Sooke school district chairman, said he did not want to comment on the matter until after a school board meeting Tuesday night.

Jameson, who for years has fought for year-round operation of schools, said the proposed high school is first on the priority list for school construction.

Jameson said if plans for the school go ahead, completion should be achieved within a year. He added that he would like to see the system introduced at another school if construction does not proceed.

A semester system currently exists in both Greater Victoria and Saanich school districts.

Armstrong said the system is in its second year at Royal Oak junior high school and will be introduced at Claremont high school in September. At least two schools in his district have a semester system.

Armstrong said he applauds the new provincial regulations. "Certainly the concept of running schools year-round is a good one and we welcome the idea."

However, he added, the district is currently well equipped with schools and "we don't anticipate any great crowding for two or three years."

The education department has encouraged fuller use of schools in recent years and deputy minister Joe Phillipson said school districts have indicated interest in more flexible school calendars.

The regulations also pass control of teacher tenure from the school boards to the minister of education.

Phillipson said a teacher will begin work under a continuing rather than a probationary period in particular cases.

If a teacher is suspended, he said, the minister will appoint an appeal board composed of one representative from the B.C. Teachers' Federation and one from the B.C. School Trustees' Association, as well as a government-appointed chairman.

Laser Device Sought For Victoria Hospital

A group of doctors who practise at Queen Victoria General Hospital is urging the purchase of a laser device to surgically repair disease inside the eye, it was learned Friday.

Called a photocoagulator, it would be worth about $40,000.

Veterans Hospital in Victoria has a laser, used in similar operations, but the photocoagulator at Queen Victoria General would be the first of its type on Vancouver Island.

Welfare Payments

Esquimalt Loses $25,419 Action

West Bay Private Hospital Ltd., which closed in February, was awarded $25,419 Friday in its claim against Esquimalt for increased payment for care of welfare patients.

West Bay, which was operated at 531 West Bay Terrace, Esquimalt, sued the municipality in B.C. Supreme Court for costs that the provincial government refused to pay.

The judgment was delivered in Vancouver by Mr. Justice Peter Seaton.

The British Columbia Supreme Court suit was one of a number of similar actions that a group of private hospitals have launched against the municipalities in which they operate.

They claim the municipalities are responsible for paying the difference between the maximum rate the provincial government will pay in its cost-sharing arrangement for welfare patients with the municipalities and the higher amount the hospitals contend is necessary for "reasonable remuneration."

Of 17 lawsuits filed against municipalities, 13 now have been decided in supreme court judgments totalling $525,000 to date.

Most were settlements by consent and were based on a basic decision in the issue handed down in a test case earlier this year by Mr. Justice Thomas Berger.

In the West Bay Private Hospital suit, Victoria lawyer Lloyd McKenzie said a number of welfare patients there were actually residents of other municipalities. He contended Esquimalt should not be held liable for the additional costs of care as it applies to them.

Seaton held that those patients so long as they were in that hospital "lived" in Esquimalt and that under an existing provincial law Esquimalt was responsible for them.

He added that Esquimalt, if it chooses, is free to seek to recover this amount from the various municipalities or areas where the welfare patients involved are normally resident.

Pacific Rim Study 'Down-to-Earth'

By BILL THOMAS
Colonist Reporter

The University of Victoria's Pacific studies program, which has been talked about since 1965, became a reality Friday when literature advertising it was circulated to students.

Dr. Bryan Farrell, a UVic geographer, said: "The basic intention is to bring together a group of experts in a wide variety of disciplines so that we can offer students and members of the community a broad background in all aspects of activity around the Pacific Rim."

Farrell explained that in the academic year 1972-73, a background course in themes and problems of the Pacific will be given and followed up later with seminars and directed study programs.

Dr. William Leary, a specialist in the history of relations between the U.S. and the Far East, said: "This is very much a practical, down-to-earth endeavor and not an ivory tower exercise for academics.

"There is a great deal of talk about the value of interdisciplinary study but this is a sincere effort to do something about it."

If the program catches the imagination of both students and interested members of the community, Farrell foresees the possibility of the establishment of a centre for Pacific studies at UVic.

"Because of its location," said Farrell, "Victoria has a great many members of the community who could offer our program a great deal. We would be most pleased to hear from anyone who is interested in participating in any way."

Farrell hopes that the plan for a centre will win university approval, for he would like the administration to seek funding from the federal and provincial governments and also from business concerns with interests around the Pacific.

If the course is successful, Farrell said, he would like to organize seminars on specific themes, especially for businessmen.

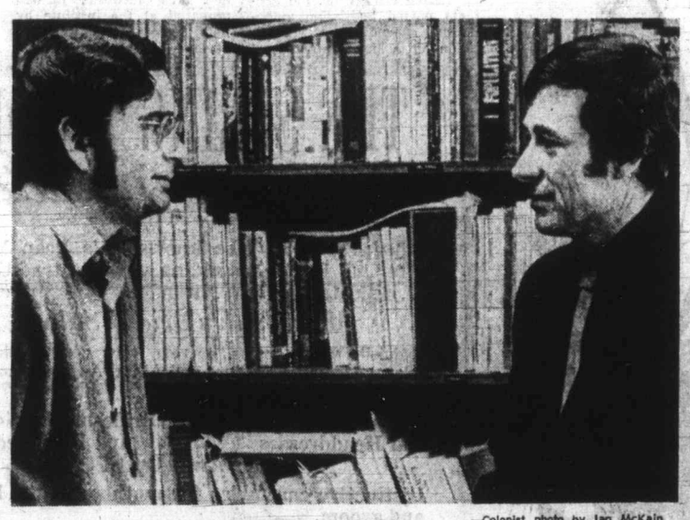

"There is bound to be an increasing interest in trade activity with China and, of course, we already have a vital interest in Japanese trade," said Farrell. He added that the university has faculty members who are conversant with Pacific Rim problems and who could be of assistance to businessmen.

Leary said that while the initial course offerings were limited, it would be very easy to expand the program to the point where a major could be offered in Pacific studies.

"We just needed a framework to start with, and now we have it," said Leary.

The faculty members participating in the course are all doing so over and above their normal teaching loads, he said.

The course will be offered from 4:30 to 6 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Sticky Legal 'Anomaly'

Hydro Takes Land but Not Tax Bill

Despite B.C. Hydro's expropriation of the home and four acres occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Codyre, 1890 Munn Road, the couple continues to have title to the property and pays Saanich municipal taxes, it was learned Friday.

When Hydro ran bulldozers over the Codyre property last year in preparation for a powerline right-of-way, spokesmen for the crown agency dismissed the man's complaints with the statement that he no longer was the owner.

However, in spite of the cabinet order of Aug. 6, 1970, obtained by Hydro to expropriate the property, Codyre remains the owner. He paid 1971 Saanich taxes and has received his assessment notice for this year.

A B.C. Hydro spokesman, when asked earlier this week to explain what appeared to be an anomaly, said the cabinet order had the effect of vesting title with Hydro.

A certificate was filed with the land registry office by the expropriator (Hydro) but the B.C. Land Registry Act requires a duplicate of the certificate to be signed by the former owner before title is conveyed.

Codyre has declined to sign that document on the basis that Hydro's expropriation was premature and its price was unfair, and as a result the land registry office has not switched the ownership to Hydro.

Codyre says the work now being done by Hydro in the Munn Road area proves that the crown authority did not have to take his property for at least another 10 years, if ever.

In the meantime, it has levelled all the trees on the site where Codyre now 70, and his wife hoped to spend all their retirement years.

Codyre says if the activities of Hydro can be described as ruthless in his case, they were "vicious" with others. Hydro would not even allow one of his neighbors to harvest a vegetable garden after it had expropriated the property.

Two weeks ago, a County Court judge in Victoria decided that Hydro should pay another Munn Road property-owner more than double what it first offered for the site.

Hydro's highest offer to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Borden for their five acres was $7,500. However, the Bordens pursued their rights under the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority Act and asked for a government-appointed evaluator.

That evaluator set the price at $13,585 but Hydro believed it to be excessive and had the price reviewed by Judge M. L. T. Drake in County Court. The judge decided that $17,848 was proper compensation.

"Basically, we are still considering the judge's decision," a Hydro spokesman said this week.

"We cannot comment on what our position will be," said the spokesman when he asked whether Hydro would appeal the Drake decision.

Three Car Crash Damages $1,050

About $1,050 worth of damage was caused to three cars involved in a collision Friday evening at the intersection of Pandora and Vancouver, Victoria police reported. The accident occurred when a car driven by Shirley Corrigal, 1400 Kings, was in collision with another driven by Brian Drage, 3980 Wolf, Saanich, which then collided with a vehicle driven by Keith Spence, 1321 Rudlin, police said.

Council Grants

The Provincial Advisory Council on Drugs, Alcohol and Cigarettes will provide grants totalling $15,300 to universities and colleges to purchase authoritative reference material on the three habits, the chairman of the council, Donald Brothers, announced Friday.

Taxes Hike Small?

Word came Friday that 1972 property taxes in the city of Victoria, exclusive of the portion for education, might be subject to "a moderate increase only."

Mayor Peter Pollen declined to mention any figures but indications are the mill rate will rise by approximately two or three mills.

All the mayor would say was that "it's going to be a lot less than five mills."

A five to six-mill increase had been indicated by the city's provisional budget tabled by council last December.

A two-mill jump would mean that a property owner would have to pay an additional $2 for each $1,000 assessment.

The mayor made his prediction of a "moderate increase" following the last preliminary budget-cutting session Friday. These sessions were held behind closed doors and attended only by the mayor, the city manager, the city comptroller, individual department heads and committee chairmen.

They were held to trim each department's budget estimates before the matter reaches council by the end of this month.

"Through careful deletion of certain items, we were able to bring the budget down to size," the mayor said.

Some Foods Down

Gas Leads Price Hike

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Did your rich Aunt Ella send you a $10 cheque for Christmas?

If you've still got it, it's now worth less than $9.94 because of inflation.

Consumer prices have risen almost seven-tenths of 1 per cent since December, Statistics Canada reported Friday when it released the March index. On the basis of 1961 prices equaling 100, the index was 137.4 last month, compared with 137.3 in February and 136.3 in December.

The index rise was held to a narrow one-tenth of 1 per cent gain last month. There were lower prices for many basic foods, such as eggs and vegetables, but gasoline and fuel oil prices led the march of other price advances.

The index measures price changes each month in more than 300 consumer goods and services which figure in the spending patterns of urban families.

If the pace of advance during the first three months of 1972 continues for the balance of the year, there will be relatively modest inflation.

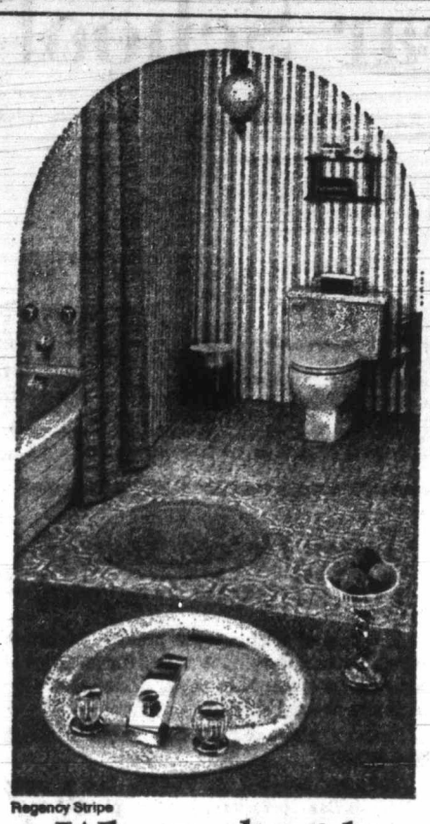

However, prices do not maintain a steady pace because of seasonal factors, such as lower food prices in the fall when fresh farm produce is plentiful, and an anticipated rise in prices later in the year as Christmas approaches.

Other factors also enter into price behavior. Statistics Canada noted Friday that auto licence fees were higher last month in Manitoba and Alberta, while some drug prices came down in British Columbia because of the removal of a provincial tax.

If the present pace of inflation in consumer prices were to continue for the next nine months, the year's rate would be 2.6 per cent. This would be close to the goal advocated by many economists — not more than 2 per cent a year.

Actually, consumer prices last month were 4.6 per cent higher than one year earlier. This marks some scaling down of the price rise which was running ahead by 5 per cent or more last year.

Buckley will speak at Red Cross meeting

Red Cross Division Meets

The 53rd divisional meeting of the B.C.-Yukon Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society is being held in Vancouver this weekend.

Tickets are sold out for the luncheon to be held at the Bayshore Inn Monday when William F. Buckley Jr., editor-in-chief of the National Review of New York, will be the guest speaker.

Buckley also is host of a television program, Firing Line, on Channel 9. He has had extensive experience in many countries and was most recently a member of the press accompanying President Nixon on his tour of China.

Dr. Olga Jardine of Victoria, president of the B.C. Yukon division will go to Vancouver this morning for a meeting of regional vice-presidents.

Admiral E. W. R. Finch-Noyes, president of the Victoria branch; Leslie McMaster, Ernest Heybrook, members of the divisional executive, Mrs. Wilfred Davenport, second vice-president, and Mrs. Charles Medley, executive director will also be in Vancouver for the meeting.

J. R. M. Wilson, national president, and Gen. A. E. Wrinch, divisional commissioner, will come from Toronto and there will be representatives from Washington and Los Angeles.

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says the March cost-of-living figures show that Canadians on fixed incomes, particularly pensioners, "are being left to fall further and further behind."

The cost-of-living index increased by one-tenth of a point last month, although food prices declined.

Stanfield said this was the fourth consecutive month in which prices were more than 4½ per cent higher than 12 months earlier.

"If Mr. Trudeau is simply holding off remedial action to fit it to the needs of an election timetable we are seeing a new high in cynicism. If no action is planned at all we are seeing a new low in social justice."

'On-Off' Sterilization Studied

By HARRY NELSON
Colonist - Los Angeles Times Service

DETROIT — A new procedure that will enable doctors to sterilize women in a 10 or 15-minute office procedure and a tiny faucet-type valve to make vasectomies reversible have been reported.

Dr. Clifford Wheelus, a Johns Hopkins University gynecologist, said instruments making possible fast and simple female sterilization are being developed that will fit in an attache case for carrying to rural areas and undeveloped countries.

Dr. Joseph Davis, a New York Medical College urologist, desribed a mechanical device to turn a vasectomy "on" or "off," thus allowing alternating periods of sterility or fertility.

To change from on to off and vice versa requires a surgical procedure, however.

Wheelus and Davis addressed the 10th annual meeting of the American Association of Planned Parenthood Physicians here. More than 300 birth control and population education authorities are gathered to hear reports on contraception, abortion and sterilization. The meeting is sponsored by Planned Parenthood-World Population.

Wheelus said his female sterilization procedure would cost about 125 dollars, a sharp drop from present costs because the need for hospitalization would be eliminated.

His procedure is a modification of laparoscopy — making an incision in the abdomen and inserting an instrument to close off the fallopian tubes by electrocauterizing them.

The Johns Hopkins group has made it an out-patient procedure by eliminating the need for general anesthesia.

The instrument is inserted into the incision which is about the diameter of a finger. It has a light to enable the doctor to locate the Fallopian tubes.

Wheelus said 500 procedures had been done using local anesthesia in Maryland, Nepal and El Salvador and soon will be tried in Puerto Rico.

In addition, a New York firm is developing a new laparoscope that places a clip around the Fallopian tubes rather than cauterizing them.

The gynecologist said 15 or 20 cases had been done using this experimental instrument.

"I think very shortly we will have female sterilization down to a 10 or 15-minute operation under local anesthesia with all the equipment necessary packed into an attache case," he said.

Davis, who is president of the Association for Voluntary Sterilization, said the "on-off" vasectomy mechanism consists of a tiny valve developed at New York Medical College which is permanently implanted in the sperm-carrying tube.

Made of gold and stainless steel, it has been tested in guinea pigs and in 30 male volunteers, he said.

Job Success Blamed

Heart Disease Rises in Women

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Incidence of death from heart disease is rising sharply among American women under 45 and it may be due partly to their success in winning jobs formerly done mainly by men, a team of U.S. federal government medical experts reported Friday.

Their report of an 11 per cent increase over a recent period of seven years and evidence that the trend is continuing was issued along with a call by President Nixon for preventive steps starting in childhood to combat heart disease, the No. 1 killer in the United States.

At the same time, the Senate passed legislation authorizing expenditure of $1.5 billion for a three-year federal program of research and treatment of heart, lung and blood diseases. The bill, sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would establish 30 new research and treatment centres to be run by the National Institutes of Health (NIH). The measure, endorsed by the administration, is pending in the House of Representatives.

The report on heart disease among women was made public by Dr. Theodore Cooper, director of the National Heart and Lung Institute. It was prepared at the institute by four doctors specializing in cardiac ailments, which claim the lives of more than 650,000 Americans annually.

The report said the increased rate of heart disease death among women under 45 might be attributed inpart to their changing lifestyle, which was defined to include the jobs they hold, their eating and drinking habits, their leisure activity and environmental influences.

Cooper said the trend could not be explained in full yet, but that "with the new women's action programs, many (heart disease) factors of the so-called man's world become factors for women."

Youth Deficit Chops Y's Budget

Program Change May Cure

Brice

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

A substantial drop in the number of young people attending the YM-YWCA, and changes in coffee shop operation were blamed this week for a $26,098 deficit in 1971 operations.

The deficit was more than double the $12,000 estimated loss for the year and well up from the $11,589 loss in 1970.

Accountant George Brice said that during the year there had been a particular decrease in membership in the youth department which resulted in an estimated $6,450 deficit turning into a $10,204 deficit.

The Y, he said, is trying to cure the situation with a change of program for young people.

There has been, he said, almost a complete turnover of staff in the department, and new programs are stressing personal relationships more than the old instructor-pupil relationship.

There are more resource people being called upon to help out in such courses as a new media workshop, where people with specialized knowledge in fields such as graphics are instructing the youngsters.

"It does seem that young people want a different type of program to that offered in the past, and during the past three months or so we have been sizing up the situation.

"It took a while for us to ferret out the problems, to make necessary staff changes and to bring in new staff, but I do believe we shall soon be seeing an upswing in membership which hopefully will bring us into a break even situation by the end of the year," said Brice.

In addition there have been expenses incurred as the Y has sent more people and equipment into outlying areas to put on special youth programs, without membership fee, in community centres.

Brice said he has hopes that the coffee shop operation will not only come out of the red this year, but will end up with a profit of perhaps as much as $4,000.

It had been estimated that the coffee shop would bring in a profit of $5,861, instead of which there was a $3,930 deficit.

Brice said there had been a complete change in operation of the coffee shop during the past year.

It had been decided to take over the operation from the service organization which had been running it, and it had also been decided to stop serving meals to the Y residents, who had been getting them.

He said it had been found that serving the meals entailed keeping on extra staff for longer hours than was justified.

With staff changes and adjustments in operation and he hopes at the least to steer clear of a loss on the operation, and at best to make a profit.

In addition to changes in the two programs losing money, said Brice, it is hoped that the Y will be able to pay off a building loan, thus saving interest payments of some $12,000 a year, and alleviating in part the general deficit.

"The outlook for the future is certainly much brighter," said Brice, "especially if our new youth programs do bring the young people back to the Y."

In the meanwhile, he said, the Y is running with an overdraft from the bank. "We have been very fortunate to be able to do this," said Brice.

African Images Opened to Children

Black Is Color for Art

By ROBIN WRIGHT
Colonist - Monitor Service

DETROIT, Mich. — After only three weeks on the market it was a sell-out. The Smithsonian Institution as well as art centres and museums in Detroit, Washington, Chicago, Philadelphia, and New York clamored for copies. And the U.S. Information Agency reproduced portions for its official publication.

Profit Road

Among the 46-page collection of art sketches there are no Winnie the Pooh, Disney characters or Mother Gooses. Instead, rough but intricately decorated primitive masks, animal sculptures and body etchings of tribes in 2 different African nations color the pages.

The road from school project to profit was unexpectedly easy for the students, although it took their instructor, Mrs. Cyril Miles, many years to convince Highland Park Junior College that it would work.

After finding coloring books on Roman, ancient Egyptian, Greek, and even Armenian art, Mrs. Miles became convinced "that black people have been shortchanged of their cultural history.

"The African images are not well known or understood by the public," she explained.

"But they're images all people should be exposed to, especially children. In that way they'll have a better feeling for the background and uniqueness of blacks."

Line Drawings

Mrs. Miles' solution was to suggest the best charcoal line drawings from her advanced art class be assembled into a coloring book. Accordingly, their subjects for the entire fall semester were replicas of original work from Africa.

The only problem was marketing their product. It was at this point that the college's marketing class was brought in.

Under the direction of marketing instructor Suzanne Feld, the class voluntarily took up the challenge of wholesaling the book. Students, at first with only a brochure to show potential buyers, set out to get advance orders.

"I knew it wouldn't be easy at first," Mrs. Feld explained. "But I also knew that the actual experience would be better than anything they would read in textbooks."

Inner City

Retailers' reception? "Phenomenal," the instructor exclaimed. "For something like this to come out of the inner city is fantastic."

The Highland Park school board, equally impressed with the project once it got going, granted the class $1,300 to form the Highland Park College Press to publish it. The first issue came out Dec. 2.

Now that the book, which sells for $1.25, is more stable financially, the profits will be used to finance future projects and art scholarships.

Throughout the semester, the art students, 13 of whom are black, responded enthusiastically to the project, especially since some of them had been working on subjects of a similar nature.

Four of the students, one a mother of four, did most of the core work and samples, each contributing nine drawings. Their subsequent art interests became so African-oriented that each now has his or her own private enterprise in black art.

Core Work

Two young women are designing greeting cards with a black orientation. One male student is working on sketches for a coloring book devoted to Nigerian art. And the fourth young capitalist has three children's books going.

But the class effort isn't over. Each semester Mrs. Miles plans to choose a different area — for now, various regions in Africa — for students to draw into a new coloring book. This semester their subject is Zimbabwe in Rhodesia.

With only one exception, outsiders have expressed obvious signs of approval. Not only has Mrs. Miles's class grown from 16 to more than 200, but bookstores, as well as the J. L. Hudson and Sears chains, already have become African Art Coloring Book retailers.

The one exception, about which Mrs. Miles laughs, was a black woman who called, furious about the project. Feeling the book was an exploitation of black people, she most vehemently objected to the use of the word "coloring" in the title.

—Monitor

THIS DRAWING from African art coloring book was done from bronze Oni portrait originating in Ife, Algeria. Book also includes simplistic but unusual renderings of African masks.

Injectable Contraceptives Reliable, Tests Indicate

DETROIT (UPI) — Tests conducted on 907 low-income Mexican women concluded that injectable contraceptives provide long-term protection against pregnancy and may be more acceptable to women who dislike birth control pills.

The tests showed the pregnancy rate was zero when injections were given at proper intervals — 84 days apart with one chemical compound — and that fertility was rapidly restored when treatment was discontinued, said Dr. Edris Rice-Wray of the training and research centre for family planning in Mexico City. Fewer physical problems also may be produced.

Happy Conservative Marriage May Be Myth

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. UPI — A William and Mary sociology professor says the widespread belief that more conventional and conservative people have happier marriages may be a myth.

Vernon Edmonds, in a magazine article entitled Happily Married? is challenging years of studies that indicated "confirmists" and "conventionals" score higher in successful marital adjustment.

"Conservative couples appear more happy than more liberal ones because they distort the appraisals of their marriage in a more socially acceptable way," Edmonds said.

He said conservative couples with conventional attitudes describe their marriages as good because they think a happy marriage is more socially desirable. "But there is happy and actually being happy," Edmonds added.

Edmonds defined a conservative marriage partner as one characterized by a high degree of traditional morality, religious activity and one who probably abstained from premarital sexual relations.

The fact that conservative couples tend to place more stock on a happy marriage to the extent that they may deceive even themselves about it, Edmonds said, may mean that "anti-establishment" couples may be as happily or as unhappily married as "straights."

Edmonds said there is no way to ensure a happy marriage, adding, "Someone has about as much control over his marriage as he does over his own height."

He said one way to increase the odds of a happy marriage was in the premarital period, of which he said: "The more the premarital period resembles the marriage period, the more likely it is the marriage will be a relatively happy one."

Something To Think On

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Crowds gathered as police and firemen arrived, sirens screaming, at the Consumers Power Co. building. A young woman was on the roof of the building and apparently someone thought she was going to jump. Two doctors and a plainclothes policeman approached the woman. She told them she was on her lunch hour and merely went to the roof to "meditate."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann: The doctors are at it again. Every other week they come up with something that is harmful to Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public. If it isn't cholesterol it's smog. Now they tell us to stop laughing. A scientist at Stanford University says laughing can be hazardous to your health. He claims laughter disrupts normal breathing and can contribute to strokes in people who are susceptible. He also points out there is no literature detailing the massive muscular activity associated with laughter and we have much to learn in this area.

I have always believed that laughter was good for people — and now this. Any comment, Ann? What do your experts say? — Afraid To Hear A Joke.

Dear Afraid: My experts say go ahead and laugh — if you can find something to laugh about these days. (And P.S. Pass it on, will you?)

Dear Ann Landers: Two months ago I borrowed my girl friend's floor cleaner. While I was setting up the cleaner it caught on fire. I called her immediately and told her what had happened. I explained I had not done anything wrong—that there must have been a short someplace and I would take it to the repair shop for her at once.

Three weeks later the man from the shop called to say the price for repairing the cleaner would be $40. I telephoned my friend and told her about the repair charge and asked her how much she had paid for it new. She said, "Sixty dollars." I told her I'd take the cleaner to another shop and get a second estimate. Her reply was, "I think you ought to buy me a new machine." I was shocked.

Yesterday I bought a new floor cleaner for her and it cost $79. Did I do the right thing or am I a fool? — Flat Broke.

Dear Flat: Was the girl's friendship worth $79? If you had not replaced the floor cleaner things it would be curtains. The burden is on the borrower, not the lender. Granted, your nose is slightly out of joint, but if I were in your place I'd rather it be my nose than hers. You did the right thing and I salute you.

Renewed Violence Kills 4

Bombs Rock Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland on Friday had its worst day of violence since Britain took over the north two weeks ago. Four persons were killed.

Bombings and gunfire erupted just hours after announcement of British conciliatory gestures aimed at placating the Roman Catholic minority.

William Whitelaw, the British administrator of Northern Ireland, ordered the release of 73 of the more than 700 suspected terrorists interned without trial under emergency powers. He also abandoned the use of the prison ship Maidstone as a floating jail.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army continued its campaign of violence to unite Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic. The death toll from three years of strife between the Protestant majority and rebelling Catholics rose to 298.

A British army trooper patrolling Belfast's Catholic Ballymurphy district was shot dead by a sniper. In the residential Bawnmore Grove quarter, three men died in a blast while loading explosives into a car. Five garages were demolished in the explosion.

Three bombs shoot other portions of Belfast. A gas station blast injured three persons; a boy scout supply shop was wrecked after a young couple planted a 30-minute time bomb, and an explosion severely damaged a liquor store after two youths gave the proprietor and customers 15 minutes to get out.

Elsewhere in Ulster, three snipers ambushed a helicopter-borne army patrol as it touched down on the outskirts on Londonderry. The soldiers said 70 rounds were fired at them without injury but a gunman fell in the exchange.

In Armagh, the ecclesiastical capital of all Ireland, 15 shops and offices were shattered.

Dam Foe Will Wait

SEATTLE (AP) — Two Seattle city councilmen, expected to vote Monday against a proposal to raise Ross Dam, offered an alternative plan Friday which would keep the dam-raising possibility alive for a while.

Councilmen Bruce Chapman and John Miller suggested the city hold its high dam application in abeyance while it formulates a long-term energy policy.

And councilman Sam Smith, who said earlier he would vote to kill the high dam proposal, said Friday he now prefers to wait for hearings before the federal power commission.

Seattle City Light has proposed raising Ross Dam on the Skagit River by 122.5 feet, a move which would flood 5,200 acres of Skagit Valley in B.C.

Without Smith's vote, four council members who had been expected to move on Monday to kill the high dam proposal, would lack a majority.

Miller and Chapman also proposed council call upon the state department to convene the international joint commission and have it consider the question of raising the dam.

Canadians opposing the project have threatened court tests. Chapman and Miller warned the situation poses n increasingly serious foreign policy problem that cannot be settled by the city of Seattle alone.

Tycoons Meeting 'A Shock'

CALGARY (CP) — Secretary of State Pat Mahoney said Thursday he was embarrassed by news that a meeting between cabinet ministers and international business executives had been arranged by a United States management firm.

He told a political forum that meetings with various interest groups are held all the time, "but it comes as a shock that this was promoted as a commercial undertaking by somebody in New York."

The meeting was cancelled Thursday.

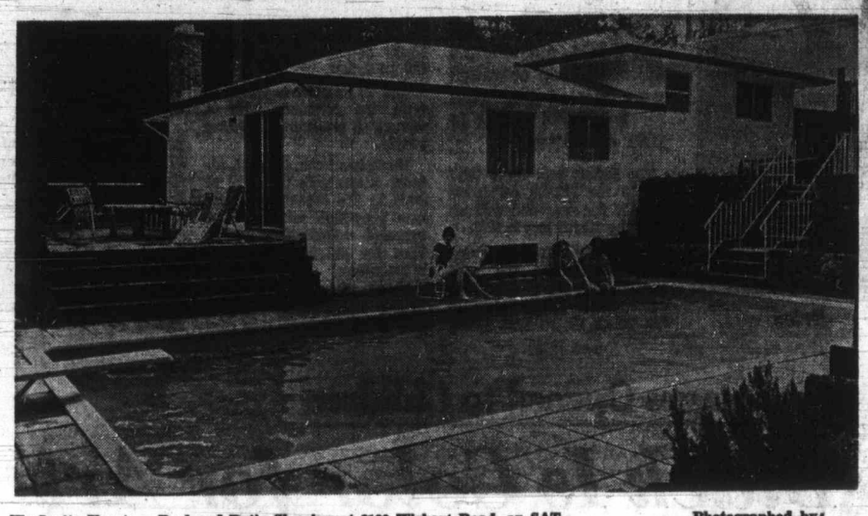

The secretary of state said the government intended to discuss trade implications of tax reform legislation and not its foreign ownership policy which the businessmen had understood was the meeting's purpose.

Foreign ownership issues dominated the forum, which included Eldon Woolliams, Progressive Conservative MP for Calgary North, and Barry Pashak, New Democratic Party candidate in the same riding.

Toast for Outstanding Veteran

Presentation of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans order for service award at Victoria unit Thursday night was first such presentation in Canada west of Winnipeg. Recipient was Edward Ball, right, who responds to toast from past provincial president of veterans organization Jack Swedberg. Ball, a captain in Victoria fire department, received award for outstanding contribution to Army, Navy and Air Force organization and to community.

Savage Voices Approval

Commerce May Aid Parks

Revenue from selected commercial installations in public parks may be the answer to the problem of rising maintenance costs, says Victoria Ald. Clyde Savage, chairman of the Capital Regional Board's parks committee.

"They must be tastefully designed, be of general interest to the public, and blend in with the park atmosphere," Savage said in an interview Friday.

He was commenting on a financial arrangement between the operator of a children's amusement facility in Elk-Beaver Lake Park and the municipality of Saanich.

Another clause in the agreement states that Saanich may also choose payment of a percentage of the attraction's gross receipts.

According to that clause, the municipality gets six per cent of the first $20,000; eight per cent of the next $5,000 and 10 per cent of anything over $25,000.

Petterson said in an interview his business had never been good enough to get the payment beyond $850 a year.

In fact, business has been so bad that he feels he has to combine Wooded Wonderland with the operation of a miniature train which he owns.

He wants to run the train through the Wooded Wonderland area of the park, but he says he needs a five-year lease from the regional board to make the venture economically feasible.

Saanich council has already endorsed his request but he will still have to get permission from the regional board.

Savage said he doesn't "see why there shouldn't be a train in the park."

Plan Approval Just Red Tape

Government red tape must be satisfied.

So Friday, an application for approval of plans for a 550-foot breakwater built more than five years ago at Fleming Beach was submitted to the federal transport department by Esquimalt officials.

Any chance of the application being turned down?

One reason for this, of course, it that the breakwater already exists.

Another could be that when the municipality published notice of application for approval last month, there were no objections raised. No one found this surprising.

The federal public works department gave Esquimalt permission to build the breakwater in 1965 and the breakwater was completed early in 1966 with municipal and federal funds.

Then jurisdiction changed to the transport department which told Esquimalt in a letter in May, 1971, that "prior consent" to construction of the breakwater "does not constitute approval of the plans and site of the works."

Why must Esquimalt submit to this process?

"Records are being brought up to scratch," said the transport department official.

Assessment of Priests' Conference

Path to 'Beautiful Church'

By DON GAIN
Colonist Reporter

Meetings like the fifth Western Conference of Priests, held from Monday to Thursday at the Empress Hotel, "should bring about a beautiful church," the retiring president of the group said after the closing session.

The president, Rev. Ron Dobbin of the Roman Catholic diocese of Edmonton, said "the spirit was one of a group of guys deeply concerned and sharing creative thinking."

"They will be better human beings in the community because of the sharing and the insights gained," he added.

While the pace was heavy, the enthusiasm more than made up for the work involved, he said, and much of the conference's punch came from the four resource persons. "It was very informative because of their calibre and experience," he said.

The four were Archbishop Samuel Carter of Kingston, Jamaica; Mrs. Sidney Callahan, author and lecturer from New York; Dr. Bernard Boelen, Dutch-born author, philosopher and professor De Paul University, Chicago, and Rev. Richard Currier, author and director of the Diocesan Pastoral Mission in Lansing and Kalamazoo, Mich.

He said he was impressed by the outgoing concern of the group for questions of social justice, particularly in regard to the developing nations of the world.

"While duly concerned with problems affecting priests and their ministry," he said, "they developed the vision of responsibilities which goes far beyond local concerns to Canadian and international levels."

Rev. Bernard Hanley of St. Joseph's parish, Victoria, who was co-ordinating chairman for this week's conference, said he was looking for inspiration in the conference "and I got it."

"I feel we were not looking for final answers but for new ideas," he said.

Toward the recommendations passed by the conference Thursday morning, he was "pessimistic" but he hoped that "something important would follow."

The recommendations:

- That the members of this conference take seriously their responsibility in arousing the conscience of their people to the needs of the people in the third world.
- That the Canadian church through the Canadian Catholic Conference committee on social action prepare a white paper on Canada's policy for foreign aid, to be presented to the Canadian government and to the people of Canada before the end of this year.
- That a telegram be sent to the prime minister and to Canadian representatives to the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (which begins in Santiago, Chile, on April 19) asking that they strongly support the objectives of the forthcoming conference.

(The objectives of the conference, according to Archbishop Carter, are aimed at fostering trade (and fair trade), not aid, for emerging countries, the better to assist their development. A fair price for their primary products, which prices are currently set by the rich nations, including Canada, and not by the poor marketing countries, he said, would enable the poorer nations to establish their own priorities and capitalize their own development.)

- That the members of this conference take the initiative in engaging in new forms of supportive ministry. Some possibilities to be considered are team ministry, mixed communities of men and women, opportunities for exchange of diocesan priests and inter-diocesan co-operation, and new lifestyles for priests.

(De Roo called this "a key resolution" because it shows the kind of continuing work to which western Canadian priests are willing to commit themselves. "They come across as a very positive and creative group.")

- That the priests and laity of the diocese concerned be given a significant participation in the process of selection of a bishop who would serve for a designated period of time.
- While strongly in favor of the continuance of the celibate witness in the diocesan priesthood, there is a need to permit the ordination of married men to the priesthood and to re-evaluate the church's position on priests who have already left the ministry.

(This recommendation was tied on the vote, with 10 abstainers, and Dobbin, acting as chairman, voted in favor of it. De Roo said later that the feeling of the conference was that other matters were of more urgency and many felt this recommendation might detract from the others.)

- That bishops serve for a designated period of time with the possibility of reappointment. (They now serve for life on appointment.)
- That the Western Conference of Priests ge asked to engage the western Canadian bishops in the formulation of a clear pastoral plan for the church of western Canada.

There were no recommendations for women in the clergy, although this was something strongly advocated by Mrs. Callahan.

Currier advocated small neighborhood parishes as discussed in his book, The Future Parish. He believes that, after 10 years of searching, it is time to take action on such a move and also on "dialogue with one's neighbor," which he says is "the guts of Christianity."

Boelen's discussions at the conference concentrated on the meaning of maturity and the consideration of the priest as a person.

About 256 clergy, from the four western provinces and Yukon, attended. Also in attendance were Cardinal George Flahiff of Winnipeg, several archbishops and bishops.

These men are members of the conference on an individual basis, De Roo explained after the final session. "It's a free-will association," he said. "Nobody is forced to belong."

Membership was estimated by Dobbin at around 350, or 30 per cent of the clergy in Western Canada. De Roo said he considered this a healthy representation.

Asked if the conference was considered to be a radical group, De Roo said it probably was by some clerics, "and naturally in any group you don't find everybody agreeing with what is being done."

Elected president of the conference for the following year was Rev. Robert Ogle of Saskatoon. The B.C. representative will be Rev. Paul Foran of Vancouver. Rev. Ed Kennedy of Edmonton will represent Alberta; Rev. Arthur Seaman of Winnipeg will be the Manitoba representative.

Workshops Set Up By Women

Following the recent day-long Ecumenical Women's Out-reach Workshop on Mental Mental Health in First Baptist Church, two mini-workshops have been set up, Mrs. Elizabeth Newnham, chairman, announced this week.

The first will be held from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Wednesday in First United Church. Anne Pask and her workers will present a program on Group Homes, Mrs. Newnham said.

The second will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at White Cross House, 1450 Elford, when Mrs. Joan Dumka and a group of workers will discuss their work in the Canadian Mental Health Association. A tour of White Cross House and a film will be part of the program.

Written Church Records Sparse

Dr. and Mrs. Parsons

Pastor's Source People's Memory

Keep better minutes. That's the advice of Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons who has just spent a year writing the history of Centennial United Church from 1885 to 1970.

He found information sparse and he suspects most church records could be about the same.

"Only when it came to spending money was there much detail," Parsons said in a recent interview. "There was very little, in fact practically nothing, of the spiritual activities of the church."

The main sources are people who were involved at the time and they get fewer every year as time passes, he added.

Parsons believes every church should have a historian responsible for recording events of interest. These would include special projects, young people's work, Sunday school history, social events, work of boards and men's and women's organizations.

Keep Alive

The history could be well documented with photographs and tape recordings, which would help to keep alive the life of the church, including such items as a pastor's favorite sermon, organ recitals and performances of choirs.

"There are too many things that pass away and when the people who remembered them are gone, there's no way to recall them," Parsons said.

In his opinion, church histories should be published every 25 years, incorporating the intervening records.

He traces the story of the church from its beginning as a mission of Pandora Methodist Church, which itself is commenorated on a plaque on the southwest corner of Pandora and Broad as Pandora Avenue Wesleyan Church, the cornerstone of which was laid by Governor Sir James Douglas on Aug. 15, 1859.

Outreach Sense

The Pandora church congregation's sense of outreach resulted in establishment of a prayer meeting and Sunday school on Kings Road in what was then the north end of Victoria. In 1885 a church was organized as Victoria North Methodist Church.

A church building was erected at a cost of $2,848 on a lot costing $1,340. Parsons was unable to find any mention of the location of the lot but later concluded it was the same on which today's church stands. The city, at the time, was asked to lay a sidewalk from Government Street to the church, which was dedicated on Dec. 20, 1885.

Local preachers and exhorters, who apparently were persons who were good at saving souls, conducted services for the first two years and then the church appointed its first minister, Rev. J. W. Wadman, who stayed for two years. A manse was built for the minister on the church property at a cost of $2,000.

Rev. W. W. Baer succeeded Wadman and during his one-year stay the church acquired a pedal organ, the board protested baseball playing near the church on the Sabbath and the church moved from "indebtedness" to "a most prosperous condition."

Larger Church

In 1890 Rev. James White was called from New Westminster and the board paid his moving expenses of $29. By now the congregation was calling itself Gorge Road Methodist Church and attendance required a larger church.

In July, 1891, a contract was awarded to J. H. Matthews for $14,940 to build a new church, incorporating the old one, which seems to pinpoint the location of the property.

The cornerstone was laid in September of that year and the church was given a new name — Centennial Methodist. No reason for the choice was given but Parsons found an explanation elsewhere, that the name was chosen because in that year, 1891, occurred the centenary of the death of John Wesley, one of the founders of Methodism.

Parson's account traces the history through high and low periods, through the stormy days of Dr. Clem Davies, 1922-1923, when the church's B.C. Conference refused to confirm Davies in his post and he left to establish The City Temple which first met in the Royal Theatre, and through the rewarding days of Rev. George Pringle, 1929-1931, who is remembered in the name of the United Church camp on Shawnigan Lake.

First Broadcast

It was during Davies' pastorship that the first church service was broadcast in Western Canada. It took place 49 years ago April 1, which that year was Easter Sunday. Davies, a Welshman, had been in the radio ministry in Hollywood and he wanted to get religion into Victoria homes.

According to an account by Frank Hull, former operator of radio station CFCL, the operations room was set up in the pastor's study and part of the equipment in the men's choir gown room.

The aerial mast was erected by B.C. Telephone and, after some preliminary difficulties, everything was ready for the first Easter Sunday broadcast in Western Canada and the first broadcast of a Sunday church service.

Public Address

At 7 a.m. the same day there was a sunrise service on Mount Tolmie and the first public address system was used to convey the message to the crowd there.

a power of 500 watts. Accord-

The station broadcast under ing to Hall, the call letters were coined by Davies who said they stood for Centennial First, Centennial Last.

Hall said the station was moved several times and its call letters changed to CFCT. Davies eventually turned it over to the Daily Colonist, he said, and it became CJVI.

Parsons brings his story up to date through periods of construction and growth and the work of the church's pastors. He includes photos, old and new, which give life to his narrative.

He ends with a look to the future in which he proclaims the church's functions to be fivefold — prophetic, regenerative or evangelistic, pastoral, communal and philanthropic.

And from now on he hopes his church, and others, will keep better records.

Teams Live with Aztecs

A man who spent 20 years as a translator among the Aztec people in the state of Guerrero in Mexico will speak at a dinner meeting of the Wycliffe Associates of Canada at 7 p.m. Monday in the Tally-Ho Hotel in Nanaimo.

Herb Whealy and his wife translated the Gospel of Mark, the Book of Acts, and various hymns and Bible stories into the language of these people.

Monday's dinner, which is open to the public, is being held to encourage interest and support for the Wycliffe Bible Translators.

The organization is an interdenominational mission which specializes in Bible translation among tribal groups.

There are about 2,800 members in 24 countries working as linguists and support personnel with tribal people who do not have a written language.

Teams live with tribes, learn the language, develop an alphabet, teach reading and writing with the goal of translating the New Testament into the native tongue.

Upgrading health and agriculture and teaching simple industries are also part of the Wycliffe program.

The goal of a translation team in every tribe by 1985 means an additional 6,000 persons involved in reaching the 160,000,000 people of the world who are still without a written language in their own tongue.

In addition to translators, the organization also needs teachers, doctors, nurses, pilots, radio operators, artists, photographers, writers, maintenance men, business managers, office workers and others.

Interested persons may serve for six months or less, for two years or less or as a member for a longer time.

Helping Hand Talk Subject

The Helping Relationship will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Margaret McHugh, associate professor of the education department, University of Victoria, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Metropolitan United Church assembly room, under the sponsorship of the Greater Victoria Citizens Counselling Centre. The centre will hold its third annual meeting at 8 p.m April 19 at the church.

Speaks Sunday

Poetry and Belief is the topic to be discussed by Dr. Tony Jenkins, associate professor in the English department at the University of Victoria, at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Victoria. Dr. Jenkins is a well-known actor and Chaucerian scholar.

FORD'S COURIER Ford

Ford's little import
COURIER
With an economy import price

At Ford, we like to give you what you like to have. So now we've brought in our own little import truck to meet your needs.

Courier comes complete with a fully synchronized four-on-the-floor transmission, bright front bumper and grille, hub caps, whitewall tires and a peppy 1800 cc overhead cam engine.

Courier also has all the components for people and payloads up to 1400 pounds. That means there's plenty of room in back for a cycle or two . . . or camping, fishing, or hunting equipment. It's also rather a comfortable thought that you can head out to rough it for a weekend—without roughing it on the ride. With an independent front suspension and a long 104.3" wheelbase. Courier is designed to take the bite out of the bumps. Courier's just right for the outdoor life.

And while Courier can pack in what you need to head out for the fun, it is also built to be pretty practical. Everything from the powertrain to the cab and body are designed with low maintenance costs in mind. Courier is also easy on gas, easy to maneuver, and easy to buy with its low import price. All in all, we think our new Courier offers you the most economical way to play pickup.

And it's nice to know that now, if you're in the mood for a little import truck, you don't have to look any further than your local Ford or Mercury Dealer.

Great Protagonist

Charlie Chaplin Emergence Probably Generation Early

By D. J. R. BRUCKNER
Colonist - Los Angeles Times Service

NEW YORK — You want to laugh, but hesitate to, when you watch people reacting to the reappearance here of Charlie Chaplin, after 20 years. On the surface it is all official honors and official adulation, terribly sincere. But on the cocktail circuit you still find a lot of older people who resent him for what they call his politics. And among some younger intellectuals who have no reason to despise him for his politics, there is a tendency to pick his art apart. And you quickly find that, if you are disposed to smile at these absurdities, you had best smile alone.

It seems that almost everyone of significance in films and the stage has testified that he is a towering artist. And if you go around to the theatres now you still find large audiences of the young, losing themselves in laughter at his films. The laughter of the young is extraordinary testimony.

His work seems to be reaching a third generation of viewers pretty directly. And the fact is that he made many of these films at a time when there was an impressive number of funny people in the films to compete with. As Henry Vaughan said of someone, "He had the happiness to shine in an age that loved light, and to multiply his own by the light of others."

He has lived so long (he will be 83 on April 16) that half the people are too young to recall how he was treated by some elements of American society, and by the government, before he left in 1952 and decided not to return. Recently a film critic even referred sneeringly to Chaplin's "20 years of self-imposed exile."

It is an embarassing experience now, to go through file of newspapers and magazines from the 1940s in an effort to understand what happened to Chaplin. It is not easy to understand the hostility of many of the papers toward him then. You will find many stories about the disputes he got into over The Great Dictator, which he released at the beginning of the Second World War. Many people were angry with him because he was ridiculing Adolf Hitler in 1940.

Then he caused immense controversy during the war by speaking around the United States in favor of war relief for the Russians. Next, you find him involved in a civil paternity suit, in the midst of which, the federal government indicted him on charges of violating the Mann Act. The woman he was alleged to have transported over state lines for immoral purposes, in violation of the Mann Act, was the same one suing him in the paternity case. The jury in the federal court acquited him of the government's charges. How did the federal government ever get involved in such a dispute in the first place, one wonders. It cannot have been a disinterested prosecution.

Finally, his wartime appeals for the Russians, and the general postwar panic about communism in Hollywood, kept his name in the papers for many years. The House Unamerican activities committee sent him a subpoena and set several hearing dates, but they never called him. He was asked repeatedly at press conferences about his political opinions (he never belonged to a political party and thus could scarcely be asked about membership); and you can even find serious discussions — this seems incredible now — about whether Modern Times was left-wing propaganda because it criticized factory conditions in America.

In 1952, when he was preparing to go to England for a time (he was still a British subject), the U.S. government first denied him a re-entry permit, although he had worked in the United States for 40 years; it then issued him one, and then, while he was still sailing to England, announced that he would not be permitted back into the United States unless he submitted to questioning about his "moral worth." After he had left, federal agents went to his home in Beverly Hills to question his servants about his private life.

Many films have indicted society or institutions, but they did it seriously. Chaplin was getting people to laugh at some fairly fundamental assumptions about themselves and society, and that is always dangerous, just as, at most times, it is necessary for people's sanity and their survival as individuals.

He was probably just a generation too early.

Folk Dancers Feel Pinch

MONTREAL (CP) — Serious financial problems may force Les Feux Follets, known as Canada's national folk dance team, to suspend operations for at least this year, Jean Douville, company administrator, said Thursday.

The troupe, already facing debts of about $200,000, had a $150,000 grant request turned down by the Canada Council last week.

Douville said "it appears likely we'll have to suspend activities for at least this year." There is some talk that the future of the 20-year-old group is in doubt.

The company's participation in this summer's Charlottetown Festival and the possibility of going to the Peking trade fair in September as the first Canadian artistic ensemble to visit China now are both unlikely.

Other plans such as school shows and a new cross-Canada tour will probably not materialize.

She said the group has not enlarged its board of directors or obtained private financial support to the council's satisfaction.

Les Feux Follets, founded by Michel Cartier, performs the folk dances of Canada's native and immigrant populations. Besides tours in Canada and the United States, it had also visited Europe and the Far East.

Mary Astor's 1942 Oscar Arrives, 30 Years Later

HOLLYWOOD (Reuters) — Actress Mary Astor has finally received the Academy Award Oscar she won in 1942 for her supporting performance in The Great Lie.

The fact that she never got it was revealed in her recently-published autobiography, A Life on Film. In the book she said: "Hey, Academy, I would dearly love to have a real Oscar."

Gator Poacher Gets 5½ Years

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A Lake Charles, La., man has been sentenced to almost 5½ years in jail for alligator poaching — the most severe sentence ever imposed for violation of state game laws. The Louisiana wild life and fisheries commission said Wednesday that District Judge Cecil Cutrer of Cameron imposed the sentence on A. J. Caro, convicted of 21 counts of violating state law on taking alligators.

Trio Kills Hot Shot

MANILA (UPI) — Severina Tuason, 48, a former police lieutenant who was the Philippines' "fast draw" champion, Died Thursday in a hail of automatic weapon fire — his .45-calibre pistol still holstered — fired by three men in a moving car.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's answer — An Englishman who writes excellent police-action stories is J. J. Marric when he writes about Gideon and John Creasey when it's Inspector West. West is known as The Toff and Lemmy was Lemaitre, Gideon's longtime righthand man. A grand group.

Today's question gets us back to addresses. In Chicago, the address of 2122 North Clarke Street became famous in the 20th century and the address of 558 West DeKoven became famous in the 19th century. All you have to do is figure out why, in each case. The easy answers Tuesday.

"Just a few letters and postcards for Rowan and Martin, and the rest is junk mail for Sanford and Son."

Saturday Highlights

C-10:00 a.m.—First of the annual parades is the Daffodil affair in Tacoma. Highlights will be shown at 7 p.m. on Channel 4—11.

C-3:00 p.m.—A repeat of Dig, a geology special for children—7, 12.

C-4:30—KTNT starts a Magoo cartoon series—11.

C-6:30—Aquacade in Acapulco features comedians like Tony Randall and a bunch of water performers—7.

C-8:00—All in the Family: rioting Archie goes to jail —7, 12.

Saturday Sport

C-11:00 a.m.—If the strike ends, baseball starts a new season with Detroit at Boston—5. Films are likely.

C-11:00—American Basketball Association playoffs—2, 6, 7, 12.

C-2:00 p.m.—Third day of Masters golf—2, 6, 7, 12.

C-3:00—Films of Seattle's Golden Gloves boxing finals —5.

● C-5:00—Stanley Cup hockey, Boston at Toronto—6, 8.

Saturday Movies

12:00 noon—Hiss the hero and cheer the villain in Brand of the Devil (1944), followed at 1:15 by Spooktown (1941), at 2:30 by Rustlers' Hideout (1944) and at 3:45 by Pinto Bandit (1944). Gollywobbles—13.

C-12:30 noon—Buffalo Bill (1944 Joel McCrea). Fun if not taken seriously and did you hear of the Indian who got a whiff of Buffalo Bill? Gave him a Cody in the nose—4.

1:00 p.m.—Fighting Coast Guard (1951 fizzle), Brian Donlevy. Off we go into the wild green yawnder—11.

2:00—Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever (so-so 1939 Mickey Rooney)—4.

3:00—No title available. May be average at best—2.

3:30—Here Come the Nelsons (1952 Ozzie and Harriet). If Ricky and David turn you on, I'm happy for you —7.

C-8:00—Heroes of Telemark (only fair 1965 war suspense), Kirk Douglas, Michael Redgrave, Richard Harris. So long it becomes boring—6.

● C-8:30—Reluctant Heroes (1971 war comedy-drama), Ken Berry, many more. Not a great film but well acted and neatly written—4.

C-9:00—Raid on Rommel (cheaply made 1970 war action), Richard Burton, John Colicos. Back to Berry's war —5.

9:00—California Passage (1950 western loser), Forrest Tucker—11.

C-9:00—High Society (good 1956 Philadelphia Story musical), Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly. Forget everything but the music, especially Louis Armstrong and Co.—12.

C-9:30—Coogan's Bluff (1968 McCloud original), Clint Eastwood, Susan Clark. Dennis Weaver is much better in the role—8.

● C-11:00—Roots of Heaven (excellent 1958 save-elephants drama), Trevor Howard, Errol Flynn, many more. See it—7.

C-11:15—Inside Daisy Clover (1966 soaper), Natalie Wood, Warren Beatty. Miss it — 5.

C-11:20—Coogan's Bluff (see 9:30)—6.

C-11:35—Reap the Wild Wind (1942 De Mille hokum, lots of fun), John Wayne, Ray Milland, Paulette Goddard, Susan Hayward and that great big squid. Sit back and enjoy—12.

C-11:45—Last Time I Saw Paris (soggy 1954 soaper), Liz Taylor, Van Johnson, Donna Reed. This is not the Helen of Troy story—4.

● 12:00—The Pawnbroker (1965 Rod Steiger). One of the finest acting performances in contemporary movies; a tough drama you should see—8.

Saturday Radio

6:00 a.m.—The Grand National steeplechase, live. A film will be on Channel 2 at 2:30 p.m. Sunday—CBU (690).

1:00 p.m.—Bundola's Pandemonium is a new comedy series from UBC—CBU.

2:00—James McCracken in the Metropera, Verdi's Othello—CBU.

7:00—Music Chez Nous, also new, is chamber music—CBU.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

In the play of no-trump contracts it pays to attack the entry of the defender holding the danger suit. However, recognition of this principle is not always enough. Guarding against one danger may well expose declarer to another.

Today's interesting game contract is a fine example of this principle. It was reported to me by Mrs. Roger J. Rickey, popular and successful bridge teacher of Oklahoma City.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of hearts:

South contained himself to open one diamond, holding 20 high card points and, after North's simple raise, lost no time in contracting for the no-trump game.

West led his fourth-best heart and declarer rose with dummy's jack in anticipation. Unfortunately, East covered with the queen and declarer won the trick. Reasoning that West had the length in hearts, declarer correctly concluded that West's only possible entry (the spade king) should be attacked first.

Therefore, declarer crossed to dummy's club king to take the spade finesse. Declarer's fears were justified as West won the spade king and continued hearts. Declarer took comfort in the thought, "At least West's entry is gone and hearts cannot hurt me."

His comfort was short-lived, however, for when West continued another heart to East's nine, declarer was forced to duck. If he didn't West's hearts would still be the threat.

East now scuttled declarer's plan by switching to the club queen! East saw no further hopes in hearts and, having noted West's club ten on the first club lead, wisely played for his only chance to beat the hand.

Regardless of how declarer struggled, he could no longer make the hand. The defense took a spade, a heart, two clubs and a diamond for down one.

How should declarer have played? After the hand is over, declarer's winning play is a simple one. Unfortunately, it is easy for these plays to go unnoticed at the table.

The winning play was to refuse the spade finesse entirely and to make the unusual but effective lead of spades away from the A-Q-J. The routine duck of the heart continuation would now assure the contract.

VESSEL CHARTER
The Fisheries Research Board will charter a vessel of between 35 and 45 ft. in length with an operator to conduct a survey of the flora and fauna of the waters adjacent to the Gulf Islands area of British Columbia.
The charter period will be from 16 May to 29 September, 1972 and is exclusive of all weekends and statutory holidays in that period.
In addition to the operator, good accommodation must be available for three fisheries research board personnel. Occasionally there will be an extra day person aboard.
Vessel to be equipped with standard navigational equipment, a good echo sounder with minimum range of 150 ft., radio telephone and equipment for occasionally fishing a small gillnet and a small otter trawl. A good working area for sorting of samples and storage for scuba diving gear and equipment is required.
Fisheries Research Board will provide propulsion fuel and groceries; all other operating expenses to be paid by owner.
Offer to charter forms may be obtained from the Purchasing Officer, Fisheries Research Board of Canada, Pacific Biological Station, Nanaimo, B.C., and bids must be returned completed by 21 April, 1972.

EXPERIENCED BOATS FOR SALE
Every few years we sell off our fleet of 14 and 16 ft. aluminum boats. They are top quality boats and very expensive when new but now that they are a year or two old we have to replace them to live up to our slogan of "Rent New Boats." We have bought our new fleet — real dandies so you can now buy a real boat from us — like reasonable. Buy it — board it—and let it lead you to the best spots — it's experienced. Phone us for details.

Special Loans
For Homeowners
At Associates
If you're buying your house, you're eligible for a special Homeowner Loan at Associates any time you need cash.
That means we may be able to give you a better deal. Lower rates ... or longer terms ... or even both.
This amount you can borrow is limited only by the equity you have in your home. $5,000, $10,000 maybe $25,000 or more. So if you have high-interest debts outstanding, or if you need cash for a second car, a boat or any other good reason, talk to Associates about a low-interest Homeowner Loan. See how much better off you'll be — long-term.

HENRY FORD SPECIAL — $22,400
Maybe your invention will catch on like the Model T. You'll certainly have the room to build it in a roomy 600 sq. ft. heated shop. The shop sits behind a well-designed 3 or 4 bedroom, full bsmt. bungalow. Ideal location too — less than 5 blks. to schools. Simpsons-Sears and parks. Want more? IT'S A BREEZE TO FINANCE WITH LOW DOWN.

EXCEPTIONAL
NEW LISTING
$77,500

This is one of the most original and well designed homes that I have had the pleasure of offering you. It is built TOWARDS THE WATERFRONT and FOR THE WATERFRONT . . . a woodsy British Columbia dream house of outstanding quality. It was custom-built in 1970 with no expense spared in constructing a home that requires the MINIMAL OF MAINTENANCE, while allowing the outdoors, the sea, the Islands to be almost part of the indoor scene . . . a house that truly nestles into the landscape. There are 2600 sq. ft. on three levels — every foot designed for ease and comfort where the family can enjoy the best of two worlds — their boat moored in the bay (steps lead down to the beach) — school within walking distance — university near — downtown in 15 minutes.

BREATHTAKINGLY BEAUTIFUL

by day and by night! Breathlessly quiet, in a setting of evergreen splendor yet a sweeping view and hardly a breeze; that's this nearly half acre property just outside the 6 mile circle. The residence, custom built with impeccably good taste in design and layout, artisan finished worthy of the site and design; it has a gracious entrance, wide and luxuriously carpeted. Along this hall to the right the master suite; but before your eyes is the beautiful living room with 26 feet of glass to the entrancing view. It's Cherry panelled with a floor-to-ceiling stone fireplace. There's 12 ft. of wall custom designed for books and show pieces. The lovely Tongue and Groove Cedar ceiling was hand rubbed to a mellow gleam. Lighting is two-way indirected behind the drape Valance. A 6'6" built-in buffet features the dining area. Over 600 sq. ft. of sundeck extends across the view side and wraps around the kitchen. There's wrought iron railing and over-size glass doors giving access from Living rm., Kitchen and Master Bedroom. The Cherry panelled Master suite includes lge. 4-piece bathroom, over 9 ft. of vanity with huge folding mirror for grooming and softly colored fixtures; 2 separate closets and wall-to-wall carpeting. The Kitchen is superb with quality finish, hidden hardware, built-in dishwasher and a Cherry panelled breakfast area. Kitchen, all bathrooms and utility have dropped ceilings with indirect lighting. The gib utility room is well designed with separate freezer room and separate Lavatory and access to the sundeck as well as tradesmens' entrance. The lower level has two lovely bedrooms, big 4-pce. bathroom and a beautiful family room with huge windows, sliding glass to the lawn, a bar with 220 wiring for summer cook-outs and another stone f.-to-c. fireplace. There's a workshop and excellent storage facilities and wide entrance foyer. In total there's 2720 sq. ft. of accommodation, every room with the fabulous view. Designed for minimum daily upkeep and maintenance, in every way a superb secluded residence in a fine location. Extensive paved driveway with extra parking and attached double carport. Price $58,000. A one of a kind home.

5-MILE CIRCLE
OVER 11 ACRES

This outstanding piece of property must be seen to be appreciated. The lightly treed rolling meadowland presents a beautiful setting for the tastefully modernized 2-bdrm., part basement home. This home and a nearly new stable are siting on a knoll overlooking your own valley. The location would also seem to offer unusual future appreciation. May consider trade for larger operation on Island or in southern B.C.

Seeds: Hurry!

I can't remember when any of our Colonist Free Seed offers has sparked so much interest as our new Kablouna Calendula seeds. The mystery surrounding its origin and parentage — it sprang up spontaneously in an insect-proof cage on a flower seed farm in France — seems to have intrigued the fancy of local flower lovers, and my desk is piled high with questions about this lovely and easy-to-grow flower.

Q—I notice you have called this flower Kablouna, Calendula, Pot Marigold and Scotch Marigold. Which is the correct name? I can find Calendula in my garden book, but none of the other names.

A—The true or bontanical name is Calendula officinalis "Kablouna." In English-speaking countries an affectionate nickname is Scotch Marigold, although the plant doesn't come from Scotland nor is it a true marigold. The name Pot Marigold is in reference to the use of the flower petals in cooking.

Q—Is it an annuul or a perennial.

A—It is technically an annuul, although unusually persistent. It is fairly common, in a mild winter, for the plants to survive and bloom all through the winter and into the following spring.

Q—How does the new Kablouna variety differ from the older Calendulas?

A—The centres of the fully double flowers have a crest of quilled petals or tiny tubes, some dark tipped, some self colored. These are framed by overlapping guard petals creating a lovely effect never before seen in the Calendula race.

A—They grow to about 20 inches, and for a pleasing effect, it is best to space the plants 18 inches apart each way.

Q—Would your new French Calendulas be suitable for growing in a flower bed shaded by trees except for early morning and late afternoon? What kind of soil do they like?

A—The Calendula is an ardent sun-lover, closing its flowers at night and opening at dawn, turning their faces to the sun to follow it in its travel across the heavens, much like a radar scope. The plant is, therefore, a very poor performer in the shade.

It has some preference for a rather gritty loam soil, but it isn't particularly fussy. It seems to appreciate a little dampened peat moss worked into its planting site.

A—Various shades of yellow and orange.

Q—Is it true that the Calendula flower, rubbed on a bee or wasp sting, will neutralize the effect of the sting? I have a bad allergic reaction to such stings.

A—The old herbalists claimed the flower would alleviate the pain of the sting, but I doubt if it would do anything for an allergic reaction. In any case, this was medicine as it was practiced 300 years ago; I a msure your doctor can prescribe a modern and much more effective remedy.

Ants vs. Grasshoppers

By MELVIN MADDOCKS

The Greeks had a word for it — "work," that is. Oddly or not so oddly, the word (ponos) derived from the same root as "suffering." The English work "punishment" is a direct descendant.

In his slightly grim poem to necessity, Works and Days, Hesoid flatly defined happiness as a life free from work.

"Leisure," on the other hand, was a revered word among the Greeks. They regarded leisure not merely as the opposite of work—not just as free time — but as a precondition to becoming fully human.

It was Aesop, a slave, who endorsed the character of the ant. The only Greek, ants were the Spartans. The other Greeks preferred to be grasshoppers, though grasshoppers of the highest order.

Without leisure, Plato and Aristotle argued, one couldn't think about life. Without thinking about life, one couldn't be happy. To the Greeks, it was nearly as simple as that.

Who else has ever classified thinking as a kind of hedonism?

Certainly not North Americans. Until the 1960's at least, North Americans were conspicuously ants — "workaholics," in the term of one self-confessing native. Even rich North Americans felt obliged to work — often twice as hard as poor North Americans, thanks to the twist of the Puritan conscience.

Then there were all those cursed machines a man became geared to, starting with the clock whose dire, hurry-hurry influence was foreseen by a 17th-century poet: "Noble machine, with toothed wheels — Lacerates the day and fragments it into hours . . ."

Nagged by subliminal whispers from Jonathan Edwards, paced by trains, automobiles, and jets, what chance did poor homo americanus have to learn about leisure, to become a grasshopper?

A pretty fair chirping chance, as things have worked out. Turning duty-to-work into duty-to-play latter-day North Americans have become perhaps the first of their race to see pleasure as a moral imperative: Enjoy, or else.

Riva Poor is the author of a book called 4 Days, 40 Hours, subtitled: Reporting a Revolution in Work and Leisure. In effect, Mrs. Poor and her four-day weekers are breaking the fast lockstep which has bound gasping modern man — that sad, sad hustler — to the machines he has invented.

Late reporting on the revolution estimates that in the United States about 1,300 companies, employing about 400,000 workers, are practicing the four-day week. Paint factories, hospitals, banks, police forces — nearly all the participants are postitively aglow about their new dispensation.

Production is up, absenteeism is down. The four-day policemen of Huntington Beach, Calif., are said to average 80 per cent more arrests. How can anybody argue with that?

In fact, the four-day week threatens to become the new evangelism — a solemn ideology, if a mixed up one. A favorite boast of the four-day weeker is that he now has time to mow his lawn and wax his car — to work about the house.

More confucion. The economist Paul A. Samuelson predicts that the four-day week will revolutionize the family structure, allowing, among other things, division of domestic labor.

Meaning: Emancipated man may cease to be ant-in-the-office to become ant-at-home, while emancipated woman will pass him, commuting in the opposite direction.

Will automation produce the three-day week? — and so on, and so on. Tune in around 1984 to find out.

Clearly the short workweek plus a long subscription to the Playboy philosophy of Hugh Hefner is not going to be good enough.

The Spartans, we might do well to remember, went from discipline to decadence — from the leanest Puritanism to the grossest self-indulgence with no stops in between.

Leisure is such a stop. It is not the art of loafing, and certainly not the art of pseudo-work. Perhaps — to go a bit mystic — it is the art of awareness. Leisure at best is a moment fully possessed, when the panicked beat of mortality for once is broken.

The Greeks carved leisure into the faces and very bodies of their statues — a grace beyond technique. It is there for all would-be grasshoppers to study: the art within art.

To be a good grasshopper is as difficult obviously as being a good ant, and that is Aesop's message for today.

James BACON

Coolest cat at Carroll O'Connor's nightclub debut was old Archie Bunker himself. His closest friends were in a state of near panic before Carroll's opening at Harrah's in Reno the other night. Harrah's is too major league to be considered a break-in date and here was Carroll making his first club appearance anywhere. He had even refused a $30,000-a-week booking at, believe it or not, an Elks club in the state of Washington. "I figured I needed the time to work on my act here," said Carroll. Before his first show, he told his agent Jack Gilardi who was there with wife Anette Funicello; "Don't be so nervous. I'm the guy doing the act. They either like it or they don't like it." As it turned out, they liked it.

How could Carroll as Archie in a tuxedo not be liked? His opening monologue is a social commentary a la Will Rogers then he follows with some nostalgic songs of the 30s sung in a surprisingly good voice. The Archie material, written by Carroll and another wild Irishman Pat McCormick, is sharp and manages to offend every ethnic group in the audience. They loved it. Amazingly, Harrah's had all the gambling action in town. As I told Carroll, compulsive gamblers are lovable bigots at heart. He goes into the Riviera in Las Vegas in June and already all the high rollers have made reservations. That's the name of the game.

A very touching thing takes place this week in Las Vegas as Tony Newley's 83-year-old father sees his son perform for the first time on stage at Caesar's Palace. Newley and his father were separated when Tony was a baby. Both parents remarried and Tony grew up and became famous without ever seeing his father.

"All I knew about him was that he had a wife who intercepted every letter I ever wrote to him" says Tony. Then last Christmas Tony sent his father a Christmas card. Some weeks later came a reply from the father — first contact the two had made since Tony was an infant. He recently flew to London to see his father for the first time. The wife who had intercepted all the mail was no longer there. "It was the thrill of my life," Tony says of the reunion.

If anyone suggests that what he has learned from experience is that "you can't trust people," you may be sure that he has shaped his experience to conform to that conclusion.

To me, the most surprising element in that whole Howard Hughes-Clifford Irving imbroglio is that anyone is interested enough in life of that mediocre man who deserves the obscurity he has sought.

Reach for a Life

After slipping off the bank, small child lies in about two feet of water at Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary outside Kingsville, Ont. Unidentified woman reaches for the child, finally plucking her out. But rescuer disappeared before Detroit News photographer James Kilpatrick could get any identification of the woman or child. Kilpatrick was at sanctuary photographing birds.

U.S. Rejects Call for Talks

From UPI, AP

North Vietnam asked the French government Friday to try to persuade the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese charge d'affairs in Paris, Nguyen Tuan Lieu, made the request to France through Herve Alphand, secretary-general of the foreign ministry.

In Washington, U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird accused North Vietnamese troops of "marauding throughout southeast Asia" and said there would be no peace talks until Hanoi pulled its forces out of South Vietnam and the demilitarized zone.

"The enemy has scornfully rejected the American people's patience, restraint and desire for peace. Our patience has been met with propaganda and provocation. Our restraint has been answered by invasion. The enemy has escalated the threat and we are responding. He has dared us to abandon our allies and we will not," Laird said.

Earlier, the United States and South Vietnam turned down a new suggestion by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to resume the talks, saying the communists were trying to secure a military victory and not a negotiated peace.

Almost simultaneously the North Vietnamese military command, in an appeal to its forces disclosed here, called for an all-out effort to "li-

Red Viet Push Gaining Speed

SAIGON — The North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam gained momentum Friday, its troops capturing a major town on the road to Saigon, shelling a city within 15 miles of the capital and opening a fourth front in the Mekong Delta to the south.

The advance continued at a pace as rapid as 15 miles within the past 24 hours at one point north of Saigon despite heavy bombardment by U.S. B-52 Stratofortresses and jet fighter-bombers on each of the fronts.

The U.S. command also said it had removed its self-imposed restrictions on the number of raids by B-52 bombers until the offensive was stopped. More raids were ordered into North Vietnam for the third consecutive day — an action which has not been permitted since 1968.

In Washington Defence Secretary Melvin Laird said the aerial offensive against North Vietnam, now in its second day, would continue until Hanoi pulls its troops back across the demilitarized zone and bargains seriously for peace.

The four areas of major fighting were in the northern province of Quang Tri near the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands and to the north and to the south of Saigon.

The U.S. carrier Constellation arrived from Japan off the coast of North Vietnam Friday, adding its 50 fighter-bombers to those on three other carriers from which attacks on North Vietnam were being launched. Five destroyers shelled the North Vietnamese coast.

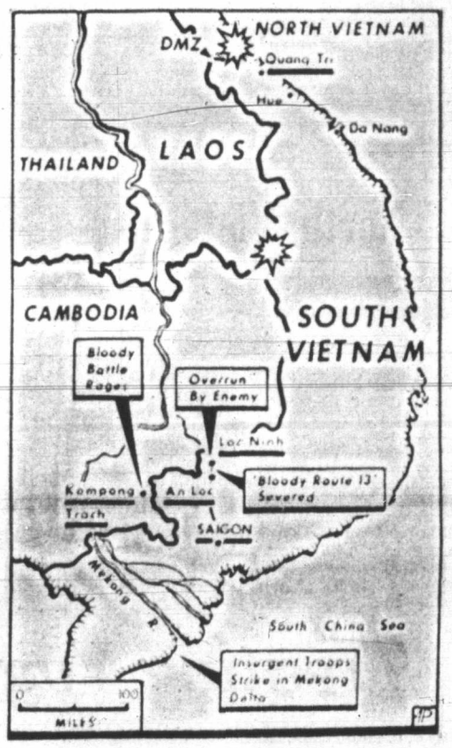

A fifth U.S. aircraft carrier, the Midway, has been ordered to Vietnamese waters. A Navy spokesman said the ship will arrive "within a month," possibly too late to help meet the present crisis.

A U.S. Air Force F-105 fighter-bomber squadron based in Kansas had been sent to the area and others may be on the way.

The North Vietnamese news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi monitored in Tokyo, said North Vietnamese shore batteries had heavily damaged two U.S. warships. U.S. military spokesmen said the destroyer Lloyd Thomas was slightly damaged by an artillery shell and three sailors slightly wounded but they made no mention of a second ship being hit.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong

Skyjacker Leaps With $500,000

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The pilot of a hijacked United Air Lines 727 jetliner said early today that the gunman who commandeered the plane and demanded and got $500,000 and four parachutes bailed out over Provo, Utah, the FBI here said.

An earlier FBI report that the man bailed out over Wilson Creek, Nev., proved false.

A United spokesman in San Francisco, where the hijacker originally forced the plane to land, said: "The hijacker has jumped from the plane in the vicinity of the Provo airport."

The United Spokesman said the crew members aboard the plane had checked and found the hijacker gone. The passengers were allowed to leave the plane in San Francisco.

Harry Nowaskey, night dispatcher for the state highway patrol, said: "As far as we know the pilot feels he (the hijacker) bailed out nine miles southeast of Provo."

The hijacker pressed a pistol to the head of Capt. Gerry Hearn as the 727 jet, United Airlines flight 855, was high over western Colorado en route from Denver to Los Angeles with 95 persons aboard.

Ordered to San Francisco, the plane landed at 4:15 p.m., where it was taxied to a remote runway bordering San Francisco bay.

The hijacker had released all the plane's passengers before ordering the craft to take off from San Francisco, the plane was airborne at 10:41 p.m. EST, heading east and carrying enough fuel for 4,000 miles.

For a time authorities on the ground and passengers on the plane thought there was more than one hijacker. The gunman used a prisoner who was travelling on the plane with a guard as an unwilling accomplice and had him pick up the ransom while the plane was on the ground.

Reuters reported that a parachute was thrown from

Interest Rates, Prices, Wages

Bennett Requests Ottawa Clamps

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Premier Bennett called on the federal government Friday to immediately institute controls on interest rates, prices and wages in Canada.

The request was made in a telegram to Finance Minister John Turner and underlined by the premier at a news conference called Friday afternoon.

The wire to Turner said: "This is to officially advise you the British Columbia government has already put in effect a 6.5-per-cent wage increase ceiling applying immediately to all groups who receive their finances from British Columbia taxpayers.

"Strongly and urgently recommend your government establish immediate curbs on interest, prices and wages in which case British Columbia government would promise its full co-operation."

Bennett told reporters the situation is serious because Canada depends more on export markets than any country in the world. He added if there is a continuation of the present situation, in which there are controls in the U.S. but not in Canada, then this country won't be able to compete in world markets.

Companies would then have to close down and workmen wouldn't only get lower wages, but in some case, no wages at all, the premier said. He said B.C. was trying within its own jurisdiction to protect workers, business people and the consumers.

"Unless we have this kind of controls (in Canada) we will pay for it in hardships later," Bennett said. "Generally governments wait too long before putting the correct policies into effect. Ottawa has already waited too long."

Asked if he was seeking voluntary guidelines on a na-

Cuba's 'Fascist' Charge Denied

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette Friday rejected Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's charges that Montreal police used "brutal and fascist methods" while investigating a bombing at Cuban trade offices Tuesday night.

He also said he is still awaiting federal word on the diplomatic status of six Cubans arrested and charged by Montreal police before deciding whether to drop the charges.

The Quebec justice minister told a news conference he has concluded nothing in the conduct of the Montreal policemen conducting the investigation was reprehensible.

He said he based his conclusions on a report he received Thursday night from the Montreal Urban Community police safety council.

"I concluded that there was no brutality or action which could be characterized as fascist on the part of the Montreal Urban Community8 police," Choquette said.

The bombing took place in an elevator shaft outside the Cuban trade offices in northend Montreal and one Cuban man was killed.

Six Cubans later were arrested and charged with obstructing police following an angry confrontation with police. The men apparently were guarding the Cuban offices.

Public Pay Curbs 'Unfair, Nonsense'

To curb wage increases in the public sector of a province while the private sector enjoys no restrictions is no way to eliminate inflation, a B.C. Government Employees Union official said Friday.

"Public employees should be the last — not the first — to bear the brunt of wage controls, because their wages are running far behind those in the private sector," BCGEU general secretary John Fryer said in a statement released in Vancouver.

Fryer was commenting on a cabinet order approved Thursday which sets a 6.5 per cent public service salary increase guideline for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

"It is simplistic nonsense for a provincial government to pretend that inflation can be curbed by applying wage controls to public employees while there are no restrictions on wages in the private sector or on profits, prices and interest rates," Fryer said.

Speeding Heart Aids Recalled

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The General Electric Co. said Friday it has notified 487 patients who have implanted electrical heart-assisting pacemakers that the devices may have developed a defect that causes them to speed up dangerously.

The firm said the pacemakers were made in a three-month period in mid-1971 and that no other pacemakers made before or after that time are involved. General Electric said all the patients who have pacemakers from that period have been notified of the defect.

General Electric will foot the bills for the implantation of new pacemakers which it will also provide free, a company spokesman said.

The company's big concern was "that we not alarm the big majority of pacemaker patients who aren't affected." He said the plant has produced thousands of the pacemakers and "only 4 per cent of the 487 have shown the operation mode in question."

He said the defective pacemakers could speed past desired levels and "such an event could increase risks to patient health of the typically aged pacemaker patient."

The patients with the possibly defective devices are already scheduling operations, he said, and the company has warned them to take their pulse at least twice a day until they can get new pacemakers.

The company spokesman said he could not say whether any patient has died from the defect or been ill because "that entails a medical question we cannot answer."

Superintendent Looks at January Exam Results

'Campbell River Students Do as Well as Others'

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — Students at the controversial secondary school here "do as well as students at the average non-accredited secondary school," according to a report from the school district superintendent.

The report, from superintendent William Ramsay, summarized the students' results in the January department of education examinations.

The examinations became mandatory last fall when the school's accreditation was withdrawn. Department officials said then that the January results would be an important factor in any decision to return accreditation.

School officials said Friday the final decision on granting accreditation will be made by the department's accreditation committee, and that the examination results would be only a part of the total school operation considered.

School principal John Young, who has rejected a March 21 request for his resignation by the Campbell River school board, said 88 per cent of his students taking the examinations received passing grades.

"The school's performance has always been of the same high order," he said.

"The withdrawal of accreditation was a political move and it will be given back for political reasons."

Ramsay countered by saying the number of students given passing grades by the school was substantially higher in six subjects than the number who actually passed examinations.

Education in B.C.

Conflict Discussed

COURTENAY — Education, its control, and financing from 1945 to the present was the topic of an address by Chris Taylor, former superintendent of administration in the education department who spoke to Rotarians here recently.

The education topic, he said, was always in the minds of many people and especially now because of the current provincial conflict.

The basic problem lies deep in conflict between centralization and control by central authority, the provincial government, Taylor said, and local autonomy and local control within school districts.

"The conflict between those two forces causes the conflict we find ourselves in, he said.

Taylor traced the educational picture from 1945 when Dr. Max Cameron began an inquiry into educational finance which ended up as the widely read Cameron Report, a good deal of which was implemented by the government.

At the time of the inquiry, Taylor said the education picture was in trouble then. There were too many school boards and districts. There were 828 rural school districts of which 301 did not have any schools. The schools in those areas had closed for a variety of reasons and the people where paying school taxes for no school. The remainder of the 527 districts were for a large part paying for one and two-room schools. Children rarely went beyond Grade 8 and the average number of pupils per school was 11.9 per cent.

Only cities had high schools, where the base assessment was high enough to support them." Rural people got little advanced education" Taylor said.

The most effective way to bring in control was by financial restrictions and this is what the government chose to do.

He explained the new finance formula and the new changes in the Public Schools Act.

He called the necessity of going to referendum for teachers wages over the amount set each year by government as "a farce of the way in which normal employer-employee settle wage demands."

He also told the club that he could see no other way for teachers to go than to confront the government.

At one time, Taylor said Cameron had considered advising that the provincial government should run the "whole show" with boards having no real authority. It was by far the simplest way he said.

Cameron, according to Taylor did not choose that plan because he "feared the static, routine, administration of civil servants."

To Miss Olympics

Nicklaus Drops Birdie Putt To Retain Lead in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus retained the lead despite a seven, Sam Snead drifted back in the pack and angry Arnold Palmer again encountered disaster in the windy turbulence of the second round of the Masters golf tournament.

Nicklaus, seeking his fourth Masters title and an unprecedented one-year sweep of all the world's major titles, had to sink a dramatic, downhill birdie putt on the 18th hole to regain a one-stroke lead over Paul Harney at the midpoint of this 36th championship.

Nicklaus, who dropped back into a share of the lead when he took a watery seven on the 15th hole, finished with a 71 and 139, five under par for the tournament.

Harney, a 42-year-old club pro from Sutton, Mass., who got into this event only with a surprise victory at San Diego earlier this year, conquered the baffling winds with a 69 as he charged into position just one stroke back at 140.

The 59-year-old Snead was just one stroke off the pace going into the windy, cool and cloudy day, but could manage only a 74 and was at 144, matching par on the fickle, tricky Augusta National Golf Club course.

And Palmer, a 42-year-old golf giant now troubled by near-sightedness and with a history of bursitis, had all sorts of problems en route to a 75-145.

"It's not one of my happier days," said Palmer, the only man to win this title four times.

He got a controversial and unfavorable ruling on the ninth green. The rules committee didn't decide it until he was ready to tee off on the 12th — and when Palmer saw the decision for one-over-par go up on the scoreboard, he promptly took a three-over-par six. It was the second time in less than a week he has all but destroyed his hopes in that fashion.

Bert Yancey, a tour regular who admits he has an obsession with this tournament, moved into third place with a 69 for 141.

Also carding a 69, the best score of the day, was Roberto de Vicenzo, who lost the coveted green jacket here two years ago, due to a scoring error. He is at 144 with Snead, Lanny Wadkins, Jerry Heard and Steve Melnyk.

Billy Casper improved five strokes from an opening 76 and was seven strokes behind Nicklaus going into today's third round. Gary Player took a 75 for 148.

Among 35 golfers failing to qualify for the final 36 holes was U.S. Amateur champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, the only Canadian in the tournament. He soared to an 82 for 158.

Stanley Cup TV Picture Clears

Victoria's Channel 6, previous left out of television planning for the Stanley Cup television planning for the Stanley Cup quarter-finals, got into the picture Friday and will join Vancouver's Channel 8 in showing quarter-finals games involving Canadian clubs.

That means a TV schedule of Boston at Toronto, 5 p.m. today on Channels 6 and 8; a western-division game, 10 a.m. Sunday on Channels 7 and 12; New York at Montreal, 5 p.m. Sunday on Channels 6 and 8; Toronto at Boston, 5 p.m. Tuesday on Channels 6 and 8.

In addition, Channels 6 and 8 will have a quarter-finals game at 5 p.m. Thursday from Montreal or Toronto and there may be two quarter finals games Sunday, April 16, on CBS in the morning and CTV in the afternoon. Sunday's New York-Montreal game will also be on CBU radio (690).

Channel 6 is affiliated with both the CBC and CTV networks. When the quarter-finals were transferred to CTV from CBC during this week's TV hockey crisis, the CBC at first declined to free its affiliates from regular program obligations. Friday, the CBC changed its mind and Channel 6 snapped up the chances to make Stanley Cup viewing Victoria-wide.

Medicine Hat Snipers Dominated Scoring

Lysiak

Donaldson

Medicine Hat Tigers had the top scorer and the highest-scoring line in the Western Canada Hockey League this season.

Official scoring statistics have confirmed centre Tom Lysiak as the scoring champion. Lysiak, in his second season with the Tigers, compiled 143 points in 68 games, including a leading 93 assists.

McDonald had 114 points, including 50 goals, and tied New Westminster Bruin captain Lorne Henning for seventh place. Kuntz finished 14th in scoring, with 100 points, including 49 goals.

Despite Lysiak's achievements, he was well off the league record of 168 points, set in the 1967-68 season by Bobby Clarke of the Flin Flon Bombers.

TIED FOR THIRD

Stan Weir of Medicine Hat placed second in scoring with 133 points while Blaine Stoughton of Flin Flon and Robbie Neale of Brandon Wheat Kings tied for third place with 126 points each.

TOP ROOKIE

Dennis Sobchuk of Regina Pats, fourth in scoring with 123 points, was the highest-scoring rookie in the 12-team circut.

PENALTY LEADER

Defenceman Phil Russell of Edmonton Oil Kings was the penalty leader with 331 minutes, two short of the record set by Craig Reichmuth of Flin Flon in 1967-68. Bob Gassoff of Medicine Hat was second with 314 minutes.

Pee Wee Braves Out of Tourney

NORTH VANCOUVER — Saanich Braves were eliminated from the North Shore pee wee hockey tournament Friday when North Kamloops rallied for a 3-1 victory in a quarter-final game.

Saanich, which led 1-0 after one period on a goal by Jack Wallace, gave up a goal in the second in the second period and two more in the third.

Saanich was the last Vancouver Island representative in the 32-team, seven-day tournament which concludes Sunday.

Former Pitcher Dies at 73

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Alvin Floyd Crowder, 73, former major league baseball pitcher has died here after being stricken ill at his home.

Crowder, who won 167 games in his 14-year major league career which spanned the mid-1920s and '30s, pitched for Washington Senators, Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.

Series Even

PENTICTON (CP) — Vernon Essos stormed back to down Penticton Broncos, 4-2, and even their best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Hockey League finals at 3-3 before 2600 fans Thursday night.

Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund Nears its Objective

The Kiwanis Fund Raising Campaign for the purchase of a heart lung machine for the Royal Jubilee Hospital Heart Surgery Unit is nearing its $14,500 goal.

We are now at the $12,400 mark, made up of contributions from thoughtful, concerned people in this community. It will take little more than $2,000 to reach the purchase price of the machine.

All advertising has been at the expense of the Kiwanis Club; accounting has been donated by Touche Ross & Co. This final appeal, in hopes of a public response that will bring us to the $14,500 total, is made through courtesy of Miss Frith Fashions.

Donations are tax deductible. Mail or bring yours to Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund, 221 Linden; Royal Jubilee Hospital Heart Surgery Unit; or to me, Wynn Sinclair, Chairman of the Kiwanis Heart Equipment Fund, Miss Frith Fashions, 1619 Douglas Street.

I would like to express my warm personal thanks to those who have given so generously. It is now time to make that final effort for the full amount needed to purchase the heart lung machine. It is because of this equipment which YOU have provided, that Victoria and Royal Jubilee Hospital has been considered ready to offer open heart surgery.

The benefits will be far-reaching in this Vancouver Island area. The anxiety of heart patients will be greatly alleviated through knowledge that the equipment now available will provide them with the best possible care.

It is comforting to know this care is near at hand and available for loved ones; and remember, the heart you save may be your own.

NEOPRENE-HYPALON* (DUPONT TRADEMARK)

- Kit covers up to 250 sq. ft.
- Grey, Green, Gold
- 2½ gal. Neoprene tough rubber base
- 2½ gal. Hypalon
- 1 gal. Special Thinner
- 2 rolls Fiberglas joint tape
- 25 lbs. silica granules for non-slip surface

We believe that a Neoprene/Hypalon combination gives superior waterproofing and longer life than the use of Hypalon alone as in so-called "one can" systems. The Neoprene provides a tough, resilient base coat, and Hypalon gives the hard-wearing finish.

Come in and let us show you how to do it yourself. Easy step-by-step instruction sheets available.

Quadra Islander Confesses

Bank Robber-Addict Nabbed by Police

A 33-year-old admitted heroin user will be sentenced April 19 in Victoria Provincial Court after admitting he staged two recent holdups that brought him a total of $766, which apparently has all been spent.

The man, Robert Charles Grant of Quadra Island, who was arrested Wednesday in Campbell River by RCMP after Victoria police issued a theft warrant, pleaded guilty Friday to two robbery charges and was remanded to April 19 by Judge William Ostler for a pre-sentence report.

Grant admitted taking $616 March 24 from teller Joyce Copeman at the Canadian-Imperial Bank of Commerce, 752 Goldstream in Langford, and $150 March 28 from office worker Noreen Campbell in the Victel Credit Union, 727 Johnson.

In both cases, he presented a note using printing and the words "holdup" and "big bills," but did not show a gun or threaten violence. However, his use of the word "holdup" was described by the judge as a threat of violence sufficient to support a robbery charge.

One of two policemen who testified about the charges said Grant told police he has a heroin habit and uses one $20 capsule a day. Both said no money was recovered when Grant was arrested.

Grant told Ostler he had used heroin for five years "off and on" but was not addicted until "I lost my wife" last September.

"I just used the heroin as a crutch," he said.

Ostler wanted a pre-sentence report because Grant had a "substantial" criminal record from 1958 to 1961 but his only convictions since then were for driving offences.

'Blighty' Dies Amidst Her Friends

By BEA HAMILTON
Colonist Correspondent

FULFORD — Over the Easter weekend Hilda Harraway had picked bunches of daffodils and primroses to distribute amongst the elderly who live alone around Ganges.

Easter Sunday she poned me: "This is old Blighty. I am going out to pick the second lot of primroses — these will be the last."

And they were.

She was found by Mrs. Helen Hippisley, who had been speaking to Hilda soon after 9 a.m. and had decided to pay a neighborly visit to chat over a cup of coffee.

She evidently had been working in the garden, burning off grass, and the fire ran and started burnin ga fence post. Mrs. Harraway must have rushed for the hose and presumably had succumbed to a heart attack. Helen found her at 10 a.m.

Mrs. V. J. (Eleanor Hilda) Harraway was born in 1899 and had spent 30 of her 73 years working for the St. John Ambulance Service and was senior instructor for first aid.

She was instructor in the last war, taking in the medical and Red Cross workers, under the St. John Ambulance badge.

On Salt Spring and the Gulf Islands, she put the RCMP, volunteer firemen and volunteer members of the Salt Spring Lion's Club Ambulance Service and others, through first aid — thoroughly enjoying her work and adored by all.

Mrs. Harraway also instructed B.C. Ferries crews — no one ever failed after her first aid courses and she was always so proud and delighted when her "boys and girls" passed their exams and all with top marks.

Hilda's long service to the St. John cause was recognized in 1967, when she received thanks in a certificate from the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, through the Priory of Canada, "for valuable assistance rendered in the furtherance of the work of the order in connection with the Priory of Canada. Dated at Ottawa, Ontario, the tenth day of February, 1967."

Last year, Mrs. Harraway attended the St. John Ambulance rally in England and told them about the volunteer services donated by the Salt Spring firemen and Lion's Club Ambulance members.

Hilda Harraway

They could hardly believe there were such dedicated men who served the public," she said. She took pictures of the Island and the first aiders in action.

"I really put Salt Spring Island on the English map when they saw the pictures," she said.

She had a wonderful time in England and was preparing to fly to Britain again in May where her brother was to meet her and show her around London and other parts of England. Instead he will be receiving the sad news.

To say Mrs. Harraway will be missed, is putting it mildly —she was so vital and alive and her entushiasm for life communicated itself to all who met her. The elderly will miss her cheery visit and little bunches of primroses and daffodils — usually still wet with dew and smelling of the good brown earth.

Garbage Litters Coast Trail

'Obstacle' Trek Ends

DUNCAN — The first expedition of the year to successfully complete the West Coast Trail decided to rename it "West Coast Obstacle Course" after returning from an eight-day hike.

The 11 Mount Prevost students and their instructor, Peter Smith arrived in Duncan late Thursday night, exhausted but happy.

"We made it through and it can be done with proper preparation," Smith said. We had the right equipment for the coast and more than enough food.

"But it was tough. We were either up to our knees in mud or continually crawling over and under fallen trees. The salal undergrowth is heavy and we were getting caught in it all the time."

The expedition ran into problems on the third day out after a rising creek flooded their camp, forcing them to move in the middle of the night.

"By the next morning some of the boys were showing signs of exposure — They were low in spirits and not wanting to eat. We covered little ground that day," said the instructor.

Another problem one boy encountered was a defectively made pack frame. "Such a cheap frame could be deadly on this trip. I would like to see some legislation to insure sturdy metal is used for pack frames," Smith said.

The boys said the worst part of the journey was from Port Renfrew to Nitinat. "Parts of that trip, were, like a bad memory you try and forget," said one student. "But it was worth it. We want to go back again. The scenery is beautiful."

Smith said that apart from the ruggedness of the first half of the journey, the most striking aspect of the trip was the garbage left by other hikers between Nitinat and Bamfield.

"These people pay lip service to pollution and leave their garbage all along the trail. If they don't change we'll soon have forty miles of garbage dump on the west Coast."

Smith said the group had recieved much help from the logging companies who helped get the group to Port Renfrew and from the shantymen who run Camp Ross, near Bamfield where the students spent two nights recovering from the trip and drying out.

Remote Communities Assured Of 'Adequate' Supply Services

Isolated communities on the west coast of Vancouver Island will receive adequate shipping service even though federal subsidies to two shipping companies will end in June, the Canadian transport commission said Friday.

The commission said in Ottawa that it plans to ensure the communities' freighting needs will be served.

Subsidies totalling $350,000 annually are being paid to Northland Navigation Co. Ltd. and Nootka Sound Service Ltd. These payments are scheduled to end June 30.

Nootka Sound Service has announced it plans to continue its operations without subsidies. That means the vessel Uchuk III will continue to visit such ports as Tahsis and Friendly Cove.

The commission said communities depending entirely on the Northland Navigation service would continue to be served.

The commission said it decided to end the subsidies because there was alternative highway transportation to many of the west coast communities on Vancouver Island.

The subsidies began in 1902 when water service was essential to much of the island.

Scavengers Warned:

Tires Deadly

PORT ALBERNI — Tires removed from Dodge Colt cars still aboard the wreck of the freighter Vanlene may end up signing death warrants for those who removed them, RCMP in Port Alberni said Thursday.

A police spokesman said the tires are likely soaked in bunker oil and well on the way to deterioration.

A number of persons who removed items from the grounded freighter Vanlene have made customs declarations, RCMP also said.

The 8,500-ton Panamanian freighter, with a load of Japanese cars, went aground at the mouth of Barkley Sound on the west coast of the Island March 14.

Police warned that scavengers faced customs penalties and police action but said no charges had been laid.

Family Takes Fishing Fleet to Lunch—Every Day

By LYNNE ARMSTRONG
Colonist Correspondent

NANAIMO — Many restaurants advertise home cooked food and a family atmosphere but when you get right down to it, what you receive is an assembly linemeal served by harried waitresses. Not so at the Marina Chowder House.

The fact that owners Aurel Leblond and his wife Alida are French Canadian and the location on the waterfront probably makes the difference.

The Marina Chowder House is the unofficial boardroom or meeting place for Nanaimo's fishing fleet members.

Starting at seven in the morning from October through April the small place is the centre for talks on new electronics for the ocean going boats, new vessels, highlights of the past season, new developments in the industry and who said what to whom at the Pacific Trollers Association dance.

Fishermen don't have offices outside their boats so the Chowder House is where sale of gear sometimes take place, where deckhands get hired and where more than one multi-thousand dollar sale of a boat has been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Leblond make it easy for the fishermen to gather at their place. It seems like it's their house and you're just dropping in for a cup of coffee and a chat.

When things get busy the Leblonds and their daughter Michelle toss orders to each other in French adding a little bit to the chaos of 20 hungry fishermen trying to get lunch at the same time.

The three Leblond's are bilingual and Mrs. Leblond says that many of the fishermen try their French out.

Alida serves customer Chester Cootes

B.C. coast weather first attracted the Leblond's to this part of the country. On the second day here, four years ago Mrs. Leblond stopped for coffee at the Chowder House and asked the owner if the place was for sale.

It was and they were in business.

They had owned a small restaurant in the Chateau Gai suburb of Montreal and had both been cooks on a newsprint freighter travelling the Great Lakes so they were not new to the food business.

It's hard to say if Mrs. Leblond is a good cook simply because she is French, or just a good cook who happens to be French but some of her meals are quite fantastic.

The silverware and crockery aren't fancy but the clam chowder is a delight to those who collect great clam chowder experiences.

Mrs. Leblond has been offered money for the recipe but won't part with it. Besides, it would seem out of character served at any other place.

She likes to cook as if she is cooking for herself and her family. Sometimes people from uptown will give her a call a few hours in advance and she will prepare something special.

Generally the fishermen sit at the Stewart Avenue side of the little restaurant and strangers sit in the back room that has a view of Brechin Channel and boats of three marinas.

The Leblonds have added a heavy duty carpet to the place, serviceable for heavy work shoes, a chandelier in the back room for "the strangers", some panelling and a few pictures.

Plans for this year are to build booths but it will almost be a shame to see the tables and unmatched chairs go.

So if you want to learn how to troll for the elusive salmon 60 miles off the coast or have a great bowl of clam chowder or just get away from plastic restaurants where the food all tastes the same, bring your high school French to the Chowder House.

U.S. Rejects Call for Talks

From UPI, AP

North Vietnam asked the French government Friday to try to persuade the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese charge d'affairs in Paris, Nguyen Tuan Lieu, made the request to France through Herve Alphand, secretary-general of the foreign ministry.

In Washington, U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird accused North Vietnamese troops of "marauding throughout southeast Asia" and said there would be no peace talks until Hanoi pulled its forces out of South Vietnam and the demilitarized zone.

"The enemy has scornfully rejected the American people's patience, restraint and desire for peace. Our patience has been met with propaganda and provocation. Our restraint has been answered by invasion. The enemy has escalated the threat and we are responding. He has dared us to abandon our allies and we will not," Laird said.

Earlier, the United States and South Vietnam turned down a new suggestion by the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to resume the talks, saying the communists were trying to secure a military victory and not a negotiated peace.

Almost simultaneously the North Vietnamese military command, in an appeal to its forces disclosed here, called for an all-out effort to "li-

Red Viet Push Gaining Speed

SAIGON — The North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam gained momentum Friday, its troops capturing a major town on the road to Saigon, shelling a city within 15 miles of the capital and opening a fourth front in the Mekong Delta to the south.

The advance continued at a pace as rapid as 15 miles within the past 24 hours at one point north of Saigon despite heavy bombardment by U.S. B-52 Stratofortresses and jet fighter-bombers on each of the fronts.

The U.S. command also said it had removed its self-imposed restrictions on the number of raids by B-52 bombers until the offensive was stopped. More raids were ordered into North Vietnam for the third consecutive day — an action which has not been permitted since 1968.

In Washington Defence Secretary Melvin Laird said the aerial offensive against North Vietnam, now in its second day, would continue until Hanoi pulls its troops back across the demilitarized zone and bargains seriously for peace.

The four areas of major fighting were in the northern province of Quang Tri near the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands and to the north and to the south of Saigon.

The U.S. carrier Constellation arrived from Japan off the coast of North Vietnam Friday, adding its 50 fighter-bombers to those on three other carriers from which attacks on North Vietnam were being launched. Five destroyers shelled the North Vietnamese coast.

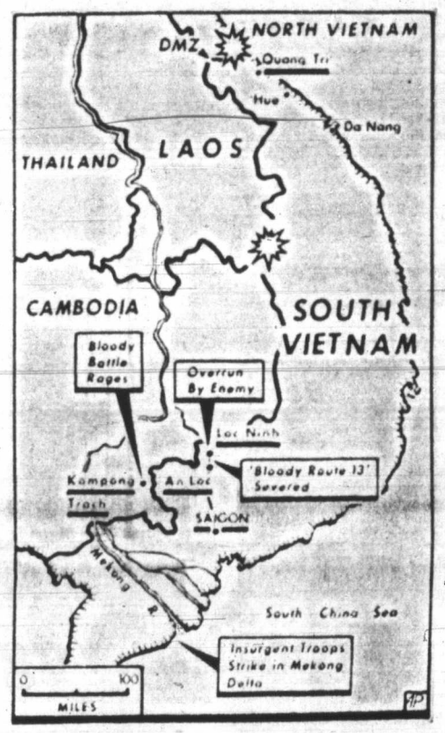

A fifth U.S. aircraft carrier, the Midway, has been ordered to Vietnamese waters. A Navy spokesman said the ship will arrive "within a month," possibly too late to help meet the present crisis.

A U.S. Air Force F-105 fighter-bomber squadron based in Kansas had been sent to the area and others may be on the way.

The North Vietnamese news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi monitored in Tokyo, said North Vietnamese shore batteries had heavily damaged two U.S. warships. U.S. military spokesmen said the destroyer Lloyd Thomas was slightly damaged by an artillery shell and three sailors slightly wounded but they made no mention of a second ship being hit.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong

Skyjacker Leaps With $500,000

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The pilot of a hijacked United Air Lines 727 jetliner said early today that the gunman who commandeered the plane and demanded and got $500,000 and four parachutes bailed out over Provo, Utah, the FBI here said.

An earlier FBI report that the man bailed out over Wilson Creek, Nev., proved false.

A United spokesman in San Francisco, where the hijacker originally forced the plane to land, said: "The hijacker has jumped from the plane in the vicinity of the Provo airport."

The United Spokesman said the crew members aboard the plane had checked and found the hijacker gone. The passengers were allowed to leave the plane in San Francisco.

Harry Nowaskey, night dispatcher for the state highway patrol, said: "As far as we know the pilot feels he (the hijacker) bailed out nine miles southeast of Provo."

The hijacker pressed a pistol to the head of Capt. Gerry Hearn as the 727 jet, United Airlines flight 855, was high over western Colorado en route from Denver to Los Angeles with 95 persons aboard.

Ordered to San Francisco, the plane landed at 4:15 p.m., where it was taxied to a remote runway bordering San Francisco bay.

The hijacker had released all the plane's passengers before ordering the craft to take off from San Francisco. the plane was airborne at 10:41 p.m. EST, heading east and carrying enough fuel for 4,000 miles.

For a time authorities on the ground and passengers on the plane thought there was more than one hijacker. The gunman used a prisoner who was travelling on the plane with a guard as an unwilling accomplice and had him pick up the ransom while the plane was on the ground.

Reuters reported that a parachute was thrown from

Bennett Requests Ottawa Clamps

● Gas leads prices hike. Page 18

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Premier Bennett called on the federal government Friday to immediately institute controls on interest rates, prices and wages in Canada.

The request was made in a telegram to Finance Minister John Turner and underlined by the premier at a news conference called Friday afternoon.

The wire to Turner said: "This is to officially advise you the British Columbia government has already put in effect a 6.5-per-cent wage increase ceiling applying immediately to all groups who receive their finances from British Columbia taxpayers.

"Strongly and urgently recommend your government establish immediate curbs on interest, prices and wages in which case British Columbia government would promise its full co-operation."

Bennett told reporters the situation is serious because Canada depends more on export markets than any country in the world. He added if there is a continuation of the present situation, in which there are controls in the U.S. but not in Canada, then this country won't be able to compete in world markets.

Companies would then have to close down and workmen wouldn't only get lower wages, but in some case, no wages at all, the premier said. He said B.C. was trying within its own jurisdiction to protect workers, business people and the consumers.

"Unless we have this kind of controls (in Canada) we will pay for it in hardships later," Bennett said. "Generally governments wait too long before putting the correct policies into effect. Ottawa has already waited too long."

Asked if he was seeking voluntary guidelines on a na-

Cuba's 'Fascist' Charge Denied

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette Friday rejected Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's charges that Montreal police used "brutal and fascist methods" while investigating a bombing at Cuban trade offices Tuesday night.

He also said he is still awaiting federal word on the diplomatic status of six Cubans arrested and charged by Montreal police before deciding whether to drop the charges.

The Quebec justice minister told a news conference he has concluded nothing in the conduct of the Montreal policemen conducting the investigation was reprehensible.

He said he based his conclusions on a report he received Thursday night from the Montreal Urban Community police safety council.

"I concluded that there was no brutality or action which could be characterized as fascist on the part of the Montreal Urban Community8 police," Choquette said.

The bombing took place in an elevator shaft outside the Cuban trade offices in north-end Montreal and one Cuban man was killed.

Six Cubans later were arrested and charged with obstructing police following an angry confrontation with police. The men apparently were guarding the Cuban offices.

Speeding Heart Aids Recalled

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The General Electric Co. said Friday it has notified 487 patients who have implanted electrical heart-assisting pacemakers that the devices may have developed a defect that causes them to speed up dangerously.

The firm said the pacemakers were made in a three-month period in mid-1971 and that no other pacemakers made before or after that time are involved. General Electric said all the patients who have pacemakers from that period have been notified of the defect.

General Electric will foot the bills for the implantation of new pacemakers which it will also provide free, a company spokesman said.

The company's big concern was "that we not alarm the big majority of pacemaker patients who aren't affected." He said the plant has produced thousands of the pacemakers and "only 4 per cent of the 487 have shown the operation mode in question."

He said the defective pacemakers could speed past desired levels and "such an event could increase risks to patient health of the typically aged pacemaker patient."

The patients with the possibly defective devices are already scheduling operations, he said, and the company has warned them to take their pulse at least twice a day until they can get new pacemakers.

The company spokesman said he could not say whether any patient has died from the defect or been ill because "that entails a medical question we cannot answer."

Public Pay Curbs 'Unfair, Nonsense'

To curb wage increases in the public sector of a province while the private sector enjoys no restrictions is no way to eliminate inflation, a B.C. Government Employees Union official said Friday.

"Public employees should be the last — not the first — to bear the brunt of wage controls, because their wages are running far behind those in the private sector," BCGEU general secretary John Fryer said in a statement released in Vancouver.

Fryer was commenting on a cabinet order approved Thursday which sets a 6.5 per cent public service salary increase guideline for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

"It is simplistic nonsense for a provincial government to pretend that inflation can be curbed by applying wage controls to public employees while there are no restrictions on wages in the private sector or on profits, prices and interest rates," Fryer said.

Fryer, a graduate of the London School of Economics and former research director for the Canadian Labor
